Himmelberger-Harrison begins major expansion

MOREHOUSE – Himmelberger-Harrison Manufacturing Co. has begun construction of a new building to replace the firm's existing facility on the north side of the Missouri-Pacific railroad tracks.

The new metal building, located next to the existing plant, "will be one of the newest, most modern wood working plants in the area," according to plant manager Field Jones.

Morehouse voters will be asked to approve a $2.5 million industrial revenue bond issue on Aug. 30. The bond issue will not obligate the city should the firm default and will not raise taxes. It is a method of financing that allows the company to obtain money at a lower interest rate than if the money were borrowed from a bank.

The new plant will be equipped with modernized equipment, including automated rough mill equipment for initial woodworking and a new lumber stacker, the latest lumber handling stacking system, Jones said.

Another 20 to 30 employes will be added to the plant once it is in operation, Jones said. He added that there are additional plans for the plant in the future, but said announcement of those would have to wait.

The new facilities will include:

– A 70,000 square foot production area in a metal building. The roof will be nearly free standing with only one row of pillars for support. The foundation of the production area has already been poured. The building will be at Dock height.

– A third kiln for drying lumber will be added to the two kilns already in place.

– A dry lumber storage shed of 25,000 square feet for storing lumber once it leaves the kiln.

– A 10,800 square foot office area, lunch room, maintance shop and warehouse.

–A dock siding and rail siding that can load one truck and one rail car or two trucks at the same time.

– A 500,000 gallon resevoir of drinkable water that will be the plant's backup fire protection. It will be in a covered metal shed located behind the plant. The firm will make 100,000 gallons of the water available for the city.

– A new boiler with a new dust collection system and smokestack approved by the EPA. The boiler will burn the plant waste to heat the plant and the kilns.

– A 50-foot silo for sawdust storage and a conveyor belt to feed the boiler automatically.

Most of the existing structures at the plant will be torn down and the site used for lumber storage, Jones said.

Holman Construction Co. of Sikeston is general contractor for the production area, dry shed and reservoir. Industrial Boiler Co. of Atlanta, Ga., will supply the boiler system.

The new plant should be in operation sometime this winter, Jones said.

The Himmelberger-Harrison plant is owned by the Rowe Furniture Co. of Salem, Va. and supplies upholstered furniture frames to the Rowe plants in Salem and Poplar Bluff. It also supplies the Rowe table plant in Los Angeles, Calif. with oak and elm lumber.

In addition, the plant sells dimensioned lumber to outside customers, Jones said. Dimensioned lumber is unfinished frame or table parts.

The plant is supplies with lumber from sawmills within a 200 mile radius. The lumber is air dried and kiln dried before being worked into furniture parts.

The plant currently employes 110 workers.

Child on bike hits car

A Sikeston Route Three boy, Christopher L. Menken, 7, was injured at about 7 p.m. Saturday when his bicycle collided with a car driven by William E. Sullivan, 57, of 815 Wayne St.

The boy was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Ruth and Branum streets when, according to an officer of the Department of Public Safety, the bicyclist ran a stop sign and ran into the car.

The car driver was northbound on Branum Street and the boy was riding west on Ruth Street at the time of the incident.

Smith to speak at PCA meeting

Dr. J.N. Smith of Springfield will be the guest speaker at the 44th annual meeting of the Sikeston Production Credit Association Aug. 4. The meeting will be at the Sikeston High School bank shell, starting at 7 p.m.

Smith is a supporter of the Farm Credit System and has become an authority on farm cooperatives. He is professor of agriculture at Southwest Missouri State University. He received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

At this year's annual meeting, PCA members will elect two directors since the three year terms of present directors Ray Fowler of New Madrid, and Louis Kalkbrenner of Poplar Bluff will expire. The nominating committee has placed the names of Fowler and Bill Fortner on the ballot for New Madrid County and Kalkbrenner and Virgil Wagner on the ballot for Butler County.

Special reports on the financial condition of the association and cost of money to PCA members will be given. Awards and length-of-service pins will be given to employes and directors.

Marijuana plants found

Officers of the Sikeston Department of Public Safety found 60 marijuana plants in a culvert in St. John's Ditch about 8:30 Saturday morning.

The officers were informed of the location of the plants by an unidentified citizen.

Someone entered the Jim E. Moore residence, 111 Link Drive, sometime after midnight Friday, by kicking out a panel of a garage side door. Nothing was taken in the break-in, but damage by vandalism was estimated at $180. A dresser top and a glass pciture frame were broken and the door was damaged.

D & S Feed Co., 420 W. North St. reported the theft of $65 in bills and $15 in change from a cash register at noon Thursday. The building was locked and the method of entry has not been determined.

A 1968 model-pickup truck owned by Charles D. Todd, 311 Matthews St. that was apparently stolen sometime after 10:30 p.m. Friday was recovered in Trenton, Tenn. The truck had been parked in front of Todd's home with the keys in it.

Frankie Tillman, 355 Magnolia St., was fined $110 Thursday in City Court for petit larceny.

12 Hanafis convicted for Washington seige

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve Hanafi Moslems were convicted Saturdah for thei roles in the seige of three Washington buildings last March when one person tas killed and more than 140 persons were held hostage before three Moslem ambassadors negotiated a surrender.

Hanafi leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was convicted of second-degree murder, 24 counts of armed kidnaping, assault, and conspirecy to commit armed kidnaping. His 11 followers wer found guilty of kidnapming and two of them were convicted with Khaalis of the second-degree murder of Maurice Williams, a radio newsman killed in the Hanafi takeover of Washington's city hall.

The all-black jury of 10 men and two women deliberated 19 hours before bringing in its verdict at the end of an eight-week trial. D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio Jr. set sentencing for Sept. 6.

All told, the Hanafis were found guilty on 139 of the 373 counts listed in the indictment.

Elevn defendants were tried on a total of 31 counts each and the 12th defendant was charged on 32 counts. Khaalis, charged with 31 counts, was convicted on 29 charges.

Each of the other defendantswas convicted of conspiracy to commit armed kidnaping and at least eight counts of armed kidnaping in the buildings where they ectually had held hostages.

But all of Khaalis' 11 followers were exonerated of assault and kidnap charges based on events at other buildings where they were not present.

The siege began late the morning of March 9, when Khaalis led six other Hanafis into the headquarters of the Jewish service organization and seized more than 100 hostages.

Within two hours, 11 more hostages had been taken by three Hanafis at the Islamic Center, an embassy row mosque. And by mid-afternoon, two other Hanafis had taken over part of the District Building.

A few hostges suffering injuries or medical problems were released from each site before the siege was over. But most were held until early March 11.

Attorneys appointed for 2 murder suspects

CHARLESTON— Strict security measures were imposed by the Mississippi County Sheriff's Department Friday when the Tatum brothers, Frankie, 24, and Jimmy, 18, of Anniston, appeared for brief arraignment proceedings on capital murder and first degree murder charges respectively in Magistrate Court before Judge Clifton Banta Jr.

The two are accused in the brutal stabbing death on July 14 of Mrs. Mary Helen Finley, 44, of rural Charleston, whose body was found the following morning about four miles east of Charleston.

Escorted to court under heavy guard, both defendants were handcuffed. The older brother's hands were bound with handcuffs that were attached to a restraining belt as an added safety precatuion.

Onlookers crowded the courthouse halls and as spectators prepared to enter the courtroom each was searched for weapons by sheriff's deputies.

Both defendants remained straight faced and showed little or no emotion as the charges were read against each of them during the court proceedings which only took about five minutes. A slight nervousness was detected in Frankie Tatum's voice when he hesitantly responded to questions concerning his ability to obtain counsel.

Judge Banta appointed two Sikeston attorneys to defend the accused separately upon finding them to be indigent.

No date was set for preliminary hearings on the charges Friday, but the cases were continued until Thursday to allow the defendants time to confer with their attorneys.

Frankie Tatum, whose arrest was made in less than seven hours following the discovery of the slain woman's body, is under $1 million bond on the capital murder charge.

Bond for Jimmy Tatum is set at $100,000. He was taken into custody at 8:25 p.m. in Anniston on July 16.

Mrs. Finley, wife of Freeman Finley, a Mississippi County farmer, and the mother of three sons, was apparently abducted from her bicycle as she was returning home about dusk from an errand to a grocery store.

The bicycle was found that night about 200 yards from the family home located on Route One, about one mile east of Charleston.

2 Vanduser boys seriously hurt

Two young Vanduser boys were seriously injured and three persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents Friday and Saturday, according to the highway patrol.

A two-car accident at 5:25 p.m. Friday at the junction of Highways 61 and 77 in Scott County caused serious injuries to two persons and minor injuries to both drivers.

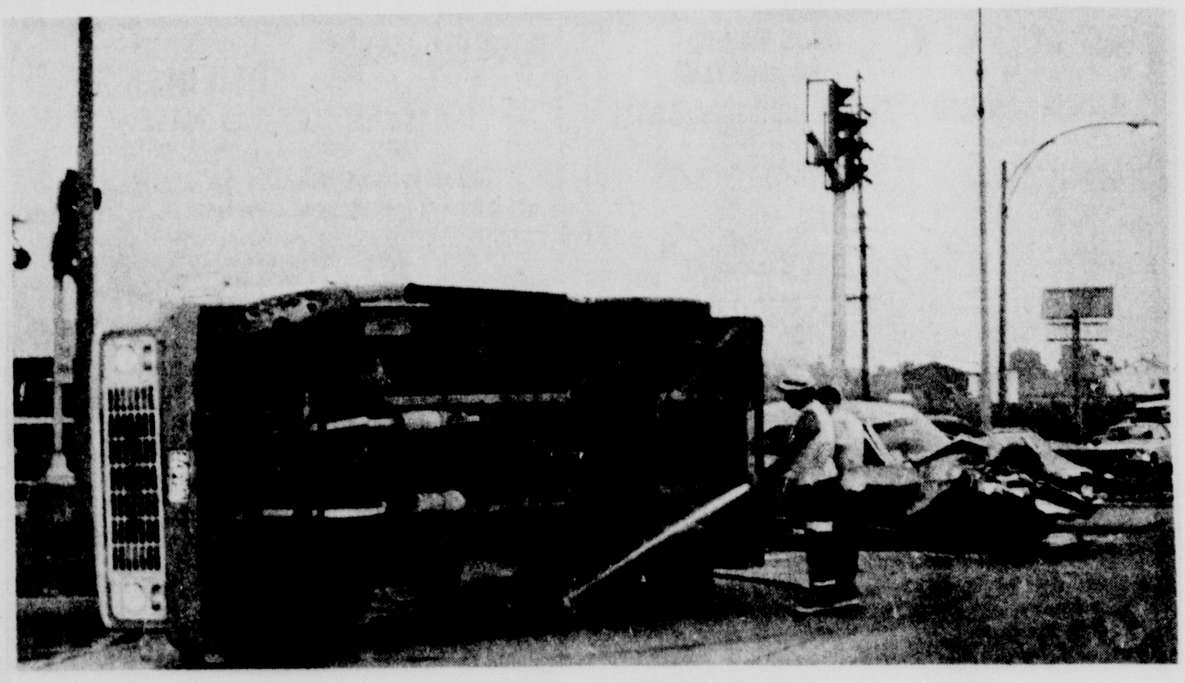
The accident occurred when a car driven north on Highway 61 by Linda Jean Taylor, 29, of Oran, turned left onto Highway 77 into the path of a southbound car driven by Mary Alice Todd, 29, of Vanduser.

Paul Dwaine Todd, 8, and Tony Roy Todd, 11, were seriously injured and the Todd woman received minor injuries. They were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. The Taylor woman was taken to St. Francis Medical Center at Cape Girardeau for treatment of minor injuries.

A one-car accident at 3 a.m. Saturday on Route 25, four miles north of Advance caused minor injuries to the driver.

Ralph Evers, 48, of Advance apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his westbound car, which crossed the centerline, struck a bridge and went down an embankment.

Evers was treated and released at St. Francis Medical Center at Cape Girardeau.



Woman hurt in 3-vehicle crash

A South Bend, Ind. woman, Maria Vasquaz, 23, was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community Hospital Saturday morning for injuries received in a three-vehicle accident that occurred at 5:36 a.m. at the intersection of Highways 60 and 61 in New Madrid County near the Holiday Inn. A Foremost Dairy truck of Paragould, Ark., left, driven south on Highway 61 by Larry S. Margrabe, 26, of 800 Pine St., and a westbound car driven by Juan Vasquaz, 24, of South Bend, Ind., traveling on Highway 60, collided. It was not known who had the right-of-way. The Vasquaz car, right, was towing another car at the time of the collision and the car being towed jackknifed and hit the Vasquaz car exploding the gas tank. Firemen were called to the scene and extinguished the blaze. (Daily Standard photo)

Woman held in shooting

CHARLESTON – Carl Michael Thurmond, in his early 30s , of Charleston is in satisfactory condition at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston after allegedly being shot three times by a 44-year-old Charleston woman, Alice Mims, of 1000 Locust St., who has been charged with assault with a dangerous and deadly weapon.

The shooting occurred at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Oliver Williams home, located about a half mile east of town.

Thurmond, his wife, the Mims woman and another man, who was not identified, had gone to the Williams house Saturday morning, according to Sheriff Norris Grissom, who said Thurmond and the Mims woman apparently became involved in a dispute.

She allegedly fired a .22 caliber pistol eight times with Thurmond being struck once in the right arm, once in the right side and once in the right thigh. Grissom said no other persons were injured.

The woman is being held in Mississippi County jail under $2,500 bond.

At the movies

"NEW YORK, NEW YORK" succeeds in capturing the sounds, styles and mood of the big-band era following World War II. It fails in achieving workable scenes — the actors seem to be making up their own dialogue — or audience interest in the declining marriage of a saxophonist and a band singer. Liza Minnelli is in splendid voice and creates sympathy as the patient wife. Robert DeNiro continues the same unexplained violence of "Taxi Driver." If the drama, particularly in the dumb ending, had matched the quality of the music, "New York, New York" would be something to sing about. Rated PG.

"EXORCIST II: THE HERETIC" is the season's best argument against the coming flood of sequels. It is a total botch, mixing religious mumbo-jumbo with scientific nonsense. Manhattan clinics and apartments resemble discotheques, and African locations look like rides at Disneyland. The actors are unable to make sense of this mishmash. Richard Burton seems bewildered, Louise Fletcher underplays to the point of invisibility. The formerly possessed Linda Blair almost achieves believability. Director John Boorman ("The Deliverance") would surely like to exorcise this disaster from his credits. Rated R.

"THE SORCEROR" is high adventure in the "River Kwai"-"Sierra Madre" tradition. William Friedkin ("The French Connection," "The Exorcist") again proves his talent as a storyteller in this reworking of the French novel and film, "The Wages of Fear." The plot: four outcasts in a squalid South American town volunteer to drive truckloads of explosives through dense jungle to an oil blowout. The symbolism is murky and plot points have been lost in the cutting, as well as the meaning of the title (one of the trucks is named Sorceror). But the film can be enjoyed for its sheer excitement and visual beauty. The fine cast is mostly foreign, except for Roy Scheider. The film ranks with "Star Wars" as best of the summer fare. Rated PG.

FORTUNE IN SHOE PEGS

WASHINGTON (AP) — July is the month to remember Benjamin Franklin Sturtevant, a poor, uneducated boy from Maine who became a shoemaker and then an important inventor.

Patents made him wealthy. But first, he had to sell his rights to each patent in order to develop his next invention, according to Intellectual Property Owners, Inc., a non-profit group devoted to preserving the patent system as an incentive to creativity.

He first invented a shoe-pegging machine and lost that to a backer. Then, in 1859, he invented a lathe which cut a veneer from the face of a log. In July, 1862, he patented a machine to convert the veneer into shoe pegs. These machines could also make other kinds of pegs and wooden toothpicks. To finance himself, Sturtevant had to sell all rights in the machines except the making of shoe pegs.

Next he turned his attention to the problem of heavy dust created in shoe factories by buffing of leather. He invented a rotary exhaust fan, patented it in 1867, and developed it for use in ventilator fans, pressure blowers and conveyors. He was so successful that he built a large factory in Jamaica Plain, Mass., that eventually employed 400 people.

Winning speaker

First place honors in public speaking were awarded to nine-year old Julie Klobe of New Madrid at the 28th annual New Madrid County 4-H Fair Thursday night in Risco. Speaking with outstanding poise and competence, her topic "Together We Will" won over three older contestants. Seated is Jimmy Bradley of New Madrid, chairman of the New Madrid County University of Missouri Extension Council, who was master of ceremonies. (Daily Standard photos)

Todays News In Brief

Trying to save Russian art

MOSCOW (AP) — Restorers are hard at work trying to save some of Russia's greatest art works — religious icons hidden under layers of paint on the walls of churches, museums and even the Kremlin.

Some of the icons haven't been seen in centuries and were discovered by specialists using infrared light and X rays. Some are hidden under icons painted by later artists.

The restoration has become a major project as the Soviet government begins to treat Russia's pre-revolution history with greater respect.

A new and much-publicized law protects historical monuments, including churches, and Soviets are becoming aware of the attraction icons and old churches hold for foreigners.

Libya Egypt clash

CAIRO (AP) — Libya claimed its defense forces shot down eight Egyptian warplanes Saturday during massive air strikes deep inside Libyan territory. An Egyptian military spokesman denied the claim but confirmed that ground clashes took place.

"Libyan artillery opened fire on our forces at Salum Saturday but were silenced by our positions inside Egyptian territory," the Egyptian spokesman said. He gave no exact time of the action.

No Egyptian air raids took place "inside Libyan territory," the spokesman said, but he added Egyptian armed forces "will maintain a state of readiness to defend Egypt and its borders."

A spokesman for the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafy reported the alleged Egyptian air raids, according to the Tripoli-based Arab Revolutionary News Agency. It quoted him as saying, "If this unjustifiable aggression is not stopped, (Libyan) forces will retaliate strongly in the depth of Egypt."

The Libyan news agency said the Egyptian raids began in the morning and continued until evening.

But the Egyptian spokesman said the Libyans were dreaming up "imaginary raids."

Flood dead may go higher

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A refreshed army of volunteer rescue and cleanup workers tackled huge mounds of debris Saturday, with a grim conviction they would find more bodies besides the 49 already recovered from the floodscarred Conemaugh River Valley.

The official death count from Wednesday's flood — the third major one here in less than 90 years — was expected to go much higher. State police counted only bodies in morgues or en route to them.

Tiny communities like West Taylor Township and Seward reported scores of missing persons.

Art Kieper, chief deputy Cambria County coroner, said "I know there are some bodies we'll never find."

Schlesinger to new post?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within a few weeks, James R. Schlesinger Jr. is expected to become the nation's first secretary of energy, heading a staff of 20,000 persons and controlling a budget of about $10 billion.

But the argument is not yet settled over whether he is to become a powerful energy czar charged with carrying out President Carter's energy policy or a weaker figure without sufficient authority to make the best use of the nation's dwindling reserves of natural gas, oil and other resources.

Before Carter puts his signature to the bill creating the first new Cabinet-level agency since 1966, the House and Senate are expected to give final approval to the work of a congressional conference committee which hammered out a compromise bill Friday.

The new department, which probably will hang out its shingle in August, will include what used to be the Federal Power Commission, the Energy Research and Development Administration, the Federal Energy Administration and bits and pieces of the federal energy bureaucracy from all over Washington.

America is drying up

From the Pacific Northwest, across the Plains and down to the panhandle of Florida, America is drying up.

Streams and rivers are at record low levels. Precipitation is far below normal. Pastureland is shriveled. Cattle are going thirsty. Water use is being rationed.

The Weather Service's Palmer Index, designed to evaluate the scope, severity and frequency of long periods of abnormally wet or dry weather, shows that parts of 41 of the 48 contiguous states are affected by drought conditions ranging from moderate to severe. Only Oklahoma, Texas, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and New Hampshire have escaped.

Somewhat paradoxically, many major grain crops have not been severely affected so far, although the situation may change if weather patterns do not return to normal. The Agriculture Department, in estimates disputed by some farmers and private forecasters, has predicted a record corn crop and a near-record wheat harvest. What rains have fallen, came at the right times in the right places.

Individual growers and ranchers, however, have been hard hit. 'People are selling out herds of cows that they've spent generations developing," said Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm.

Todays News In Brief

Trying to save Russian art

MOSCOW (AP) — Restorers are hard at work trying to save some of Russia's greatest art works — religious icons hidden under layers of paint on the walls of churches, museums and even the Kremlin.

Some of the icons haven't been seen in centuries and were discovered by specialists using infrared light and X rays. Some are hidden under icons painted by later artists.

The restoration has become a major project as the Soviet government begins to treat Russia's pre-revolution history with greater respect.

A new and much-publicized law protects historical monuments, including churches, and Soviets are becoming aware of the attraction icons and old churches hold for foreigners.

Libya Egypt clash

CAIRO (AP) — Libya claimed its defense forces shot down eight Egyptian warplanes Saturday during massive air strikes deep inside Libyan territory. An Egyptian military spokesman denied the claim but confirmed that ground clashes took place.

"Libyan artillery opened fire on our forces at Salum Saturday but were silenced by our positions inside Egyptian territory," the Egyptian spokesman said. He gave no exact time of the action.

No Egyptian air raids took place "inside Libyan territory," the spokesman said, but he added Egyptian armed forces "will maintain a state of readiness to defend Egypt and its borders."

A spokesman for the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafy reported the alleged Egyptian air raids, according to the Tripoli-based Arab Revolutionary News Agency. It quoted him as saying, "If this unjustifiable aggression is not stopped, (Libyan) forces will retaliate strongly in the depth of Egypt."

The Libyan news agency said the Egyptian raids began in the morning and continued until evening.

But the Egyptian spokesman said the Libyans were dreaming up "imaginary raids."

Flood dead may go higher

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A refreshed army of volunteer rescue and cleanup workers tackled huge mounds of debris Saturday, with a grim conviction they would find more bodies besides the 49 already recovered from the floodscarred Conemaugh River Valley.

The official death count from Wednesday's flood — the third major one here in less than 90 years — was expected to go much higher. State police counted only bodies in morgues or en route to them.

Tiny communities like West Taylor Township and Seward reported scores of missing persons.

Art Kieper, chief deputy Cambria County coroner, said "I know there are some bodies we'll never find."

Schlesinger to new post?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within a few weeks, James R. Schlesinger Jr. is expected to become the nation's first secretary of energy, heading a staff of 20,000 persons and controlling a budget of about $10 billion.

But the argument is not yet settled over whether he is to become a powerful energy czar charged with carrying out President Carter's energy policy or a weaker figure without sufficient authority to make the best use of the nation's dwindling reserves of natural gas, oil and other resources.

Before Carter puts his signature to the bill creating the first new Cabinet-level agency since 1966, the House and Senate are expected to give final approval to the work of a congressional conference committee which hammered out a compromise bill Friday.

The new department, which probably will hang out its shingle in August, will include what used to be the Federal Power Commission, the Energy Research and Development Administration, the Federal Energy Administration and bits and pieces of the federal energy bureaucracy from all over Washington.

America is drying up

From the Pacific Northwest, across the Plains and down to the panhandle of Florida, America is drying up.

Streams and rivers are at record low levels. Precipitation is far below normal. Pastureland is shriveled. Cattle are going thirsty. Water use is being rationed.

The Weather Service's Palmer Index, designed to evaluate the scope, severity and frequency of long periods of abnormally wet or dry weather, shows that parts of 41 of the 48 contiguous states are affected by drought conditions ranging from moderate to severe. Only Oklahoma, Texas, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and New Hampshire have escaped.

Somewhat paradoxically, many major grain crops have not been severely affected so far, although the situation may change if weather patterns do not return to normal. The Agriculture Department, in estimates disputed by some farmers and private forecasters, has predicted a record corn crop and a near-record wheat harvest. What rains have fallen, came at the right times in the right places.

Individual growers and ranchers, however, have been hard hit. "People are selling out herds of cows that they've spent generations developing," said Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm.

Garner, Green star as 13-year-olds top Lebanon

LEBANON— Nick Garner drove in all three Sikeston runs--including a two-run double in the first inning--to back Steve Green's four-hit pitching as Sikeston's 13-year-old All-Stars defeated host Lebanon 3-1 Saturday in the first round of the State 13-Year-Old Babe Ruth Tournament.

The Sikeston victory advanced them into today's 3:30 winner's bracket game against either Sedalia or Kirksville. Carthage beat Ozark District 7-3 in the only other game of the six-team tournament Saturday.

Garner's two-bagger in the first was the only hit for Sikeston against Truelove, who was the victim of his own poor control. Truelove gave up five walks, including a pair to Steve Hurley and Bert Perry to lead off the first before Garner smashed his game-winning double.

Lebanon made it 2-1 in the top of the second when Pierce walked and Lowaduce singled him to third. Pierce scored when Perry threw to second to try to nail Lowaduce stealing.

Garner drove in the third and final Sikeston run in the bottom of the third when his grounder to short chased home Perry. A pair of walks came back to haunt Truelove again as they combined with an error to put Perry into scoring position.

Green fanned six and walked only three and was in trouble only in the second inning. His teammates played errorless baseball behind him as Sikeston took their first step toward a hopeful state championship.

On the other hand, Lebanon made three miscues behind Truelove, although only the one in the third hurt. Truelove fanned nine batters in the losing cause.

Johnson to replace Wilder on East squad for All-Star battle

Danny Johnson, the East Prairie Eagle running back who gained over 2,400 yards last season while gaining All-State honors in Class 2-A, has been selected to replace Sikeston back James Wilder in the Lions High School Senior All-Star football game next Saturday night at Warrensburg.

Wilder, the Bulldog back who will attend junior college in Oklahoma in the fall, decided to waive participation in the first prep classic to prepare for school. He is presently in Oklahoma, a relative said.

The game at Warrensburg will benefit the Lions Eye Tissue Bank in Columbia. Sixty-six of the best high school seniors from 1977 will meet at Vernon Kennedy Stadium on the campus of Central Missouri Stae University in Warrensburg for the 8:00 p.m. game on July 30.

Joining Johnson on the East squad will be Brian Glastetter of Chaffee, Mike Gohn of Jackson, Victor Ortega of Poplar Bluff and Rich Weith of Jackson.

Homer Cavitte will coach the East squad assisted by William "Skip" Rich. Cavitte was formerly an assistant coach at Lincoln University and Rich was the head football coach at Blair Oaks High School last year.

The West squad will be handled by Larry Chalmers assisted by Tony Phillips and Russ Kaminsky. Chalmers was the head football coach at Fair Grove High School from 1973-76. Phillips was head coach at Greenfield High School last year and Kaminsky was head coach at Joplin Parkwood High School until 1975.

The game will contain all of the pageantry of a true All-Star game with the Lions State Marching Band performing before the game and at halftime. Cheerleading squads from Northwest House Springs High School, Lee's Summit High School and Archie High School will lead the game's spirit. These teams were chosen as the outstanding squads from among 30 present at the CMSU Cheerleading Workshop. Northwest House Springs will cheer for the East team and Lee's Summit and Archie will cheer for the West.

A Missouri High School All-Star Coaching Clinic will be held in conjunction with the game, July 29-30. Principal speakers at the clinic include: Dan Devine, head football coach at Notre Dame University; Larry Lacewell, defensive coordinator at Oklahoma University; Don Lawrence, defensive end and linebacker coach at Missouri University and Dick Jamieson, quarterback-receiver coach at Missouri University.

All-Star players are scheduled to report this afternoon and begin two-a-day workouts tomorrow.

Mumphrey's single dumps Astros

ST.LOUIS (AP) — Jerry Mumphrey's one-out single capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the 11th inning, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night.

Ken Reitz ignited the Cards' comeback with a double down the right field line off loser Bo McLaughlin, 3-4. It was the Cards' first hit since the fifth inning.

After being sacrificed to third, Reitz scored on Hector Cruz' pop fly double to center. Cruz then beat centerfielder Cesar Cedeno's throw home on Mumphrey's hit.

Rawly Eastwick, 5-6, got the victory although he gave up an unearned Houston run in the top of the 11th.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's sacrifice fly in the top of the 11th inning scored pinch runner Art Gardner and snapped a 2-2 deadlock.

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead in the fourth when Tony Scott beat out an infield grounder for the first Cardinals' hit and Ted Simmons followed with his 14th homer of the season.

The Astros tied it in the sixth on Cedeno's two-out double, a walk to Bob Watson and run-scoring singles by Jose Cruz and Ed Herrmann.

Herrmann led off Houston's half of the 11th with a single to right. Gardner, running for Hermann, raced to third after Cards' first baseman Keith Hernandez threw wildly to second base on Julio Gonzalez' bunt.

Gardner held third when Roger Metzger bounced into a force play but scored easily on Ferguson's sacrifice fly.

Larson, making only his fourth start of the season, retired 18 straight St. Louis batters after Hernandez doubled to start the Cards' fifth.

St. Louis right-hander John Urrea, who was making his first major league start, depearted with two out in the eighth inning after Watson doubled for his second hit.

Preceding Simmons' blast in the Cards' fourth, Urrea was assisted by two standout fielding plays while working past Watson's leadoff single in the Houston fourth.

The Astros' runs in the sixth were the first in 15 innings off Urrea, who had made 28 relief appearances before starting Saturday.

Thompson, Tigers break Royals' 8-game streak

DETROIT (AP) — Jason Thompson drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a double Saturday, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City and snapping the Royals' winning streak at eight games.

Detroit, trailing 4-3, won the game with two runs in the seventh inning off reliever Larry Gura, 5-5. Rookie Steve Kemp singled and scored the tying run on Thompson's double. Ben Oglivie's groundout moved Thompson to third and Milt May followed with a sacrifice fly.

Thompson also singled in a run in the opening inning against Jim Colborn and added another RBI single in the fifth after Tito Fuentes singled in the first run of the inning.

Kansas City, losing for only the third time in its last 16 games, got a leadoff homer from George Brett off rookie Dave Rozema. The Royals scored three times off Rozema, 9-4, in the sixth.

Hal McRae doubled, Pete LaCock singled him home and, after a forceout, Amos Otis smacked his 10th homer of the season.

Rozema went the distance for the 10th time in 19 starts. The lanky right-hander struck out five and walked one.

Kansas City got a one-out double from John Mayberry in the eighth. Then rightfielder Oglivie made the play of the game, bouncing off the fence to grab an Otis fly ball and firing to first base to double off Mayberry.

Rozema, struggling most of the game, struck out Darrell Porter and pinch hitter Joe Lahoud in the ninth, then got pinch hitter Tom Poquette to foul out.

"The kid did a hell of a job in the ninth," said Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog. "He threw 12 straight changeups."

Coach Chuck Hiller wasn't so complimentary:

"He (Rozema) was luckier than hell," he said. "He knows it and everyone else knows it. We could have had 10 runs today."

Rozema admitted being fortunate, in that Kansas City batters had several line shots and deep fly balls that were caught. Centerfielder Ron LeFlore caught two drives that traveled between 400 and 420 feet in straightaway center.

"These guys hit me the hardest of any team this year," said the 21-year-old Rozema.

However, he added later, "I know it was luck, but some games you lose and you pitch well."

Pizza Inn, Moore's, Rotary win

Pizza Inn made it a clean sweep as they won the National League Tournament championship in the Sikeston Little League. They downed Lions in a hard fought pitcher's duel 4-1. The game stood at 2-1 for the majority of the contest until Pizza Inn got two insurance runs in the top of the final frame.

In the consolation game, Kiwanis easily handled Security National Bank 11-0. Dennis Bean hurled the one hit shutout for Kiwanis and the winning pitcher. Kiwanis backed his pitching by a nine hit attack with six of the nine hits coming in a seven run first. Todd Sherman had a rough mound outing for Security and got the loss.

Pizza Inn's Todd Baker started the game and was immediately in trouble. Lions had the bases loaded with no outs in the first when Mike Moore was brought in to pitch. A wild pitch scored one, but Moore settled down to strike out the side. In all, Moore struckout thirteen, walked two and allowed only two hits.

Marland Beaudean pitched extremely well for Lions as he struckout seven, walked one and allowed one hit. That one hit was a triple by Mike Moore in the final inning which drove home a run and he also scored on a wild throw to the plate. Moore was the winner and Marland the loser.

The American League championship was won by Moore's Firestone in a laugher over Bridger 22-5. Moore's out hit Bridger 8-1, but the key to the game was that Moore's received 22 base-on-balls. Carrol Hurley had a fine game for Moore's as he won the game by firing a one hitter. David Peridore was not in very good form and thus got the loss for Bridger.

In the American consolation game, Ryan had an easy time with First National as they won 16-6. Once again, the winner were helped by walks as Ryan received thirteen free passes from First National pitching.

Ryan did out hit First National 7-3 and bunched them in the second and third when Ryan scored six and seven respectively. White got the win for his Ryan's squad and Tom Lovette was the loser for First National.

Rotary became the second double winner as they beat Meredith Realty 5-0 in the Musial League tournament final. Big Stan Templeton was the winner as he struckout thirteen and walked non on his way to the shut out. Stan allowed only one hit to the good hitting Meredith team while Rotary banged out six.

Rotary scored four times in the first with help from the free pass form loser Orlando Stewart. Stewart did settle down after the first to pitch some fine ball, but the Meredith offense once stifled by Templeton's pitching and solid defense by Rotary. Stewart was the loser and Big Stan held on to win.

The consolation game was won big by Collins Construction as they romped over the Daily Standard 11-1. Collins scored big in the second with six and then came back with five in the fourth to clinch the ten run victory. Those big innings were kept alive when seven Collins batters were hit by the Standard's pitchers. Jeff Coffey was the losing hurler for Standard and Brian Self got the complete game win for Collins.

Watkins and Owens blank Vanduser

John Watkins and Gary Owens teamed for a three-hit shutout over the Vanduser Comets Friday night that kept Oran Halter Gas in first place in the SeMo Fastpitch Softball League. Watkins worked three innings and Gary Owens two in the 9-0 victory that was limited to five innings by the league's seven-run rule.

In other league action, New Hamburg Righter Trucking ripped Kelso Supply 9-2, Kelso dumped the New Hamburg Blues 8-1 and the Benton Aces tripped Scott City 6-3.

Dave Pearson gave Oran all the hitting they would need with a two-run homer in the first. Although Oran came up with seven more tallies, it was the work of Watkins and Owens that did the rest. Bill Schatzley got two of Vanduser's three basehits.

John Merrick homered and singled to send Righter past Supply. Orville Enderle got the win.

Charles Schwartz did it all for Kelso as they stopped the New Hamburg Blues. Schwartz tossed a one-hitter and banged out three hits at the plate, while Bob Gosche and Larry McClain homered during a three-run third.

Galen Harper drove in three of Benton's four runs in the third as the Aces stopped Scott City. The rally made a winner of Ron LeGrand.

LEBANON— Nick Garner drove in all three Sikeston runs--including a two-run double in the first inning--to back Steve Green's four-hit pitching as Sikeston's 13-year-old All-Stars defeated host Lebanon 3-1 Saturday in the first round of the State 13-Year-Old Babe Ruth Tournament.

Johnson to replace Wilder on East squad for All-Star battle

Danny Johnson, the East Prairie Eagle running back who gained over 2,400 yards last season while gaining All-State honors in Class 2-A, has been selected to replace Sikeston back James Wilder in the Lions High School Senior All-Star football game next Saturday night at Warrensburg.

Wilder, the Bulldog back who will attend junior college in Oklahoma in the fall, decided to waive participation in the first prep classic to prepare for school. He is presently in Oklahoma, a relative said.

The game at Warrensburg will benefit the Lions Eye Tissue Bank in Columbia. Sixty-six of the best high school seniors from 1977 will meet at Vernon Kennedy Stadium on the campus of Central Missouri Stae University in Warrensburg for the 8:00 p.m. game on July 30.

Joining Johnson on the East squad will be Brian Glastetter of Chaffee, Mike Gohn of Jackson, Victor Ortega of Poplar Bluff and Rich Weith of Jackson.

Homer Cavitte will coach the East squad assisted by William "Skip" Rich. Cavitte was formerly an assistant coach at Lincoln University and Rich was the head football coach at Blair Oaks High School last year.

The West squad will be handled by Larry Chalmers assisted by Tony Phillips and Russ Kaminsky. Chalmers was the head football coach at Fair Grove High School from 1973-76. Phillips was head coach at Greenfield High School last year and Kaminsky was head coach at Joplin Parkwood High School until 1975.

The game will contain all of the pageantry of a true All-Star game with the Lions State Marching Band performing before the game and at halftime. Cheerleading squads from Northwest House Springs High School, Lee's Summit High School and Archie High School will lead the game's spirit. These teams were chosen as the outstanding squads from among 30 present at the CMSU Cheerleading Workshop. Northwest House Springs will cheer for the East team and Lee's Summit and Archie will cheer for the West.

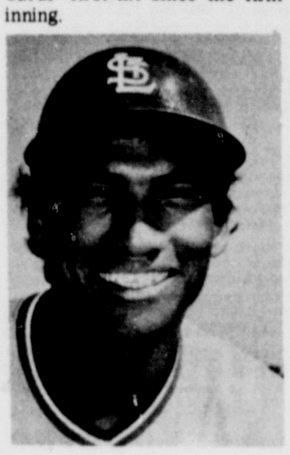
A Missouri High School All-Star Coaching Clinic will be held in conjunction with the game, July 29-30. Principal speakers at the clinic include: Dan Devine, head football coach at Notre Dame University; Larry Lacewell, defensive coordinator at Oklahoma University; Don Lawrence, defensive end and linebacker coach at Missouri University and Dick Jamieson, quarterback-receiver coach at Missouri University.

All-Star players are scheduled to report this afternoon and begin two-a-day workouts tomorrow.

Mumphrey's single dumps Astros

ST.LOUIS (AP) — Jerry Mumphrey's one-out single capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the 11th inning, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night.

Ken Reitz ignited the Cards' comeback with a double down the right field line off loser Bo McLaughlin, 3-4. It was the Cards' first hit since the fifth inning.



Heity Cruz

After being sacrificed to third, Reitz scored on Hector Cruz' pop fly double to center. Cruz then beat centerfielder Cesar Cedeno's throw home on Mumphrey's hit.

Rawly Eastwick, 5-6, got the victory although he gave up an unearned Houston run in the top of the 11th.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's sacrifice fly in the top of the 11th inning scored pinch runner Art Gardner and snapped a 2-2 deadlock.

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead in the fourth when Tony Scott beat out an infield grounder for the first Cardinals' hit and Ted Simmons followed with his 14th homer of the season.

The Astros tied it in the sixth on Cedeno's two-out double, a walk to Bob Watson and run-scoring singles by Jose Cruz and Ed Herrmann.

Herrmann led off Houston's half of the 11th with a single to right. Gardner, running for Hermann, raced to third after Cards' first baseman Keith Hernandez threw wildly to second base on Julio Gonzalez' bunt.

Gardner held third when Roger Metzger bounced into a force play but scored easily on Ferguson's sacrifice fly.

Larson, making only his fourth start of the season, retired 18 straight St. Louis batters after Hernandez doubled to start the Cards' fifth.

St. Louis right-hander John Urrea, who was making his first major league start, departed with two out in the eighth inning after Watson doubled for his second hit.

Preceding Simmons' blast in the Cards' fourth, Urrea was assisted by two standout fieding plays while working past Watson's leadoff single in the Houston fourth.

The Astros' runs in the sixth were the first in 15 innings off Urrea, who had made 28 relief appearances before starting Saturday.

Thompson, Tigers break Royals' 8-game streak

DETROIT (AP) — Jason Thompson drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a double Saturday, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City and snapping the Royals' winning streak at eight games.

Detroit, trailing 4-3, won the game with two runs in the seventh inning off reliever Larry Gura, 5-5. Rookie Steve Kemp singled and scored the tying run on Thompson's double. Ben Oglivie's groundout moved Thompson to third and Milt May followed with a sacrifice fly.

Thompson also singled in a run in the opening inning against Jim Colborn and added another RBI single in the fifth after Tito Fuentes singled in the first run of the inning.

Kansas City, losing for only the third time in its last 16 games, got a leadoff homer from George Brett off rookie Dave Rozema. The Royals scored three times off Rozema, 9-4, in the sixth.

Hal McRae doubled, Pete LaCock singled him home and, after a forceout, Amos Otis smacked his 10th homer of the season.

Rozema went the distance for the 10th time in 19 starts. The lanky right-hander struck out five and walked one.

Kansas City got a one-out double from John Mayberry in the eighth. Then rightfielder Oglivie made the play of the game, bouncing off the fence to grab an Otis fly ball and firing to first base to double off Mayberry.

Rozema, struggling most of the game, struck out Darrell Porter and pinch hitter Joe Lahoud in the ninth, then got pinch hitter Tom Poquette to foul out.

"The kid did a hell of a job in the ninth," said Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog. "He threw 12 straight changeups."

Coach Chuck Hiller wasn't so complimentary:

"He (Rozema) was luckier than hell," he said. "He knows it and everyone else knows it. We could have had 10 runs today."

Rozema admitted being fortunate, in that Kansas City batters had several line shots and deep fly balls that were caught. Centerfielder Ron LeFlore caught two drives that traveled between 400 and 420 feet in straightaway center.

"These guys hit me the hardest of any team this year," said the 21-year-old Rozema.

However, he added later, "I know it was luck, but some games you lose and you pitch well."

Pizza Inn, Moore's, Rotary win

Pizza Inn made it a clean sweep as they won the National League Tournament championship in the Sikeston Little League. They downed Lions in a hard fought pitcher's duel 4-1. The game stood at 2-1 for the majority of the contest until Pizza Inn got two insurance runs in the top of the final frame.

In the consolation game, Kiwanis easily handled Security National Bank 11-0. Dennis Bean hurled the one hit shutout for Kiwanis and the winning pitcher. Kiwanis backed his pitching by a nine hit attack with six of the nine hits coming in a seven run first. Todd Sherman had a rough mound outing for Security and got the loss.

Pizza Inn's Todd Baker started the game and was immediately in trouble. Lions had the bases loaded with no outs in the first when Mike Moore was brought in to pitch. A wild pitch scored one, but Moore settled down to strike out the side. In all, Moore struckout thirteen, walked two and allowed only two hits.

Marland Beaudean pitched extremely well for Lions as he struckout seven, walked one and allowed one hit. That one hit was a triple by Mike Moore in the final inning which drove home a run and he also scored on a wild throw to the plate. Moore was the winner and Marland the loser.

The American League championship was won by Moore's Firestone in a laugher over Bridger 22-5. Moore's out hit Bridger 8-1, but the key to the game was that Moore's received 22 base-on-balls. Carrol Hurley had a fine game for Moore's as he won the game by firing a one hitter. David Peridore was not in very good form and thus got the loss for Bridger.

In the American consolation game, Ryan had an easy time with First National as they won 16-6. Once again, the winner were helped by walks as Ryan received thirteen free passes from First National pitching.

Ryan did out hit First National 7-3 and bunched them in the second and third when Ryan scored six and seven respectively. White got the win for his Ryan's squad and Tom Lovette was the loser for First National.

Rotary became the second double winner as they beat Meredith Realty 5-0 in the Musial League tournament final. Big Stan Templeton was the winner as he struckout thirteen and walked non on his way to the shut out. Stan allowed only one hit to the good hitting Meredith team while Rotary banged out six.

Rotary scored four times in the first with help from the free pass form loser Orlando Stewart. Stewart did settle down after the first to pitch some fine ball, but the Meredith offense once stifled by Templeton's pitching and solid defense by Rotary. Stewart was the loser and Big Stan held on to win.

The consolation game was won big by Collins Construction as they romped over the Daily Standard 11-1. Collins scored big in the second with six and then came back with five in the fourth to clinch the ten run victory. Those big innings were kept alive when seven Collins batters were hit by the Standard's pitchers. Jeff Coffey was the losing hurler for Standard and Brian Self got the complete game win for Collins.

Watkins and Owens blank Vanduser

John Watkins and Gary Owens teamed for a three-hit shutout over the Vanduser Comets Friday night that kept Oran Halter Gas in first place in the SeMo Fastpitch Softball League. Watkins worked three innings and Gary Owens two in the 9-0 victory that was limited to five innings by the league's seven-run rule.

In other league action, New Hamburg Righter Trucking ripped Kelso Supply 9-2, Kelso dumped the New Hamburg Blues 8-1 and the Benton Aces tripped Scott City 6-3.

Dave Pearson gave Oran all the hitting they would need with a two-run homer in the first. Although Oran came up with seven more tallies, it was the work of Watkins and Owens that did the rest. Bill Schatzley got two of Vanduser's three basehits.

John Merrick homered and singled to send Righter past Supply. Orville Enderle got the win.

Charles Schwartz did it all for Kelso as they stopped the New Hamburg Blues. Schwartz tossed a one-hitter and banged out three hits at the plate, while Bob Gosche and Larry McClain homered during a three-run third.

Galen Harper drove in three of Benton's four runs in the third as the Aces stopped Scott City. The rally made a winner of Ron LeGrand.

Charleston to host tennis tournament

Area tennis players are invited to sign up for the Charleston Invitational Tennis Tournament, to be held August 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the E. Charles Rolwing Park in Charleston.

The entry fee is $2 for singles and $3 per doubles team, with the deadline being July 30.

Entries should be mailed to the Charleston Invitational Tennis Tournament, City Hall, 200 North Main, Charleston, Mo. 63834.

Checks should be made payable to the Charleston Park Director.

Tourney coordinators are Park Director Randall Warner and Ron Mix.

No person shall be placed in the tournament unless entry and fees are in by the deadline.

Each player is asked to provide tennis balls for each entry. The winner of each event will receive the new balls, while the loser will receive the used balls.

Volleyball clinic announced

Sikeston High School volleyball coach Jane Merrick has announced that she will conduct a volleyball clinic beginning Monday at the Junior High School gymnasium.

Sessions will begin at 9:00 a.m. each morning Monday through Friday and will continue until 11:00 a.m. Volleyball fundamentals will be stressed.

The clinic is open to girls in grades 8-12. Athletes must have proof of insurance and physical examinations before participating.

Perry and Palmer shine

By The Associated Press

Mike Hargrove's 13th-inning single, his fourth hit of the game, drove in the winning run for the Texas Rangers Saturday as Gaylord Perry and Adrian Devine combined for a 1-0, five-hit victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Hargrove's hit, off reliever Tippy Martinez, scored Bump Wills, who opened the rally with a double, his third hit and the only extra-base blow of the nationally televised game, which began with a magnificent pitching duel between Perry and Jim Palmer.

Wills advanced to third on a single by Jim Sundberg off loser Dick Drago, 2-3, who replaced Palmer at the start of the 12th, before scoring on Hargrove's hit.

Perry allowed four hits in nine innings and Palmer was touched for seven in 11 innings. Each of the former Cy Young Award winners struck out nine.

In other American League action, home runs by Ralph Garr, Alan Bannister and Jack Brohamer powered the Chicago White Sox to a 10-3 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays. Rico Carty's two-run homer in the seventh inning boosted the Cleveland Indians to a 9-8 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Paul Blair's two-run, second-inning home run and Ron Guidry's six-hit pitching enabled the New York Yankees to beat the Milwaukee Brewers 3-1. Jason Thompson drove in three runs with two singles and a double, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City, snapping the Royals' winning streak at eight games.

Lyman Bostock's two-run homer capped Minnesota's five-run fourth inning as the Twins clobbered California 10-4 in a game delayed by rain for two hours, 14 minutes. Bostock also hit into a triple play in the sixth inning.

Backed by home runs by Larry Cox and Dave Collins, Seattle's Gary Wheelock scattered nine hits, leading the Mariners to a 10-3 victory over the Oakland A's.

In the National League, Jim Fregosi's two-out, two-run pinch single capped a four-run seventh inning that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Metcalf signs new contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Running back Terry Metcalf signed a new one-year contract with the St. Louis football Cardinals Saturday, canceling a multi-year pact signed after the 1975 season.

The new contact will allow Metcalf to become a free agent at the end of the current season.

"If Terry lets go and becomes the Terry of old, it will make a lot of difference to us," said Joe Sullivan, director of operations. "I think we're going to have a football player who is concentrating totally on football."

Before signing the contact Saturday, Metcalf was obligated to play for the Cards through the 1979 season. However, he had been asking the Cards to trade him.

Last season Metcalf refused to return punts and kickoffs for several games at the beginning of the season unless he got more money.

In 1976 he gained a net total of 1,438 yards, compared with 2,462 in 1975, an NFL record. Metcalf blamed his sagging production on his unhappiness.

Softball at Benton

BENTON — Drawings for the Mens Amateur Softball Association District Tournament will be held next Saturday, July 30 at 2:00 p.m. at the Benton Ball Park.

The tournament will be held at Benton beginning August 11. The top two teams will advance to the state tournament at Jefferson City.

Ten teams from the SeMo Fastpitch Softball League will be entered in the tournament, along with three teams from the Sikeston Fastpitch Softball League and one from the Cape City League.

Sikeston Little League All-Stars named Friday

With the regular season and league tournaments ending, the All-Star teams were named in the Sikeston Little League. The five teams will participate in three invitational tourneys. The first tournament will be in Sikeston with the 9-10 All-Stars and Aces playing July 25-27. The 11-12 All-Stars and Aces along with the American League All-Stars will play August 1-5.

The teams will then travel to Illmo to play in their invitational August 8-12. The final road tourney will be in Charleston from August 15-19.

Charleston to host tennis tournament

Area tennis players are invited to sign up for the Charleston Invitational Tennis Tournament, to be held August 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the E. Charles Rolwing Park in Charleston.

The entry fee is $2 for singles and $3 per doubles team, with the deadline being July 30.

Entries should be mailed to the Charleston Invitational Tennis Tournament, City Hall, 200 North Main, Charleston, Mo. 63834.

Checks should be made payable to the Charleston Park Director.

Tourney coordinators are Park Director Randall Warner and Ron Mix.

No person shall be placed in the tournament unless entry and fees are in by the deadline.

Each player is asked to provide tennis balls for each entry. The winner of each event will receive the new balls, while the loser will receive the used balls.

Volleyball clinic announced

Sikeston High School volleyball coach Jane Merrick has announced that she will conduct a volleyball clinic beginning Monday at the Junior High School gymnasium.

Sessions will begin at 9:00 a.m. each morning Monday through Friday and will continue until 11:00 a.m. Volleyball fundamentals will be stressed.

The clinic is open to girls in grades 8-12. Athletes must have proof of insurance and physical examinations before participating.

Perry and Palmer shine

By The Associated Press

Mike Hargrove's 13th-inning single, his fourth hit of the game, drove in the winning run for the Texas Rangers Saturday as Gaylord Perry and Adrian Devine combined for a 1-0, five-hit victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Hargrove's hit, off reliever Tippy Martinez, scored Bump Wills, who opened the rally with a double, his third hit and the only extra-base blow of the nationally televised game, which began with a magnificent pitching duel between Perry and Jim Palmer.

Wills advanced to third on a single by Jim Sundberg off loser Dick Drago, 2-3, who replaced Palmer at the start of the 12th, before scoring on Hargrove's hit.

Perry allowed four hits in nine innings and Palmer was touched for seven in 11 innings. Each of the former Cy Young Award winners struck out nine.

In other American League action, home runs by Ralph Garr, Alan Bannister and Jack Brohamer powered the Chicago White Sox to a 10-3 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays. Rico Carty's two-run homer in the seventh inning boosted the Cleveland Indians to a 9-8 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Paul Blair's two-run, second-inning home run and Ron Guidry's six-hit pitching enabled the New York Yankees to beat the Milwaukee Brewers 3-1. Jason Thompson drove in three runs with two singles and a double, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City, snapping the Royals' winning streak at eight games.

Lyman Bostock's two-run homer capped Minnesota's five-run fourth inning as the Twins clobbered California 10-4 in a game delayed by rain for two hours, 14 minutes. Bostock also hit into a triple play in the sixth inning.

Backed by home runs by Larry Cox and Dave Collins, Seattle's Gary Wheelock scattered nine hits, leading the Mariners to a 10-3 victory over the Oakland A's.

In the National League, Jim Fregosi's two-out, two-run pinch single capped a four-run seventh inning that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Metcalf signs new contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Running back Terry Metcalf signed a new one-year contract with the St. Louis football Cardinals Saturday, canceling a multi-year pact signed after the 1975 season.

The new contact will allow Metcalf to become a free agent at the end of the current season.

"If Terry lets go and becomes the Terry of old, it will make a lot of difference to us," said Joe Sullivan, director of operations. "I think we're going to have a football player who is concentrating totally on football."

Before signing the contact Saturday, Metcalf was obligated to play for the Cards through the 1979 season. However, he had been asking the Cards to trade him.

Last season Metcalf refused to return punts and kickoffs for several games at the beginning of the season unless he got more money.

In 1976 he gained a net total of 1,438 yards, compared with 2,462 in 1975, an NFL record. Metcalf blamed his sagging production on his unhappiness.

Softball at Benton

BENTON — Drawings for the Mens Amateur Softball Association District Tournament will be held next Saturday, July 30 at 2:00 p.m. at the Benton Ball Park.

The tournament will be held at Benton beginning August 11. The top two teams will advance to the state tournament at Jefferson City.

Ten teams from the SeMo Fastpitch Softball League will be entered in the tournament, along with three teams from the Sikeston Fastpitch Softball League and one from the Cape City League.

Sikeston Little League All-Stars named Friday

With the regular season and league tournaments ending, the All-Star teams were named in the Sikeston Little League. The five teams will participate in three invitational tourneys. The first tournament will be in Sikeston with the 9-10 All-Stars and Aces playing July 25-27. The 11-12 All-Stars and Aces along with the American League All-Stars will play August 1-5.

The teams will then travel to Illmo to play in their invitational August 8-12. The final road tourney will be in Charleston from August 15-19.

23 Missouri banks ready to help college students

By SUE A. MERKNER
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Students who want to go to college but cannot afford it will continue to find 23 local banks across Missouri ready to help them with a low-interest student loan.

State funds totaling more than $4.6 million have been deposited in 14 Missouri banks recently to provide matching funds for student loans. The one-year deposits earn the banks a 5.7 per cent rate of interest and match dollar for dollar the total amount granted by the bank in federally insured student loans.

Nine additional banks still hold state deposits under last year's student loan program. If the banks requalify later this year when their deposits mature, they may reapply for new deposits.

The 23 banks receiving money participate in the student loan time deposit program begun in 1974 by State Treasurer James I. Spainhower.

Each year the state treasurer's office sets aside $5-10 million for student loan deposits, Spainhower said.

In order to qualify, a bank must have 40 per cent of its total deposits in loans and a minimum of one and one-half per cent of that loan portfolio in federally insured student loans.

Spainhower said the student loan program benefits the state by earning interest and additional revenue, "thus helping alleviate the tax burden on citizens.

"Further, the deposits provide banks with additional funds for loans," Spainhower said. The banks may "make a modest profit while performing an extremely vital and commendable public service," he said.

"Most importantly, needy students who desire to contribute more to society are provided the opportunity for higher education," he said. The high cost of living often keeps many young adults from attending college because of a lack of financial resources, Spainhower said.

"The major requirement of a student wanting a loan is that his total family income be less than $25,000," said Dick Ravenhill, state director of investments. The level of family income was raised to its current level from $15,000 in October 1976.

The student pays up to 7 per cent interest on his loan and does not begin payments until nine months after graduation. The remainder of any interest is paid by the federal government, Ravenhill said.

Details on specific loan requirements can be obtained from participating banks, Ravenhill said.

The 14 banks which requalified for the new deposit are: Gentry County Bank, Albany; First State Bank of Caruthersville; National Bank, Caruthersville; Callaway Bank, Fulton; Bank of Hayti; Standard State Bank, Independence; Commerce Bank of Kahoka; American Bank and Trust Co., Kansas City; Broadway National Bank, Kansas City; Bank of Kennett; Mercantile Bank, Louisiana; First National Bank, Neosho; First State Bank, Rolla; and Webster Groves Trust Co.

The nine banks continuing to provide student loans with deposits maturing later this year are: South Side Bank, Kansas City; United Missouri Bank South, Kansas City; First National Bank, Kirksville; Lexington Bank and Trust Co.; First National Bank, Pierce City; Bank of Rothville; American National Bank of St. Joseph; Mercantile-Commerce Bank, St. Louis; and Tower Grove Bank and Trust Co., St. Louis.

School to teach basics of everyday dollars-cents

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — A program designed to bring the abstract disciplines of economics down to the dollars and cents of everyday life will be launched this fall in the Shawnee Mission School District.

A joint venture of the district, the Overland Park Chamber of Commerce and the University of Kansas, the program will start in the junior highs and is designed to extend from kindergarten through senior high in the years ahead.

The object of this year's program will be 50 junior high teachers, who will take a three-hour college credit course on economics by Richard Dawson. He has been an economics instructor at Washburn University at Topeka and is currently completing work on his Ph.D. at Kansas State University.

He said his goal is to develop, through the teachers, a greater appreciation among the students of what the businessman does.

"We're bringing the abstract discipline of economics down to the lay public, where it should have been years ago," Dawson said. "It will be a complete and sound program in economic education...almost a pilot study...very innovative. We hope to bring the subject of economics more alive to the students."

Dawson said he hoped the teachers in his program would use more of an "issues approach" with their students, teaching about "things the kids can relate to" — such as how a five-cent rise in the cost of bread costs the students and their families.

"This is a forthright effort to establish a constructive relationship between business and the classroom," said Dr. Arzell Ball, district superintendent. "We think it will be received enthusiastically."

Dr. John Guenther, director of the KU Center on Economic Education, sees the program as a shot at increasing "economic literacy."

"All kinds of surveys and tests show conclusively that the population at large knows very little about economics," Guenther said.

"What we want to do is take some basic economic concepts and try to string them together from kindergarten through 12th grade, so that students can have a better understanding of the private enterprise system and what it's all about," Guenther added.

Dawson's role will be to work with the teachers at the university's Linwood campus and also spend some time in their classrooms. Teachers will receive three hours of post-graduate credit for the in-service training.

Guenther said KU was interested in the program because Chancellor Archie Dykes had established economic education as a high priority with the university.

David Wolfe, social studies specialist for the Shawnee Mission district, said the instruction would range from principles of international economics to practical family finance.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Australia's Ayers Rock, at 2 miles long, 1½ miles wide, and 1,100 feet high, is the biggest in the world, reports the Rand McNally "Traveler's Almanac."

The rock was once known only to aborigines, who left galleries of cave paintings at its base. The gigantic stone is now a popular destination for tourists in the Outback.

Newlyweds find own version of cloud nine

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Not many people would like to spend a three-week honeymoon in a tent trailer atop a shopping center marquee, without bathing facilities, but young Sam Money and his bride of five days think they got a good deal.

They still have more than two weeks to go, however.

Money, 19, and his wife, Bridgette, 18, answered a want ad seeking an engaged couple for "30 days of outdoor work." The job includes spending three weeks in a hot canvas tent trailer 25 feet above a shopping center parking lot, free food, $1,000 salary and a four-day trip to Las Vegas — if they don't chicken out and come down early.

"We needed a job," explained Money, an Omaha native who worked at a variety of odd jobs during the past year.

They were married Saturday by a minister, with the wedding party on top of the scaffold. They came down to earth twice on Sunday when tornado warnings were issued for Omaha. Since their safety was involved, they won't lose money for seeking shelter on the ground.

Sam and Bridgette have only a radio, a telephone, a citizens' band radio and a small, black and yet-unnamed kitten for company — besides each other, that is.

The heat, and lack of a shower or bath, have been their biggest problems so far. Daytime temperatures hovered around the 100-degree mark in Omaha this week and a jerry-rigged air conditioner provided little relief. A portable outhouse is drained daily.

"We got so hot the other day that we took jugs of water and dumped them over each other," said Mrs. Money, who grew up in the Omaha suburb of Carter Lake, Iowa.

The young couple is doing this as part of a promotion staged by a local radio station and the shopping center.

The station changed its call letters to KYNN June 1 and "needed some advertising," said to manager Glenn Valentine. The Crossroads shopping center was happy to cooperate, he said.

The couple spends much of their time talking on their CB. Their handle, not surprisingly, is the "Happy Honeymooners." The radio will be theirs, courtesy of a local merchant, when their three-week stint is over.

"Night is the best time up here," Money said. "We roll up the window flaps, let the air in and talk on the CB. All kinds of people come to see us. We yell at each other, with us up here and all the people down below."

Their meals are catered by a department store cafe and they have a small ice box for soft drinks and snacks. Because of the heat, Money wears cutoffs and his wife a bathing suit.

On Wednesday they asked Valentine for a hose and a wading pool but it's uncertain whether a water hook-up is available.

"We're getting tired of sponge baths," Money said.

The young couple has no plans following the honeymoon above Omaha and the all-expense-paid trip to Las Vegas. Both will be looking for jobs.

"I don't know how it will be to leave this thing after three weeks," Money said. "It'll feel like home by then."

Sprinklers might have cut prison fire deaths

BOSTON (AP) — Sprinkler systems could have saved most if not all 68 persons killed in three major prison fires in the United States and Canada this summer, says an investigator for the National Fire Prevention Association.

"If sprinklers had been in there, we might have lost a couple of people, but I'm pretty sure that would have been it," said David Demers, a fire analyst and fire protection engineer who made an on-site inspection of each of the fires.

Demers said because intense heat is needed to set the sprinklers off, they may not be activated in time to save any inmates who start fires in small cells.

He said he believed there would have been no deaths in the July 7 fire at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., which began in a washroom and claimed five lives, if the prison had been equipped with a sprinkler system.

And because the inmate who allegedly set the June 26 fire at Maury County Jail in Columbia, Tenn., was rescued, Demers said a sprinkler system probably would have saved all 42 victims there.

Demers said "there would possibly have been one death," rather than 21, in the June 21 fire at the St. John, New Brunswick, City Dentention Center if a sprinkler system had been in use.

The Boston-based association, a private clearing house for fire information, did a recent study which concluded that 85 per cent of the fires in prisons were intentionally started by inmates.

The study listed four reasons: suicide, escape attempts, malicious damage and a show of force during riots.

Combustible construction materials had been the main fuel feeding prison fires in the past, but Demers said plastics and foam rubber are the problems today.

23 Missouri banks ready to help college students

By SUE A. MERKNER
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Students who want to go to college but cannot afford it will continue to find 23 local banks across Missouri ready to help them with a low-interest student loan.

State funds totaling more than $4.6 million have been deposited in 14 Missouri banks recently to provide matching funds for student loans. The one-year deposits earn the banks a 5.7 per cent rate of interest and match dollar for dollar the total amount granted by the bank in federally insured student loans.

Nine additional banks still hold state deposits under last year's student loan program. If the banks requalify later this year when their deposits mature, they may reapply for new deposits.

The 23 banks receiving money participate in the student loan time deposit program begun in 1974 by State Treasurer James I. Spainhower.

Each year the state treasurer's office sets aside $5-10 million for student loan deposits, Spainhower said.

In order to qualify, a bank must have 40 per cent of its total deposits in loans and a minimum of one and one-half per cent of that loan portfolio in federally insured student loans.

Spainhower said the student loan program benefits the state by earning interest and additional revenue, "thus helping alleviate the tax burden on citizens.

"Further, the deposits provide banks with additional funds for loans," Spainhower said. The banks may "make a modest profit while performing an extremely vital and commendable public service," he said.

"Most importantly, needy students who desire to contribute more to society are provided the opportunity for higher education," he said. The high cost of living often keeps many young adults from attending college because of a lack of financial resources, Spainhower said.

"The major requirement of a student wanting a loan is that his total family income be less than $25,000," said Dick Ravenhill, state director of investments. The level of family income was raised to its current level from $15,000 in October 1976.

The student pays up to 7 per cent interest on his loan and does not begin payments until nine months after graduation. The remainder of any interest is paid by the federal government, Ravenhill said.

Details on specific loan requirements can be obtained from participating banks, Ravenhill said.

The 14 banks which requalified for the new deposit are: Gentry County Bank, Albany; First State Bank of Caruthersville; National Bank, Caruthersville; Callaway Bank, Fulton; Bank of Hayti; Standard State Bank, Independence; Commerce Bank of Kahoka; American Bank and Trust Co., Kansas City; Broadway National Bank, Kansas City; Bank of Kennett; Mercantile Bank, Louisiana; First National Bank, Neosho; First State Bank, Rolla; and Webster Groves Trust Co.

The nine banks continuing to provide student loans with deposits maturing later this year are: South Side Bank, Kansas City; United Missouri Bank South, Kansas City; First National Bank, Kirksville; Lexington Bank and Trust Co.; First National Bank, Pierce City; Bank of Rothville; American National Bank of St. Joseph; Mercantile-Commerce Bank, St. Louis; and Tower Grove Bank and Trust Co., St. Louis.

School to teach basics of everyday dollars-cents

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — A program designed to bring the abstract disciplines of economics down to the dollars and cents of everyday life will be launched this fall in the Shawnee Mission School District.

A joint venture of the district, the Overland Park Chamber of Commerce and the University of Kansas, the program will start in the junior highs and is designed to extend from kindergarten through senior high in the years ahead.

The object of this year's program will be 50 junior high teachers, who will take a three-hour college credit course on economics by Richard Dawson. He has been an economics instructor at Washburn University at Topeka and is currently completing work on his Ph.D. at Kansas State University.

He said his goal is to develop, through the teachers, a greater appreciation among the students of what the businessman does.

Carter wants less news conference TV coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter wants less, not more, live television coverage of his twice-a-month news conferences.

This surprising news comes from Barry Jagoda, a former network producer who is Carter's special assistant for media and public affairs.

By habit and inclination, politicians normally compete vigorously for maximum television exposure. That's what makes Carter's position a novel one, to say the least.

It isn't that the President opposes TV coverage of news conferences, however. He simply doesn't know why all three major commercial networks broadcast each one live instead of taking turns.

In a telephone interview, Jagoda cited three reasons why Carter would prefer that the networks cover the conferences on a one-at-a-time basis:

—The President has received "a lot of mail" from citizens who tell him they like the news conferences but are unhappy when his meetings with reporters deprive them of their favorite soap operas.

—Carter does not view the conferences as being aimed primarily at the public but sees them as opportunities to communicate with reporters and with those individuals (civic leaders and state and local authorities were cited as examples) who concern themselves with public policy on a day-to-day basis.

—If the three networks continue live coverage and the frequent news conferences come to be regarded as routine, one network might decide to forego its coverage and inspire the other two to do likewise, resulting in no TV coverage at all.

Jagoda said he and White House Press Secretary Jody Powell agree with the President's position.

However, the Carter aide prefaced a discussion of the subject by emphasizing the administration has a "very benign position" toward news conference coverage and would not attempt to tell the networks how to do their job.

Jagoda also said there was no thought at the White House that the present triple-header coverage of news conferences would lead to overexposure of the President. He contended that as long as the sessions are long on quality, as he believes them to be, quantity will be no problem.

Carter wants less news conference TV coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter wants less, not more, live television coverage of his twice-a-month news conferences.

This surprising news comes from Barry Jagoda, a former network producer who is Carter's special assistant for media and public affairs.

By habit and inclination, politicians normally compete vigorously for maximum television exposure. That's what makes Carter's position a novel one, to say the least.

It isn't that the President opposes TV coverage of news conferences, however. He simply doesn't know why all three major commercial networks broadcast each one live instead of taking turns.

In a telephone interview, Jagoda cited three reasons why Carter would prefer that the networks cover the conferences on a one-at-a-time basis:

—The President has received "a lot of mail" from citizens who tell him they like the news conferences but are unhappy when his meetings with reporters deprive them of their favorite soap operas.

—Carter does not view the conferences as being aimed primarily at the public but sees them as opportunities to communicate with reporters and with those individuals (civic leaders and state and local authorities were cited as examples) who concern themselves with public policy on a day-to-day basis.

—If the three networks continue live coverage and the frequent news conferences come to be regarded as routine, one network might decide to forego its coverage and inspire the other two to do likewise, resulting in no TV coverage at all.

Jagoda said he and White House Press Secretary Jody Powell agree with the President's position.

However, the Carter aide prefaced a discussion of the subject by emphasizing the administration has a "very benign position" toward news conference coverage and would not attempt to tell the networks how to do their job.

Jagoda also said there was no thought at the White House that the present triple-header coverage of news conferences would lead to overexposure of the President. He contended that as long as the sessions are long on quality, as he believes them to be, quantity will be no problem.

Moxabustion is the practice of placing little combustible cones of dried wormwood leaves (Artemisia moxa) on certain spots on the body and burning them down to the skin. This practice, related to acupuncture, originated in China and is still used in Chinese and Japanese medicine.

Winners chosen in New Madrid 4-H fair

RISCO -- Two Portageville girls, Rhonda McAlister, 16, and Stella DeLisle, 12, of the Shamrock 4-H Club, took top honors in the dress revue Thursday night at the 28th. annual New Madrid County 4-H Fair. Alternate honors were also captured by Portageville girls.

Miss McAlister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAlister, was the top winner for girls over 14, and will be the county representative in competition at State 4-H Day on Sept. 17 in Columbia.

Miss DeLisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeLisle, will represent the county in the school dress competition at the Mid-South Fair on Sept. 24 in Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Becky Brands,16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brands, was chosen alternate in the older girls division. She is eligible to compete in the evening wear category at the Mid-South Fair.

Denise Eftink, 12, was named alternate in the younger girls competition. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Eftink.

Mrs. Regina Cummins of Risco was narrator for the dress revue. Jimmy Bradley of New Madrid Route One, who is chairman of the New Madrid County University of Missouri Extension Council, served as master of ceremonies.

Nine-year old Julie Klobe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Klobe of New Madrid was judged the best in public speaking presentations. Her topic was titled "Together We Will". Because of her age, she is ineligible for state competition. However, her 15-year-old sister, Karen, who received the second highest number of points, may compete at the state level.

Blue winner ribbons in Share-the Fun competition were Leah Belvin of the Matthews 4-H Club who performed an acrobatic dance; Angie Fortner of the Risco-New Hope 4-H Club, who did a novelty dance; and Krissy Myers of the Little River Raiders 4-H Club, who performed a piano solo. All three are eligible to compete in the youth talent contest at the Mid-South Fair.

Winning blue ribbons and top honors for outstanding project demonstrations were Wayne Blough, Risco-New Hope 4-H Club, for his demonstration of relief wood carving; Becky Brands, who demonstrated making cinnamon rolls; Denise Eftink for her demonstration of setting a breakfast table; and Shawn Priggel, who demonstrated how to clean a paint brush.

Blough and Miss Brands are eligible to enter the electric theatre competition for electrical appliances at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia.

Winners announced in the fishing derby contest were Peter Maxwell, Joe Brands and Pat Eftink of the Portageville Shamrock Club, first, second and third place respectively, and Wayne Blough took fourth place.

Teresa McCormick of the Risco-New Hope 4-H Club earned 282 points out of a possible 300 to gain first place in the bicycle rodeo for girls. Carla Cooksey and Nanette Kelso of Matthews were second and third place winners. Leah Belvin and Angie Fortner received honorable mention.

Winners in the boy's bicycle rodeo were Quentin White, first place, with 288 points; Wayne Blough, second and Joey Brands, third. Honorable mention went to Bert Todd and Chris Scherer.

Blue, red and white ribbons were awarded to 625 individual entries that were judged in the categories of clothing, vegetables, arts and crafts, foods, entomology, field crops, needlework, cake decorating, woodwork and electricity and rabbit raising.

The Matthews 4-H Club and the Little River Raiders 4-H Club were in charge of stage decorations.

Krissy Myers gave a special film presentation titled "The Great American Farmer", using color slides she had taken of her family and farm scenes. The slides depicted the lyrics of a musical recording of the same title.

County extension personnel who coordinated the fair were Ted Cox, area youth specialist; Mrs. Pansy Crosby and Mrs. Alice Douthet, extension youth assistants and Mrs. Lou Stellato, office secretary.

Over 14 winners

Rhonda McAlister, 16, of Portageville, left, was first place winner in the competition for girls over 14 years in the annual dress revue Thursday night at the New Madrid County 4-H Fair in Risco. She will be the county's representative at State 4-H Day Sept. 17 in Columbia. Becky Brands, 16, of Portageville was chosen first alternate. She is eligible to compete in the evening wear division at the Mid-South Fair on Sept. 24 in Memphis, Tenn.

Fire damages Bunge plant

CAIRO -- The new multimillion-dollar Bunge Corp. grain processing plant here was heavily damaged Friday when fire broke out in the basement and shot up through several stories. Much of the damage was from smoke and water.

The opening of the new plant is expected to be delayed past the projected Aug. 15 completion date.

Cairo Fire Chief Arlie Seawright said all Cairo firemen including those off duty plus the auxiliary firemen were called to battle the blaze which was discovered about 8:40 a.m. Firemen spent an hour bringing the flames under control.

The fire apparently started in conveyor equipment located in the basement of a 120-foot tall grain elevator.

"The tall building acted just like a chimmey." Chief Seawright stated. "When we first got here, we thought the fire was near the roof because no smoke was visible anywhere else."

The chief said the plastic lining inside the conveyor housing caught fire and produced a hot blaze. The fire climbed through the conveyors from the basement and up several stories.

Moxabustion is the practice of placing little combustible cones of dried wormwood leaves (Artemisia moxa) on certain spots on the body and burning them down to the skin. This practice, related to acupuncture, originated in China and is still used in Chinese and Japanese medicine.

Winners chosen in New Madrid 4-H fair

RISCO -- Two Portageville girls, Rhonda McAlister, 16, and Stella DeLisle, 12, of the Shamrock 4-H Club, took top honors in the dress revue Thursday night at the 28th. annual New Madrid County 4-H Fair. Alternate honors were also captured by Portageville girls.

Miss McAlister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAlister, was the top winner for girls over 14, and will be the county representative in competition at State 4-H Day on Sept. 17 in Columbia.

Miss DeLisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeLisle, will represent the county in the school dress competition at the Mid-South Fair on Sept. 24 in Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Becky Brands,16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brands, was chosen alternate in the older girls division. She is eligible to compete in the evening wear category at the Mid-South Fair.

Denise Eftink, 12, was named alternate in the younger girls competition. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Eftink.

Mrs. Regina Cummins of Risco was narrator for the dress revue. Jimmy Bradley of New Madrid Route One, who is chairman of the New Madrid County University of Missouri Extension Council, served as master of ceremonies.

Nine-year old Julie Klobe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Klobe of New Madrid was judged the best in public speaking presentations. Her topic was titled "Together We Will". Because of her age, she is ineligible for state competition. However, her 15-year-old sister, Karen, who received the second highest number of points, may compete at the state level.

Blue winner ribbons in Share-the Fun competition were Leah Belvin of the Matthews 4-H Club who performed an acrobatic dance; Angie Fortner of the Risco-New Hope 4-H Club, who did a novelty dance; and Krissy Myers of the Little River Raiders 4-H Club, who performed a piano solo. All three are eligible to compete in the youth talent contest at the Mid-South Fair.

Winning blue ribbons and top honors for outstanding project demonstrations were Wayne Blough, Risco-New Hope 4-H Club, for his demonstration of relief wood carving; Becky Brands, who demonstrated making cinnamon rolls; Denise Eftink for her demonstration of setting a breakfast table; and Shawn Priggel, who demonstrated how to clean a paint brush.

Blough and Miss Brands are eligible to enter the electric theatre competition for electrical appliances at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia.

Winners announced in the fishing derby contest were Peter Maxwell, Joe Brands and Pat Eftink of the Portageville Shamrock Club, first, second and third place respectively, and Wayne Blough took fourth place.

Teresa McCormick of the Risco-New Hope 4-H Club earned 282 points out of a possible 300 to gain first place in the bicycle rodeo for girls. Carla Cooksey and Nanette Kelso of Matthews were second and third place winners. Leah Belvin and Angie Fortner received honorable mention.

Winners in the boy's bicycle rodeo were Quentin White, first place, with 288 points; Wayne Blough, second and Joey Brands, third. Honorable mention went to Bert Todd and Chris Scherer.

Blue, red and white ribbons were awarded to 625 individual entries that were judged in the categories of clothing, vegetables, arts and crafts, foods, entomology, field crops, needlework, cake decorating, woodwork and electricity and rabbit raising.

The Matthews 4-H Club and the Little River Raiders 4-H Club were in charge of stage decorations.

Krissy Myers gave a special film presentation titled "The Great American Farmer", using color slides she had taken of her family and farm scenes. The slides depicted the lyrics of a musical recording of the same title.

County extension personnel who coordinated the fair were Ted Cox, area youth specialist; Mrs. Pansy Crosby and Mrs. Alice Douthet, extension youth assistants and Mrs. Lou Stellato, office secretary.

Over 14 winners

Rhonda McAlister, 16, of Portageville, left, was first place winner in the competition for girls over 14 years in the annual dress revue Thursday night at the New Madrid County 4-H Fair in Risco. She will be the county's representative at State 4-H Day Sept. 17 in Columbia. Becky Brands, 16, of Portageville was chosen first alternate. She is eligible to compete in the evening wear division at the Mid-South Fair on Sept. 24 in Memphis, Tenn. (Daily Standard photos)

Fire damages Bunge plant

CAIRO -- The new multimillion-dollar Bunge Corp. grain processing plant here was heavily damaged Friday when fire broke out in the basement and shot up through several stories. Much of the damage was from smoke and water.

The opening of the new plant is expected to be delayed past the projected Aug. 15 completion date.

Cairo Fire Chief Arlie Seawright said all Cairo firemen including those off duty plus the auxiliary firemen were called to battle the blaze which was discovered about 8:40 a.m. Firemen spent an hour bringing the flames under control.

The fire apparently started in conveyor equipment located in the basement of a 120-foot tall grain elevator.

"The tall building acted just like a chimmey." Chief Seawright stated. "When we first got here, we thought the fire was near the roof because no smoke was visible anywhere else."

The chief said the plastic lining inside the conveyor housing caught fire and produced a hot blaze. The fire climbed through the conveyors from the basement and up several stories.

Sears catalog store started in Charleston

CHARLESTON— Construction of a new Sears catalog store has gotten underway on West Commercial Street.

The new store, which is being constructed just north of the newly paved public parking lots of West Commercial, will nearly triple the size of the present facility. The move to the new location will begin after completion of the store around Oct. 1.

The new store is being constructed at the new site primarily because o the available parking, according to C. D. Johnson, Sears planning director.

"The big thing is the parking," Johnson said. "We had been keeping our eye out for a location for a long time and when the paved site became available we decided in favor of it."

Johnson remarked that Sars had only been active towards moving operations for about three months.

The present store has 2,720 square feet and the new sales office will be 6,000 square feet. Johnson stated that the moving opeaations should be complete and the store ready for business tentatively Oct. 27.

"The new store will really help inventory space," Johnson noted. "There will also be a larger sales area."

Later plans include the possibility of an automotive center, Johnson said. "This center will be for car accessories such as tires and batteries, but would not include mechanical works."

Though the store is nearly tripling in size there is no anticipation for additional employees, according to Mrs. Bill Chambers, store manager.

The store presently employs eight persons including a maintenance specialist, Chambers said.

"The new store will remain strictly catalogue sales," Chambersremarked. "But the added space will help our efficiency greatly."

Chambers noted that the biggest assets with the larger store will be the additional storage and showroom. "Right now we really need the space," she said. "All of our backroom space is taken and we barely have room to work."

Chambers stated that the new store will have sapce for a service shop and an employee loungs. "We are delighted withthe move," the manager concluded. "We have been wanting it for such a long time."

The move will vacate a large building at a corner location on Main and Commercial Streets.

We hope that they can find a busines to move into the building," John Cowan, mini-mall developer, said. "It is still a very good building."

Cowan stated that he had been working vigorously on businesses to move to the proposed mall location just south of the Charleston IGA on West Commercial. Cowan noted that other businesses had shown interest.

"I think that with Sears making the move to the new location other businesses, especially chain stores, will look closely at the site."

The developer noted that the public parking lot at the site was enticing for most expanding businesses. "It is just one less headache for businesses wishing to expand to new buildings." Cowan stated. "I feel it is one of the strongest assets."

Bank makes comeback as business fortunes reverse

NEW YORK (AP) — The uncertainty of business is no more vividly illustrated than in the fortunes of two Memphis, Tenn., companies — Cook Industries, Inc., and Union Planters National Bank.

The directions taken by those two concerns — both well known nationally and internationally — are good examples of the fact the nothing is predictable in corporate life.

Just a few short years ago, the concerns were speeding full-steam in opposite directions. Cook, under the tutelage of chairman E. W. 'Ned' Cook, was a high-flying commodities company that had grown to become one of the five-largest grain exporting firms in the country.

The company's young, aggressive staff, said to be among the best-paid in the industry, came up with coup after coup in arranging huge grain sales abroad. Between 1972 and 1974, Cook's pretax earnings skyrocketed to $80 million from $4 million. The company was the pride of the city.

At the same time, there also was another company in the city that was attracting headlines in newspapers around the country. But most of the space being devoted to Union Planters — UP — was dealing with the $742.5 million deposit bank's financial troubles, and the plethora of lawsuits implicating members of the bank's management were involved in fraud and kickback schemes.

While observers were praising the successes of Cook, they were wondering out loud when UP would go down for the third time into the nearby Mississippi River. The bank had a loss of nearly $17 million in 1974 and a deficit of $2.8 million a year later.

It hasn't happened. In fact, now, just a few short years later, the situation is reversed. UP apparently has pulled itself up from the basement — at one time it had been labeled by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency as the No. 1 troubled bank in the country — and Cook is being hit by financial chaos that threatens its very existence.

Business watchers attribute the shifts to the company's top officers — Cook, and UP's chairman and chief executive officer, William M. Matthews Jr. They say that as Cook Industries' successes mounted, Cook delegated more and more authority to his top management. With that delegation of authority went the internal controls that could have prevented Cook's current status.

The situation at Union Planters is different. Matthews' 16- and 18-hour days already are legend in the area. And his one-man-rule manner has turned off many townspeople, as well as colleagues. But in the three years he has spent at the Memphis bank, he has been able to turn a nearly hopeless situation around.

Just last week, Union Planters reported its second quarter results, and the numbers gave further proof that the bank is, indeed, on its way to financial recovery. The company's parent, Union Planters Corp., reported net income of $471,193, or 15 cents a share, for the quarter. That put the firm's first half earnings at $784,559, or 25 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $2.7 million, or 86 cents a share, a year before.

Though the profit figures are small by major bank standards, they nonetheless are significant advances by UP. First of all, they represent operating earnings. And secondly, they look extremely good when compared with the massive deficits that had been commonplace at the bank.

The turnaround hasn't been easy, Matthews says, citing a 33 per cent cut in employes and a key trimming in the savings account interest rate last December. But so far, his decisions have been accompanied by a Midas touch — everything is turning to gold.

"I had to be aggressive to turn this bank around," the 44-year-old executive says. "The situation when I came here was just unbelievable.

"We had low-level employes, making $12,000 a year, who were wearing diamond rings and driving to work in Continentals. Nobody in the previous management ever thought to ask how they could afford it. Now we have enough ex-employees in jail to open a branch."

Matthews' aggressiveness also is paying off in the electronic banking area, where UP has taken a huge lead in Memphis that augurs well for its future. Matthews claims, as do some bank analysts, that UP is in the forefront of banks in the country in electronic banking.

Across town, at Cook Industries, things aren't as rosy, and information is much more difficult to get.

The apparent demise of Cook Industries began a few months ago, when in the period of few weeks, a corporate empire was nearly brought to its knees.

The company was required to disclose information about questionable payments abroad to start things off. Then, in rapid succession, it announced that it had a loss of $27.4 million, or $7.47 a share, in the first nine months of its fiscal year; that its expected a deficit of $60 million for the fiscal fourth quarter; and that the top two officers in its agriproducts group (the one responsible for the huge losses) were resigning.

Trading in Cook shares on the American Stock Exchange was halted and the company began to sell off many of its assets and lay off employes. Rumors began to circulate that the company would scale back sharply and become basically a cotton firm, leaving the much-more volatile grain business altogether.

Ned Cook has refused to comment on the developments throughout the turmoil, choosing instead to allow commodities experts and the press to speculate on the company's future.

State launches "MOTOP" hopes to increase exports

JEFFERSON CITY -- In an effort to bolster the export of Missouri-produced goods, the state on July 18 launched the Missouri Trade Opportunities Program (MOTOP).

According to Philip Valdes, CID's Director of International Business Development, "MOTOP takes trade information provided by the federal government and distributes it in timely fashion to firms in Missouri in a form tailored to their needs. This is an example of the cooperation that is possible between State and Federal Government."

The state has subscribed to a computer tape prepared by the U.S. Department of Commerce in Washington, D. C., listing trade opportunities discovered by United States Foreign Service posts around the world and sent to Washington by telegram.

The tape, which is compiled every two weeks, will be computer-run against a listing of Missouri manufacturers. On the basis of matching SIC codes, printouts of foreign requests for commodities will be mailed to Missouri companies producing the goods requested. The service is free of charge to Missouri firms.

"As a start, we are limiting our mailings to those companies that already export or that have indicated a desire to be included," Valdes said.

Any company which does not receive the MOTOP trade leads and wishes to may write Valdes to have the information entered into the computer program.

"The Missouri Directory of Manufacturers is compiled on the basis of a four-digit SIC code," Valdes said. "This is obviously less precise that the seven-digit code, we are not presently able to do so.

"Some companies may, consequently, receive a number of trade leads for products that are not in their line. We hope that they will bear with us, knowing at least that they will not be missing any trade leads in products that are in ther line," he said.

CID Director Don Estell added, "We are enthusiastic about MOTOP and believe that it will contribute to an expansion of the sales of Missouri products abroad and directly benefit the economic health of our State."

Mississippi County irrigation tour held Tuesday

Nearly 50 persons assembled at the Delta Growers Co-op five miles south of Charleston Tuesday morning for one of two irrigation tours in the bootheel area sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Councils.

The Mississippi County tour and the New Madrid County tour which began at the Risco High School Wednesday morning featured area extension specialists in farm management, agricultural engineering and agronomy who presented information pertaining to irrigation from their respective fields.

The Mississippi County tour featured electric drive, hydraulic drive, and water drive central pivot prinkler systems, plus cable tow sprinkler systems as well as flood irrigation. The New Madrid County tour featured central pivot systems and cable tow systems and flood systems.

The first stop on the Mississippi County tour was the Terry Hequembourg farm near the Coop site.

The farm consists of 2,400 acres, 1,020 of which can be irrigated. The farm was used to show flood irrigation systems. The Hequembourg farm has two 12 inch wells with 10 inch turbines capable of servicing 160 acres. The farm also has an eight inch well with a six inch Hahs pump that services 80 acres. The turbines are powered by 40 horse power electric motors.

The farm also has one and one-fourth miles of 10 inch gated pipe with the gates spaced on 20 inch centers. Total costs of the operation was estimated at $194 per acre.

The second stop on the tour was at the Fred Ferrell Farm which consists of 1,400 acres.

The Ferrells installed a 160-acre electric drive valley center pivot irrigation system this year. The system is located in the center of a 180-acre field. They are presently irrigating 135 acres but a corner unit installed this winter will enable them to irrigate 172 of the 180 acres. Total investment per acre irrigated was estimated at $320.

The James C. Moreton Farm was the site for demonstration of the hydraulic drive center pivot system. Of the 1,600 acres in the county of Moretons can irrigate 1,000 acres.

Moreton has been irrigating for 15 years and his present system includes a T and L hydraulic drive center pivot system located on a 320 acre tract of land. The moveable system allows Moreton to irrigate 264 acres. Total investment per acre for the system is $169.

The final stop on the county wide tour was the Paul Hulshof farm in the northern sector of the county.

Hulshof began irrigating 17 years ago and has used several different sprinkler systems. Currently he is using a water drive Higromatic center pivot system on 120 acres of corn and 120 acres of soybeans. He also has a cable-tow sprinkler system which is used to irrigate 80 acres of corn and 80 acres of soybeans. He also used flood irrigation methods on 160 additional acres.

His operating procedure is to move the system every 30 to 44 hours. Total costs per acre irrigated is estimated at $117.

Specialists featured on the tour included E.B. Nace, agriculture engineer, John Yount, farm management specialist, Richard McIntosh, farm management specialist, Floyd Wright, county extension agronomist, Joe Scott, state agronomist specialist, John Garrett, Scott county agronomist and soil testing specialist, Dale Klobe, New Madrid county extension agronomist, and Phil Striker University of Missouri agronomist.

USDA extends comment period on proposal to define terms in beef grade standards

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) extended to August 8 the deadline for commenting on its proposal to add several definitions to the U.S. carcass beef standards.

USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service, which administers the voluntary meat grading service, said that the definitions are needed to clarify certain terms currently used in the standards. The comment period had been scheduled to end July 8 but USDA received requests for an extension of the time for submitting comments.

The definitions, which were proposed in the June 8 Federal Register, are:

Carcass -- the two sides of the same slaughtered animal with or without the kidneys and after removal of the other viscera and the hide, head, feet, and tail.

Side – each of the two parts which results from splitting a carcass lengthwise through its approximate median plane.

Quarter -- each of two portions which results from ribbing a side between the 12th and 13th ribs.

Wholesale cut -- any one of the following subdivisions of a quarter: round, full loin (or short loin and sirloin), rib, chuck (square-cut chuck or arm chuck), brisket, short plate, flank, and foreshank. Except for the full loin and arm chuck, a combination of two or more of these subdivisions shall not be considered a wholesale cut.

Primal cut – any one of the major wholesale cuts – round, full loin (or short loin and sirloin (rib and square cut chuck, chuck, briskets, short plates, flanks, and foreshanks are not primal cuts.

Subprimal cut – a portion or a primal or other wholesale cut such as those listed in the Institutional Meat Purchase Specifications for Fresh Beef and similar cuts normally produced by beef fabricators. Examples of subprimal cuts include the arm section of a square-cut chuck, a rump and shank-off round, a boneless brisket, and a bonein or boneless strip loin. A subprimal cut does not result from the trimming only of fat nor from the removal of only a minor amount of lean and-or bone from a primal or other wholesale cut.

Comments on the proposal should be sent in duplicate to: Hearing Clerk, Room 1077-S, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

FULL TIME, PART TIME

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Temporary employment is not just a sometimes thing for nearly 3.5 million persons, representing about 3 per cent of the total U.S. labor force, who do part time work on a full-time basis, says Manpower, Inc.

Some 67 per cent of these temporary workers who devote a few hours each day to their jobs are women, who have raised and educated their children and wish to fill spare time or contribute to the family income, the firm reports.

Risk, uncertainty and change affect farm management

By Richard F. McIntosh
rea Farm Management Specialist

A farm manager's job isn't easy. Most decisions are made in a framework of risk, uncertainty, and change. Consequently, decisions are often modified in order to compensate for these variables. As a result, we expound cliches' such as "Don't put all your eggs in one basket." This philosophy isn't necessarily wrong. But it does often foster a status-quo situation. An example is the farmer who is reluctant to plant many acres of corn because of fear of a drought, or being reluctant to forward price soybeans when booking prices were $7.50 plus per bushel.

Question: What is the best way of coping with risk and uncertainty? Answer: Eliminate the cause if the cost isn't too high. When we consider the basic factors that affect profit, we must consider the profit formula: Profit equals Yield x Price - Cost

Yield Uncertainty - What factor(s) have caused your yields to vary the most in the past 5 years? After you have identified these, ask the question "Can I eliminate the cause profitably?" Were your major problems (1) too much water (consider land grading and ditching); (2) not enough water (consider irrigation); (3) weeds (consider different herbicides or again drainage problems may be impeding timely cultivation or post-emergence herbicide applications, or maybe crop rotation is the answer); (4) nematode problems (consider resistant varieties, crop rotation, nematicides, improved soil fertility.)

These are but a few of the factors that may have been involved. You may want to rank these on the basis of major and minor problems as well as which will result in the greatest return the fastest if corrected.

Price Uncertainty - What about price? It has a tremendous influence on profit. As long as burdensome surpluses aren't present and the commodity is being marketed worl-wide, prices are going to fluctuate.

Forward pricing is one way of shifting price risk. Either use the futures market to hedge or book with your local elevator.

Grain storage is another way of increasing your marketing alternatives. Consequently the risk of having to sell on a depressed market is reduced.

Change - Technology is constantly changing. The profitability of enterprises changes over time. Therefore consider the alternative uses of buildings before construction. There is a lot of differnce between the technological life of a building and its structured life.

I watched a bulldozer the other day clean up the remains of a structurally good "horse barn." The farmer destroyed it because functionally it was obsolete. The cost of remodeling it would have exceeded the cost of a new building.

The same thing can be said about highly specialized equipment. White elephants continue to generate cost and as they do your profits suffer. Risk, uncertainty and change do cause problesm. Most problems do not solve themselves. The solution of problems generally requires decisions being made and action taken.

Sikeston store among 3 to liquidate shoes

ST. LOUIS -- G & S Enterprises, Inc., has entered into a contract with the Lee Shoe Stores, Inc., of St. Louis at the demand of creditors to pay past due accounts.

The shoe chain is a family type shoe store carrying popular price shoes for men, women and children. They have recently consolidated its seven operations formerly in Sedalia,; Jefferson City, Eldorado, Ark.; Shawnee, Oklahoma into the three remaining stores which are in Salina, Kansas; Sikeston, and Texarkana, Texas. Over 25,000 pair of shoes will be liquidated between the three stores in an effort to satisfy creditors.

Present management plans to remain in business.

Long term considerations in nowhere market

BY CROCKETT SCOTT

In a "going nowhere" market there still are long term considerations available, and the opportunity to make money in the months ahead.

Such is the contention of stockbrokers in leading investment houses.

An example could be a study of the common shares of Strawbridge & Clethier one of the nation's elder and still independently owned department storees, located in the Philadelphia area.

To some SEC registered investment analysts in the East, Strawbridge is a natural takover target by one of the larger department store chains, such as May Department stores Co., Federated Department Stores of Associated Dry Goods Corp.

Such an event likely would send the stock to a healthy premium, in their professional opinion.

Strawbridge & Clethier trades ever the counter, around 25-27, near its high mark of 1977-1976; which was 30 last year.

So the question arises, is Strawbridge a buy currently, considering that the stock sold as low as 13 in 1975 Probably not, say a number of Philadelphia and New York based SEC registered security analysis, but certainly it is an equity to study and watch.

Many of them fear that the nation's economy will be moving into a slump by early to mid-year, 1978; and that such an occurrence -- unwanted though it would be -- could knock the stock down.

At such a time small investors likely would spot the stock as a bargain; and indeed so would the big department stores chains as well. Then would be the likely time to acquire the stock, not the analysis.

Such conjecture may never come to pass, concede various Easter stockbrokers; but they emphasize that it might well to be prepared for such a development.

Sterling Drug is another stock of fine quality which a number of St. Louis SEC registered analysts recommend studying.

While Sterling Drug's earnings have been relatively flat, around to $1.60 to $1.70 or so per share in recent years, a low price earnings ratio of approximately 9-10, a dividend payer since 1902, and a balance sheet substantiating an "A plus" rating by Standard & Peer's make this equity worthy of consideration by the conservative investor, say St. Louis analysts.

Proprietary drugs, in which Sterling long has been a leader, have been around a long while, say the analysts --- and probably will be for a long time to come.

Florida Steel merits attention of the conservative investor, too; in the opinion of various Miami SEC registered security analysts.

Though highly leveraged ---- long term debt of $19.6 million, as of 12-10-76, according to Standard & Peer's in relation to $4.46 million in cash or equivalent --- Florida Steel might be considered as a purchase later this year or in 1978 --- depending on the economy.

Such is the thinking of the Florida Analysts, who consider the long term debt of the firm not much of a risk in view of the boom status of Florida construction.

However, a slow-down of the economy in coming months could exert selling pressure on all stocks --- Florida's included ---; hence the prudeny investor might study the stock for now, with a view for consideration of purchase of Florida Steel, should it sell off.

The stock trades presently around 20 on the New York Stock Exchange, with a high last year of 29-30; and a low of 19 ½.

The 1975 range was from a high of 26 and ⅜ths to a low of 18. However, a few years age the stock traded up to 44 ⅞ths. But the recent year low was 5½. Caution thus is the watchward.

One certainly should make extensive inquiries into management and prespects, not the analysts.

Yet the potential for substantial capital gain on Florida Steel is present, if you can buy at the right time.

Sears catalog store started in Charleston

CHARLESTON— Construction of a new Sears catalog store has gotten underway on West Commercial Street.

The new store, which is being constructed just north of the newly paved public parking lots of West Commercial, will nearly triple the size of the present facility. The move to the new location will begin after completion of the store around Oct. 1.

The new store is being constructed at the new site primarily because o the available parking, according to C. D. Johnson, Sears planning director.

"The big thing is the parking," Johnson said. "We had been keeping our eye out for a location for a long time and when the paved site became available we decided in favor of it."

Johnson remarked that Sars had only been active towards moving operations for about three months.

The present store has 2,720 square feet and the new sales office will be 6,000 square feet. Johnson stated that the moving opeaations should be complete and the store ready for business tentatively Oct. 27.

"The new store will really help inventory space," Johnson noted. "There will also be a larger sales area."

Later plans include the possibility of an automotive center, Johnson said. "This center will be for car accessories such as tires and batteries, but would not include mechanical works."

Though the store is nearly tripling in size there is no anticipation for additional employees, according to Mrs. Bill Chambers, store manager.

The store presently employs eight persons including a maintenance specialist, Chambers said.

"The new store will remain strictly catalogue sales," Chambersremarked. "But the added space will help our efficiency greatly."

Chambers noted that the biggest assets with the larger store will be the additional storage and showroom. "Right now we really need the space," she said. "All of our backroom space is taken and we barely have room to work."

Chambers stated that the new store will have sapce for a service shop and an employee loungs. "We are delighted withthe move," the manager concluded. "We have been wanting it for such a long time."

The move will vacate a large building at a corner location on Main and Commercial Streets.

We hope that they can find a busines to move into the building," John Cowan, mini-mall developer, said. "It is still a very good building."

Cowan stated that he had been working vigorously on businesses to move to the proposed mall location just south of the Charleston IGA on West Commercial. Cowan noted that other businesses had shown interest.

"I think that with Sears making the move to the new location other businesses, especially chain stores, will look closely at the site."

The developer noted that the public parking lot at the site was enticing for most expanding businesses. "It is just one less headache for businesses wishing to expand to new buildings." Cowan stated. "I feel it is one of the strongest assets."

Bank makes comeback as business fortunes reverse

NEW YORK (AP) — The uncertainty of business is no more vividly illustrated than in the fortunes of two Memphis, Tenn., companies — Cook Industries, Inc., and Union Planters National Bank.

The directions taken by those two concerns — both well known nationally and internationally — are good examples of the fact the nothing is predictable in corporate life.

Just a few short years ago, the concerns were speeding full-steam in opposite directions. Cook, under the tutelage of chairman E. W. 'Ned' Cook, was a high-flying commodities company that had grown to become one of the five-largest grain exporting firms in the country.

The company's young, aggressive staff, said to be among the best-paid in the industry, came up with coup after coup in arranging huge grain sales abroad. Between 1972 and 1974, Cook's pretax earnings skyrocketed to $80 million from $4 million. The company was the pride of the city.

At the same time, there also was another company in the city that was attracting headlines in newspapers around the country. But most of the space being devoted to Union Planters — UP — was dealing with the $742.5 million deposit bank's financial troubles, and the plethora of lawsuits implicating members of the bank's management were involved in fraud and kickback schemes.

While observers were praising the successes of Cook, they were wondering out loud when UP would go down for the third time into the nearby Mississippi River. The bank had a loss of nearly $17 million in 1974 and a deficit of $2.8 million a year later.

It hasn't happened. In fact, now, just a few short years later, the situation is reversed. UP apparently has pulled itself up from the basement — at one time it had been labeled by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency as the No. 1 troubled bank in the country — and Cook is being hit by financial chaos that threatens its very existence.

Business watchers attribute the shifts to the company's top officers — Cook, and UP's chairman and chief executive officer, William M. Matthews Jr. They say that as Cook Industries' successes mounted, Cook delegated more and more authority to his top management. With that delegation of authority went the internal controls that could have prevented Cook's current status.

The situation at Union Planters is different. Matthews' 16- and 18-hour days already are legend in the area. And his one-man-rule manner has turned off many townspeople, as well as colleagues. But in the three years he has spent at the Memphis bank, he has been able to turn a nearly hopeless situation around.

Just last week, Union Planters reported its second quarter results, and the numbers gave further proof that the bank is, indeed, on its way to financial recovery. The company's parent, Union Planters Corp., reported net income of $471,193, or 15 cents a share, for the quarter. That put the firm's first half earnings at $784,559, or 25 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $2.7 million, or 86 cents a share, a year before.

Though the profit figures are small by major bank standards, they nonetheless are significant advances by UP. First of all, they represent operating earnings. And secondly, they look extremely good when compared with the massive deficits that had been commonplace at the bank.

The turnaround hasn't been easy, Matthews says, citing a 33 per cent cut in employes and a key trimming in the savings account interest rate last December. But so far, his decisions have been accompanied by a Midas touch — everything is turning to gold.

"I had to be aggressive to turn this bank around," the 44-year-old executive says. "The situation when I came here was just unbelievable.

"We had low-level employes, making $12,000 a year, who were wearing diamond rings and driving to work in Continentals. Nobody in the previous management ever thought to ask how they could afford it. Now we have enough ex-employees in jail to open a branch."

Matthews' aggressiveness also is paying off in the electronic banking area, where UP has taken a huge lead in Memphis that augurs well for its future. Matthews claims, as do some bank analysts, that UP is in the forefront of banks in the country in electronic banking.

Across town, at Cook Industries, things aren't as rosy, and information is much more difficult to get.

The apparent demise of Cook Industries began a few months ago, when in the period of few weeks, a corporate empire was nearly brought to its knees.

The company was required to disclose information about questionable payments abroad to start things off. Then, in rapid succession, it announced that it had a loss of $27.4 million, or $7.47 a share, in the first nine months of its fiscal year; that its expected a deficit of $60 million for the fiscal fourth quarter; and that the top two officers in its agriproducts group (the one responsible for the huge losses) were resigning.

Trading in Cook shares on the American Stock Exchange was halted and the company began to sell off many of its assets and lay off employes. Rumors began to circulate that the company would scale back sharply and become basically a cotton firm, leaving the much more volatile grain business altogether.

Ned Cook has refused to comment on the developments throughout the turmoil, choosing instead to allow commodities experts and the press to speculate on the company's future.

State launches "MOTOP" hopes to increase exports

JEFFERSON CITY – In an effort to bolster the export of Missouri-produced goods, the state on July 18 launched the Missouri Trade Opportunities Program (MOTOP).

According to Philip Valdes, CID's Director of International Business Development, "MOTOP takes trade information provided by the federal government and distributes it in timely fashion to firms in Missouri in a form tailored to their needs. This is an example of the cooperation that is possible between State and Federal Government."

The state has subscribed to a computer tape prepared by the U.S. Department of Commerce in Washington, D. C., listing trade opportunities discovered by United States Foreign Service posts around the world and sent to Washington by telegram.

The tape, which is compiled every two weeks, will be computer-run against a listing of Missouri manufacturers. USDA extends comment period on proposal to define terms in beef grade standards

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) extended to August 8 the deadline for commenting on its proposal to add several definitions to the U.S. carcass beef standards.

USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service, which administers the voluntary meat grading service, said that the definitions are needed to clarify certain terms currently used in the standards. The comment period had been scheduled to end July 8 but USDA received requests for an extension of the time for submitting comments.

The definitions, which were proposed in the June 8 Federal Register, are:

Carcass -- the two sides of the same slaughtered animal with or without the kidneys and after removal of the other viscera and the hide, head, feet, and tail.

Side – each of the two parts which results from splitting a carcass lengthwise through its approximate median plane.

Quarter -- each of two portions which results from ribbing a side between the 12th and 13th ribs.

Wholesale cut -- any one of the following subdivisions of a quarter: round, full loin (or short loin and sirloin), rib, chuck (square-cut chuck or arm chuck), brisket, short plate, flank, and foreshank. Except for the full loin and arm chuck, a combination of two or more of these subdivisions shall not be considered a wholesale cut.

Primal cut – any one of the major wholesale cuts – round, full loin (or short loin and sirloin (rib and square cut chuck, chuck, briskets, short plates, flanks, and foreshanks are not primal cuts.

Subprimal cut – a portion of a primal or other wholesale cut such as those listed in the Institutional Meat Purchase Specifications for Fresh Beef and similar cuts normally produced by beef fabricators. Examples of subprimal cuts include the arm section of a square-cut chuck, a rump and shank-off round, a boneless brisket, and a bonein or boneless strip loin. A subprimal cut does not result from the trimming only of fat nor from the removal of only a minor amount of lean and-or bone from a primal or other wholesale cut.

Comments on the proposal should be sent in duplicate to: Hearing Clerk, Room 1077-S, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

FULL TIME, PART TIME

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Temporary employment is not just a sometimes thing for nearly 3.5 million persons, representing about 3 per cent of the total U.S. labor force, who do part time work on a full-time basis, says Manpower, Inc.

Some 67 per cent of these temporary workers who devote a few hours each day to their jobs are women, who have raised and educated their children and wish to fill spare time or contribute to the family income, the firm reports.

Long term considerations in nowhere market

BY CROCKETT SCOTT

In a "going nowhere" market there still are long term considerations available, and the opportunity to make money in the months ahead.

Such is the contention of stockbrokers in leading investment houses.

An example could be a study of the common shares of Strawbridge & Clethier one of the nation's elder and still independently owned department storees, located in the Philadelphia area.

To some SEC registered investment analysts in the East, Strawbridge is a natural takover target by one of the larger department store chains, such as May Department stores Co., Federated Department Stores of Associated Dry Goods Corp.

Such an event likely would send the stock to a healthy premium, in their professional opinion.

Strawbridge & Clethier trades ever the counter, around 25-27, near its high mark of 1977-1976; which was 30 last year.

So the question arises, is Strawbridge a buy currently, considering that the stock sold as low as 13 in 1975. Probably not, say a number of Philadelphia and New York based SEC registered security analysis, but certainly it is an equity to study and watch.

Many of them fear that the nation's economy will be moving into a slump by early to mid-year, 1978; and that such an occurrence -- unwanted though it would be -- could knock the stock down.

At such a time small investors likely would spot the stock as a bargain; and indeed so would the big department stores chains as well. Then would be the likely time to acquire the stock, not the analysis.

Such conjecture may never come to pass, concede various Easter stockbrokers; but they emphasize that it might well to be prepared for such a development.

Sterling Drug is another stock of fine quality which a number of St. Louis SEC registered analysts recommend studying.

While Sterling Drug's earnings have been relatively flat, around to $1.60 to $1.70 or so per share in recent years, a low price earnings ratio of approximately 9-10, a dividend payer since 1902, and a balance sheet substantiating an "A plus" rating by Standard & Peer's make this equity worthy of consideration by the conservative investor, say St. Louis analysts.

Proprietary drugs, in which Sterling long has been a leader, have been around a long while, say the analysts --- and probably will be for a long time to come.

Florida Steel merits attention of the conservative investor, too; in the opinion of various Miami SEC registered security analysts.

Though highly leveraged ---- long term debt of $19.6 million, as of 12-10-76, according to Standard & Peer's in relation to $4.46 million in cash or equivalent --- Florida Steel might be considered as a purchase later this year or in 1978 --- depending on the economy.

Such is the thinking of the Florida Analysts, who consider the long term debt of the firm not much of a risk in view of the boom status of Florida construction.

However, a slow-down of the economy in coming months could exert selling pressure on all stocks --- Florida's included ---; hence the prudeny investor might study the stock for now, with a view for consideration of purchase of Florida Steel, should it sell off.

The stock trades presently around 20 on the New York Stock Exchange, with a high last year of 29-30; and a low of 19 ½.

The 1975 range was from a high of 26 and ⅜ths to a low of 18. However, a few years age the stock traded up to 44 ⅞ths. But the recent year low was 5½. Caution thus is the watchward.

One certainly should make extensive inquiries into management and prespects, not the analysts.

Yet the potential for substantial capital gain on Florida Steel is present, if you can buy at the right time.

Cotton Council seeks OSHA common sense

MEMPHIS – The National Cotton Council recently called for a "rational, common-sense approach" to rule-making concerning worker exposure to cotton dust.

In post-hearing comments filed with Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Council emphasizes that the cotton industry is not insensitive to its employees' health and safety needs and does not challenge OSHA's responsibility to assure that safe and healthful work conditions are provided.

However, the Council maintains that the preponderance of evidence presented during the hearings on OSHA's proposed new industrywide dust standard shows that safe and healthful work conditions already prevail in most of the work areas in the industry's various sectors.

On the baiss of evidence in the hearing record, the Council asserts that OSHA should (1) exclude non-textile sectors from the standard, and (2) set exposure limits in keeping with potential hazard to workers in those textile sectors where it considers a standard necessary. Cited as an example is testimony showing that workers in spinning and weaving sectors of textile mills could be exposed to higher dust levels and still be given the high level of protection that the proposed 0.2 milligram standard would provide in opening and carding rooms.

The Council also notes that studies currently planned by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health on worker exposure to dusts in the various industry sectors will enable OSHA to promulgate an equitable standard without unduly penalizing the industry.

"In sectors where there is no proof of a problem, OSHA has no basis for placing an insurmountable cost burden on industry," the Council states. In sectors where there is evidence of a problem, OSHA has a responsibility to assure worker protection in the most cost effective way."

The statement also points to greatly expanded research programs on byssinosis which have been stimulated as a result of industry efforts over the past five years. Finding from this research, the Council says, offer hope for short-term answers to the cotton dust problem and strong indications that much progress can be made within the next year or two.

Missouri cattle feeders have 3rd losing year

Joseph J. Marks

COLUMBIA, Missouri cattle feeders have lost money for the third straight year, according to reports just released by the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Cattle feeders who cooperated with UMC's mail-in record program showed their total costs per head were $62 higher than the dollar value of beef they produced in 1976. In 1975, the difference was $7 a head; in 1974 they lost a whopping $144 a head.

"The cattlemen who have stayed in business have been able to do so because their income has at least paid most of their out-of-pocket costs the past three years," said Myron Bennett, UMC agricultural economist.

"Also, the value of their land has continued to rise, so their net worth has gone up despite some low income years."

Bennett blamed low market prices for the sag in beef cattle profits this past year, and he said this year's outlook is a little more optimistic.

"Right now, cattlemen who are buying or have already purchased replacement cattle will have lower production costs," he said.

"The drop in the price of corn has reduced costs.

"With lower production costs and, hopefully, a higher beef market than a year earlier, some profit should show up for from cattle marketed in the next few months."

Missouri cattle feeders made less money in 1976 than either hog producers or dairymen. Only beef cow-calf producers did worse.

Bennett said his 1976 study of Missouri cattle feeders was based on farms averaging 214 head apiece.

On the average, they received $195.08 a head while having total costs of $256.81.

Costs included the value of the operator's labor and other "fixed" expenses like interest and depreciation on buildings and fences, plus an interest charge on operating capital invested on cattle and feed.

"The interest charge of 7 per cent is similar to what the cattle feeder would have made if he put his money into a savings account instead of into cattle and feeding facilities," said Bennett. "This makes total costs higher than actual out-of-pocket costs for most cattle feeders. A fellow who didn't have to borrow money wouldn't have these 'opportunity costs.'

"Still, it's pretty clear that Missouri beef cattle feeders lost money. In fact, the value of their farm produced beef was even slightly less than their feed costs."

Bennett figured the market value of purchased and home-raise feed on these farms at $195.56 per head -- 48 cents a head less than they received for their animals.

"That means the cattle feeder who buys feeder cattle and fattens them for slaughter didn't make enough extra money to cover such extra things as labor, fixed expenses, or to give himself something for his management effort."

Corn producers seek temporary sugar loans

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — An organization of some of the nation's largest corn farmers is urging Congress to adopt a crop loan program for sugar producers, traditional rivals of corn refiners.

"We're not looking to help sugar industry people at all; this is to protect the corn sweetener industry," explained John W. Curry of Victoria, Ill., president of the National Corn Growers Association.

The vote Tuesday night concluded business matters at the group's 19th annual meeting.

Immediately afterward, former president Walter Geppinger of Boone, Iowa, telephoned lobbyists in Washington to tell them corn growers approve of temporary loans for sugar farmers like ones avilable for corn and soybeans. The program would cease when the United States works out an international trade agreement with other sugar-producing nations.

Curry said the move is intended to head off a two-cent subsidy to sugar producers and processors, being considered in amendments today to the House Farm Bill.

Curry said Farm Bureau and organizations representing sugar cane and sugar beet growers also endorse the sugar loan program.

Under corn and soybean loan programs, when prices fall below predetermined levels farmers are eligible for low-cost federal loans so they can keep crops in storage until prices improve.

"With sugar selling for 7 to 9 cents a pound, the corn sweetener industry is not able to compete," said Curry. Corn refiners use about 360 million bushels of corn a year for sweeteners used in soft drinks, beer, bakery goods and other food.

The sugar loan idea was among a package of resolutions approved by the corn growers at their 19th annual meeting. Also adopted was a proposal that the loan level for corn be increased about 30 cents, to $2 a bushel, with farmers retaining control of the time, price and sale of their corn and the Commodity Credit Corp., paying for storage after the first year.

Not even discussed on the meeting floor, though a hot topic elsewhere, was a controversial checkoff on corn. A soybean checkoff system generates about $800,000 a year for market development and research, and corn growers have been pressured to adopt a similar program.

However, a proposal for a national corn check was considered last year and was a major reason for infighting that led to a reorganization of the Iowa-based group.

It is now a federation of 11 state groups, and corn checkoff "is entirely a state question," Curry said firmly.

Only Kansas has adopted a checkoff for corn, two mills per bushel. Texas farmers will vote on a similar program next week and Iowa will hold a referendum in the fall.

Earl Foote of Bucyrus, Kan., noted the Kansas checkoff took effect July 1 and is expected to generate between $160,000 and $200,000 a year, with 50 per cent earmarked for sales promotion. "If Illinois had one it could raise $800,000," Foote said of the nation's leading corn producer.

Darwin Stolte, president of the U. S. Feed Grains Council, chided the corn growers on Monday, noting that producers of other grains contribute about $4 million a year to organizations developing export markets. Corn producers while making other contributions, "are not paying their share of overseas market development," he said. "Only about $25,000 a year."

Adopted without dissension was a resolution supporting "directives, laws and foreign diplomacy that encourages greater exchange of ideas, goods and services internationally." The United States exported about 30 per cent of its corn crop last year.

Also approved was a cesolution urging establishment of a national task force on grain quality.

The proposal followed recommendations made Monday by Dr. Lowell Hill, University of Illinois agricultural economist. Hill said the 1976 GrainStandards Act calls for the federal government to investigate current grain grading standards but nothing has happened.

The act passed following a scandal about grain inspections in Louisiana and Texas, and complaints by foreign buyers about the quality of U.S. grain sold abroad.

The corn growers proposed a national commission of farmers, grain industry leaders, consumers, university scientists and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It would set priorities for research on grain handling and corn quality, and identify ways to improve procedures in domestic and foreign markets.

Kansas beef producer testifies in favor of importing meat

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A major beef processor from southwest Kansas testified today that the United States must continue to import lean beef in order to keep its own meatpacking industry going efficiently.

The testimony was given at a hearing before the U.S. International Trade Commission by John Jacobson of Liberal, Kan., who heads three affiliated beef slaughtering and processing firms at Liberal, Kansas City and Worcester, Mass.

The hearing is one of several being conducted by the commission to determine if there is a need to revise either the Meat Import Act of 1964 or the Trade Reform Act of 1974.

Jacobson testified that 20 per cent of the meat from the 550,000 head of cattle slaughtered at Liberal in the past year is not marketable in retail stores.

"It must be disposed of as a source of 'grinding meats,' which must be blended with lean meat in order to make either an acceptable ground beef product or a sausage product," he testified.

Jacobson said the lack of sufficient lean meat with which to blend these fatter portions of the type of cattle which American producers specialize in would mean that packers would have to pay less for fat cattle.

"Without the supply of imported lean beef to augment our U.S. supply, the manufacture of sausage products and ground beef would be limited," Jacobson said. "Our own lean meat supply in the United States is not adequate for this blend."

The commission hearing was on the competition posed by imported beef to the domestic cattle industry and whether laws on import quotas should be changed.

Jacobson noted that his position is opposite to that of cattle raisers, but he said he felt that their distressed market condition is due more to erratic weather patterns rather than competition from imported beef.

"I feel that our cattlemen friends may be overreacting to present low prices and high costs, just as they reacted in their expansion program of the early 1970s," he said.

"By withholding cattle then, there prices were driven up, but the numbers of cattle grew and the groundwork was laid for the collapse of 1974."

Intrigue, Action Set Pace of New Crosby Thriller

THE COMPANY OF FRIENDS. By John Crosby. Stein & Day. 228 Pages. $8.95.

International intrigue has always fascinated novelist John Crosby and in his latest thriller, he leads us on a wild transatlantic chase involving agents of the KGB, the Soviet spy apparatus, and the American CIA.

It is a strange world that Crosby depicts, one where treachery is the rule and murder is only incidental. In fact, the bodies pile up so fast that it becomes difficult to keep count.

The plot deals with Sascha Nagy, a world-famous pianist, whose longtime friend, Roger Schilling, a CIA operative who plays the violin, cons him into acting as bait in a complex intelligence trap.

Sascha dutifully goes off to Warsaw to attend the farewell concert of an aged cellist and soon discovers the old man has been done in and that he is the prime murder suspect.

It is difficult for our hero or the reader to keep a grip on reality as the characters grope through an Alice In Wonderland realm where the pursuer is also the pursued and nothing is as it seems. About the only thing Sascha can be sure of is that someone is out to frame him.

Sascha's peace of mind isn't helped by the dawning realization that his exotic wife, Valentina, is also a spy whose actions are so devious he cannot tell which side she is working for.

Gradually the pieces fall into place and by the end of the book you have an idea of who is being double-crossed. But you probably wouldn't bet on it.

While weaving this tangled web, Crosby makes some side trips. He exhibits a considerable knowledge of music, both classical and lowdown boogie.

Control insects in farm stored wheat

Thomas A. Brown, Jr.
specialist

Because of low harvest-time prices, a large volume of wheat was placed in on-farm storage this spring. In addition, considerable wheat from the 1976 crop is still being held in farm storage in the county. Steps should be taken to insure that this grain is kept as free of insects as possible. The following recommendations will help you control insects in stored grain:

Fumigate grain six to eight weeks after it was placed in storage if malathion grain protectant was not used. Fumigants should be applied when grain temperatures are at least 65 degrees F. and wind velocity is below 15 miles per hour. A mixed fumigant, consisting of carbon tetrachloride mixed with carbon disulphide, ethylene dichloride, ethylene dibronide, or chloropicrin, or combinations of the above, or methyl bromide, is recommended.

Use the maximum amount suggested on the container label. Level the grain ssurface before fumigant is applied, and be sure that there is at least six inches of wall space between the grain surface and the top of the bin.

Spray the fumigant as uniformly over the grain surface as possible. Wear a gas mask approved by the U.S. Bureau of Mines for the type of fumigant being used while applying it and if you should re-enter the bin shortly after fumigant is applied.

In open top wooden bins, spread a tarp over grain after fumigant is applied to help hold fumes in the bin. The bin may be opened and aired out after 72 hours. Follow label directions pertaining to the use of the fumigant carefully.

Check bins regularly for signs of insect damage. During warm weather, inspect bins every two to four weeks. Sifting a sample taken from the grain surface will usually indicate whether or not insects are present during warm weather. During cold weather, check grain at least once a month. A grain probe should be used to take the sample as infestations are usually found near the center of the grain mass when weather is cold. Fumigate again if insects are found.

Bait for rats and mice as soon as signs are noticed. Never wait until large numbers are present before starting the control program.

You have lots of money invested in your stored grain. It would behoove you to take care of it accordingly.

THE COMPANY OF FRIENDS. By John Crosby. Stein & Day. 228 Pages. $8.95.

International intrigue has always fascinated novelist John Crosby and in his latest thriller, he leads us on a wild transatlantic chase involving agents of the KGB, the Soviet spy apparatus, and the American CIA.

It is a strange world that Crosby depicts, one where treachery is the rule and murder is only incidental. In fact, the bodies pile up so fast that it becomes difficult to keep count.

The plot deals with Sascha Nagy, a world-famous pianist, whose longtime friend, Roger Schilling, a CIA operative who plays the violin, cons him into acting as bait in a complex intelligence trap.

Sascha dutifully goes off to Warsaw to attend the farewell concert of an aged cellist and soon discovers the old man has been done in and that he is the prime murder suspect.

It is difficult for our hero or the reader to keep a grip on reality as the characters grope through an Alice In Wonderland realm where the pursuer is also the pursued and nothing is as it seems. About the only thing Sascha can be sure of is that someone is out to frame him.

Sascha's peace of mind isn't helped by the dawning realization that his exotic wife, Valentina, is also a spy whose actions are so devious he cannot tell which side she is working for.

Gradually the pieces fall into place and by the end of the book you have an idea of who is being double-crossed. But you probably wouldn't bet on it.

While weaving this tangled web, Crosby makes some side trips. He exhibits a considerable knowledge of music, both classical and lowdown boogie.

Control insects in farm stored wheat

Because of low harvest-time prices, a large volume of wheat was placed in on-farm storage this spring. In addition, considerable wheat from the 1976 crop is still being held in farm storage in the county. Steps should be taken to insure that this grain is kept as free of insects as possible. The following recommendations will help you control insects in stored grain:

Fumigate grain six to eight weeks after it was placed in storage if malathion grain protectant was not used. Fumigants should be applied when grain temperatures are at least 65 degrees F. and wind velocity is below 15 miles per hour. A mixed fumigant, consisting of carbon tetrachloride mixed with carbon disulphide, ethylene dichloride, ethylene dibronide, or chloropicrin, or combinations of the above, or methyl bromide, is recommended.

Use the maximum amount suggested on the container label. Level the grain ssurface before fumigant is applied, and be sure that there is at least six inches of wall space between the grain surface and the top of the bin.

Spray the fumigant as uniformly over the grain surface as possible. Wear a gas mask approved by the U.S. Bureau of Mines for the type of fumigant being used while applying it and if you should re-enter the bin shortly after fumigant is applied.

In open top wooden bins, spread a tarp over grain after fumigant is applied to help hold fumes in the bin. The bin may be opened and aired out after 72 hours. Follow label directions pertaining to the use of the fumigant carefully.

Check bins regularly for signs of insect damage. During warm weather, inspect bins every two to four weeks. Sifting a sample taken from the grain surface will usually indicate whether or not insects are present during warm weather. During cold weather, check grain at least once a month. A grain probe should be used to take the sample as infestations are usually found near the center of the grain mass when weather is cold. Fumigate again if insects are found.

Bait for rats and mice as soon as signs are noticed. Never wait until large numbers are present before starting the control program.

You have lots of money invested in your stored grain. It would behoove you to take care of it accordingly.

National Cotton Council protests 'arbitrary' OSHA procedures

MEMPHIS – The National Cotton Council has registered a strong protest with a Congressional panel about the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's arbitrary actions in recent cotton dust rule-making procedures.

In a statement filed with a House Small Business subcommittee, the Council charges that OSHA's actions were characterized by "double standards" and "abuse of authority."

Among examples cited were: (1) OSHA's refusal to grant an extension of the hearing date on the proposed standard despite the fact that the industry had no advance knowledge of the standard's scope; (2) the agency's double standard that required industry witnesses to file advance copies of their testimony but allowed proponents to testify without prior filing; (3) OSHA's moving ahead with an industrywide standard while another branch of the Labor Department was conducting studies to determine whether a standard was needed; and (4) the agency's disregard for the government's own authorities who recommended that the standard not apply to all sectors of the cotton industry.

The Council quotes a memorandum from a high-ranking agency official to the head of OSHA advising that there was no basis for applying the standard to the industry's non-textile sectors. The memorandum noted that 12 government and industry experts had been polled on the issue and their unanimous opinion was that the agency would be on "very shaky ground" to propose and industrywide standard.

According to the Council statement, OSHA also was "irresponsible" in stating on the opening day of hearings that it would ignore the costs or inflationary impact of the proposed standard.

"OSHA chooses to ignore an installed cost for dust abatement equipment of $3.2 billion and total annulized costs of $947 million," it points out. "These are costs that impact very largely on small businesses and the smaller the business the greater the impact."

Citing the cotton ginning industry as an example, the Council says dust abatement equipment costs for small gins would be 80 percent as much as the typical plant's total value.

"The regulatory agencies created by the Congress are theoretically accountable to Congress, but in many cases the Congressional oversight procedure has proven to be less than satisfactory in establishing accountability," the statement notes.

The Council strongly urges Congress to "systematically and carefully" examine the records of federal agencies in order to establish and maintain better accountability.

Farmers urged to sell

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — "Sell it quickly," is the advice being offered to farmers still holding stocks of last year's corn.

"Clean out the bins and get it done in the next three weeks," James Gill, market analyst for the Illinois Farm Bureau, told more than 400 members of the National Corn Growers Association. "It is bite the bullet time."

"Time is fleeting," Gill added. "The new crop is coming on fast."

The analyst said farmers also have the option of processing their carryover corn through feeder cattle or pigs. "Or you can carry over to next year, again," he said. "But because of the loss of quality and other factors ... I just don't think it is wise."

There is a 2.35-billion-bushel carry over of feed grains including corn from the huge 1976 harvest, Gill said. Assuming the USDA estimate of this year's crop remains accurate, there could be as much as 1.3 billion bushels of corn left over this year, along with huge stocks of wheat.

The Iowa-based Corn Growers, which has affiliate organizations in Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Virginia and Texas, also were given some idea of what may be ahead in the weather.

Earl Finkle, president of Central Weather Service, Inc., said the nation can look forward to a repeat of last year's bitter cold and related drought.

"We are probably in for early cold weather," Finkle predicted as his farmer audience groaned loudly. "I think we are going to have a frost scare in the northern Midwest by the end of August."

He said the threat of frost would hang over the Dakotas, Minnesota and south to Madison, Wis.

"Then I see a retreat to favorable harvest conditions," Finkle added, with the cold settling back in by September or October.

"It looks like it may be another long, cold winter," he said.

Finkle said dry weather coupled with an early freeze would have barge operators on the upper Mississippi "going hurry-scurry trying to get out by Thanksgiving."

Plant tissue and soil analysis help solve soil, crop problems

BY THOMAS A. BROWN, JR.
Area Agronomy Specialist

The Plant Tissue and Soil Analysis Program is being made available to farmers by Extension again this year. Many problems including soil fertility problems are showing up in crops now, and farmers could help solve such soil problems by taking advantage of this program.

Plant tissue analysis involves the testing of leaves of growing crops to determine just how well fed the plants are. The leaf samples should be taken before or during the early reproductive stage of the crop and before seed development. A soil test should be taken from the same area represented by the leaf sample at the same time for purposes of comparison. Both leaf and soil samples should be taken to your County University of Missouri Extension Center for testing.

Research has shown that the concentration of nutrients in the growing crop varies according to the available nutrients in the soil. Through research work, concentrations of nutrients needed for good cropyields have been determined and desired levels established. When plant analysis shows that some nutrient is below the desired level, it usually indicates a soil fertility problem. In some cases, however, the problem is not this simple. Nutrient levels in the plant may be low even though the levels of the various plant food elements in the soil are adequate. In such cases, something other than fertility is the problem. In such situations, a careful field examination usually shows that insects, diseases, or nematodes have damaged the root system and limited the plants ability to utilize available fertility. In other cases some unusual physical condition of the soil is found to be the problem. Locating such problems so that control measures can be taken is very important to the farmer.

We are approaching the season of the year when plant tissue and soil samples should be taken for analysis from most crops grown in this area. Samples should be taken from corn fields between emergence and pollination. The best time for taking soybean samples is when the first bloom appears. Samples from cotton fields should be taken before bolls start to set on the plants. Sorghum samples should be taken when the head is fully emerged but before pollination.

Additional information pertaining to this program may be obtained at your University of Missouri Extension Center. A publication entitled Sampling Plant Tissue and Soil for Analysis, which is available upon request at Extension Centers gives detailed information as to when and how to take samples for each crop grown in this area.

HIGH PRICE TAG ON KEEPING COOL

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Many Americans will pay more to cool their homes this summer than they did to heat them last winter, says Charles Hartman, of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. who says "people generally don't conserve the electricity used to run their air conditioners because they don't equate it with the fuel used to heat their homes."

Electricity rates have risen 7.1 per cent in the past year Hartman points out, and adds, "more than half of all U.S. homes remain uninsulated or under-insulated and are, therefore, wasting energy."

Attic insulation alone can shear surprising amounts of money off summer fuel bills, Hartman notes. "Since a home gains most of its heat through the roof, attic insulation helps prevent it from passing through the ceiling, thus keeping the home more comfortable and reducing the amount of air conditioning necessary."

Runyan wants tighter control

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's agriculture director has proposed changes in federal law to tighten restrictions on beef imports, an issue he said Tuesday was the most emotional he has encountered.

Jack Runyan, the Missouri director, was one of about 30 witnesses testifying Tuesday at the start of a two-day hearing by the U.S. International Trade Commission. The hearing continued today.

It is one of several such hearings by the commission to determine if there is a need to revise either the Meat Import Act of 1964 or the Trade Reform Act of 1974.

Runyan told the commission that the importing of beef while domestic producers suffer from the economic pangs of overproduction is an emotional and controversial issue. He said he believes imports have exerted downward pressure on U.S. beef prices during the overproduction phase of the domestic cattle cycle.

The Missouri official recommended three changes in federal law:

—All beef, live and processed, should be used in computing import quotas; such circumventions as the shipment of live beef into the country from Canada and Mexico should be stopped.

—Foreign beef and products containing it should be so labeled.

—Import quotas should be changed so they are tied inversely to U.S. production.

Runyan, himself a cattle rancher in northwestern Missouri, also recommended that the industry should make a strong effort to sell more U.S. beef abroad. "There is no one who can produce it better and more efficiently than the American farmer, and a tremendous market could be developed," he said.

The two commission members conducting the hearing heard a parade a farmers who told of losing up to $100 a head on cattle they raised and fed for market.

"We really do not need any imported beef," said Bill Sellhorst of Dodge, Neb., the national director of the National Farmers Organization's cattle division.

Sellhorst said currency devaluation in Mexico is part of the unfair competition American cattlemen must contend with and called it "dumping beef for dollars."

Runyan told the commission it would find some who felt the imports, which are equivalent to about 8½ per cent of the beef consumed yearly, have little effect on retail prices.

Mrs. Sheila D. Sidles, executive secretary of the Iowa Consumers League, expressed concern that Runyan's analysis was correct.

"We have been concerned because the consumer demand for beef does not have any relationship to price," she said. "The free enterprise system is not working in the beef industry. Neither the consumer nor the farmer seem to have any say in the price they pay at the store or receive on the farm."

Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drop of nearly 12 per cent in the value of agricultural imports in May, largely due to a sharp decline in shipments of green coffee beans, is raising hopes that this year's farm trade balance might not be as small as had been forecast by the Agriculture Department.

Department officials said Wednesday, however, that new farm trade projections will not be ready until next month. A new quarterly report on U. S. farm exports and imports in 1976-77 is scheduled for release on Aug. 19.

Meanwhile, the department's Economic Research Service said agricultural imports in May totaled less than $1.26 billion, compared with a record value of more than $1.4 billion in April.

The decline was the first significant drop since the current fiscal year began last Oct. 1. There was a decline of 1.1 per cent from January to February, but imports rose sharply again in March and April.

Officials said that the over-all decline in May was led by lower imports of green coffee, indicating that high prices charged consumers and cutbacks by roasters are having an effect. Coffee prices recently have begun to decline.

Soaring coffee prices were triggered by harsh freezes in Brazil, the leading producer, two years ago. In May, the retail price of coffee was a record of $3.74 a pound nationally, mre than double the price from a year earlier.

Imports of green coffee in May were valued at $388.4 million for 161.8 million pounds, compared with $519 million for 241.3 million pounds in May of last year, the report said.

When USDA made its most recent 1976-77 farm trade report, it projected U. S. exports through this Sept. 30 at $24 billion and imports at $13.6 billion. That indicated a trade balance — the difference between exports and imports — of $10.4 billion, the smallest in four years. In 1975-76, the balance was $12.25 billion.

The report on May imports said that despite the month-to-month decline the May total of $1.26 billion still was nearly 50 per cent more than the $847.6 million worth of agricultural products imported a year earlier.

Further, since last Oct. 1 imports totaled about $9.1 billion, up one-third from the same eight months of 1975-76. Coffee beans were the leader.

Commenting on May imports, the report said that there were also hefty increases from the same five months of a year ago for cocoa beans, tea, chocolate preparations, rubber, fruits and other types of coffee, including roasted and water soluble.

"Fresh vegetable imports in May eased slightly from the record $65 million reached in April, but because of sharp increases in imports of tomatoes, onions, peppers and cucumbers, May imports of fresh vegetables exceeded $50 million, compared with only $5 million in May 1976," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although beef production next month is expected to be down 4 to 6 per cent from the record supply of last August, government experts say that there will be "plentiful" supplies for consumers.

Further, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday in another "food marketing alert" report that the August beef output will be about 3 per cent above the average of recent years, despite the decline from a year ago.

By USDA definition, plentiful means "more than enough for requirements," while adequate is "enough to meet needs" and light is "less than adequate" to meet normal requirements.

The report, distributed monthly to big food buyers such as hotels, schools and other institutions, said that milk and dairy products, fresh peaches, plums, nectarines, grapes and lemons also are on the plentiful list for August.

In the adequate category were pork, eggs, broiler chickens, turkeys, oranges, processed vegetables, fresh potatoes and Bartlett pears.

Supplies of raisins and limes were classified in light supply.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were fewer hens on farms last month, with a drop in egg production the result, the Agriculture Department says.

June production of eggs totalled 5.2 billion, down 2 per cent from the same month last year. Hens numbered 265.4 million, also 2 per cent fewer, the Department said Wednesday.

The department also said it appeared that the hens remaining in flocks were not working quite so hard as they did a year ago. Officials said production was 64.6 eggs per 100 birds, compared with 65.5 a year earlier and 65.4 on June 1 of this year.

Thoughtful Recollections In Barzini's 'O America'

O AMERICA: When You And I Were Young. By Luigi Barzini. Harper & Row. 329 Pages. $10.

In 1925, Luigi Barzini was 16. It was the year he, his mother, brothers and sister "crossed the ocean to join my father in New York."

In 1930, Barzini left the United States to return to his native Italy, where he was to have a fine career as writer, editor, publisher and politician. But for the purpose of this fine book all that was in the future. "O America" is a thoughtful, charming memoir of what used to be, the years Barzini spent in the United States.

As Barzini takes his long look back at the days of his youth, he notes, pointedly, that, "I think I was lucky to be exposed to American life when both the United States and I were young and full of stupendous illusions. We have both changed ... Americans as I knew them in the '20s had not yet been really tested by spiteful and sardonic history."

This then is the story of what it was like for a young Italian to live in the United States for a few brief years before it — and the world — were to be tested by history. Those years were, for the most part, good ones.

The flexibility of a tool bar . . . the simplicity of air

International 500 Cyclo Planter

Before you decide on a new planter, be sure you check out the convenience and reliability of the Cyclo 500. It combines the speed and simplicity of air-powered seed delivery with the advantages of tool bar 3-pt. hitch mounting. Ideal for fast transport, for holding narrow headlands, and for odd-shape fields. And it handles a variety of seeds, sized or unsized, through the same metering system.

- Sizes from 4 to 16 rows, including wide and narrow-row spacing.
- Quick-change seed drums can be switched in just minutes.
- Big 11-bu. centralized seed hoppers carry you a half day without refilling.
- Electronic monitors take the guesswork out of planting; attachments include chemical applicators, assist wheels, plus many others.

Runyan told the commission it would find some who felt the imports, which are equivalent to about 8½ per cent of the beef consumed yearly, have little effect on retail prices.

Mrs. Sheila D. Sidles, executive secretary of the Iowa Consumers League, expressed concern that Runyan's analysis was correct.

"We have been concerned because the consumer demand for beef does not have any relationship to price," she said. "The free enterprise system is not working in the beef industry. Neither the consumer nor the farmer seem to have any say in the price they pay at the store or receive on the farm."

Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drop of nearly 12 per cent in the value of agricultural imports in May, largely due to a sharp decline in shipments of green coffee beans, is raising hopes that this year's farm trade balance might not be as small as had been forecast by the Agriculture Department.

Department officials said Wednesday, however, that new farm trade projections will not be ready until next month. A new quarterly report on U. S. farm exports and imports in 1976-77 is scheduled for release on Aug. 19.

Meanwhile, the department's Economic Research Service said agricultural imports in May totaled less than $1.26 billion, compared with a record value of more than $1.4 billion in April.

The decline was the first significant drop since the current fiscal year began last Oct. 1. There was a decline of 1.1 per cent from January to February, but imports rose sharply again in March and April.

Officials said that the over-all decline in May was led by lower imports of green coffee, indicating that high prices charged consumers and cutbacks by roasters are having an effect. Coffee prices recently have begun to decline.

Soaring coffee prices were triggered by harsh freezes in Brazil, the leading producer, two years ago. In May, the retail price of coffee was a record of $3.74 a pound nationally, mre than double the price from a year earlier.

Imports of green coffee in May were valued at $388.4 million for 161.8 million pounds, compared with $519 million for 241.3 million pounds in May of last year, the report said.

When USDA made its most recent 1976-77 farm trade report, it projected U. S. exports through this Sept. 30 at $24 billion and imports at $13.6 billion. That indicated a trade balance — the difference between exports and imports — of $10.4 billion, the smallest in four years. In 1975-76, the balance was $12.25 billion.

The report on May imports said that despite the month-to-month decline the May total of $1.26 billion still was nearly 50 per cent more than the $847.6 million worth of agricultural products imported a year earlier.

Further, since last Oct. 1 imports totaled about $9.1 billion, up one-third from the same eight months of 1975-76. Coffee beans were the leader.

Commenting on May imports, the report said that there were also hefty increases from the same five months of a year ago for cocoa beans, tea, chocolate preparations, rubber, fruits and other types of coffee, including roasted and water soluble.

"Fresh vegetable imports in May eased slightly from the record $65 million reached in April, but because of sharp increases in imports of tomatoes, onions, peppers and cucumbers, May imports of fresh vegetables exceeded $50 million, compared with only $5 million in May 1976," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although beef production next month is expected to be down 4 to 6 per cent from the record supply of last August, government experts say that there will be "plentiful" supplies for consumers.

Further, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday in another "food marketing alert" report that the August beef output will be about 3 per cent above the average of recent years, despite the decline from a year ago.

By USDA definition, plentiful means "more than enough for requirements," while adequate is "enough to meet needs" and light is "less than adequate" to meet normal requirements.

The report, distributed monthly to big food buyers such as hotels, schools and other institutions, said that milk and dairy products, fresh peaches, plums, nectarines, grapes and lemons also are on the plentiful list for August.

In the adequate category were pork, eggs, broiler chickens, turkeys, oranges, processed vegetables, fresh potatoes and Bartlett pears.

Supplies of raisins and limes were classified in light supply.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were fewer hens on farms last month, with a drop in egg production the result, the Agriculture Department says.

June production of eggs totalled 5.2 billion, down 2 per cent from the same month last year. Hens numbered 265.4 million, also 2 per cent fewer, the Department said Wednesday.

The department also said it appeared that the hens remaining in flocks were not working quite so hard as they did a year ago. Officials said production was 64.6 eggs per 100 birds, compared with 65.5 a year earlier and 65.4 on June 1 of this year.

Farmers urged to sell

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — "Sell it quickly," is the advice being offered to farmers still holding stocks of last year's corn.

"Clean out the bins and get it done in the next three weeks," James Gill, market analyst for the Illinois Farm Bureau, told more than 400 members of the National Corn Growers Association. "It is bite the bullet time."

"Time is fleeting," Gill added. "The new crop is coming on fast."

The analyst said farmers also have the option of processing their carryover corn through feeder cattle or pigs. "Or you can carry over to next year, again," he said. "But because of the loss of quality and other factors ... I just don't think it is wise."

There is a 2.35-billion-bushel carry over of feed grains including corn from the huge 1976 harvest, Gill said. Assuming the USDA estimate of this year's crop remains accurate, there could be as much as 1.3 billion bushels of corn left over this year, along with huge stocks of wheat.

The Iowa-based Corn Growers, which has affiliate organizations in Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Virginia and Texas, also were given some idea of what may be ahead in the weather.

Earl Finkle, president of Central Weather Service, Inc., said the nation can look forward to a repeat of last year's bitter cold and related drought.

"We are probably in for early cold weather," Finkle predicted as his farmer audience groaned loudly. "I think we are going to have a frost scare in the northern Midwest by the end of August."

He said the threat of frost would hang over the Dakotas, Minnesota and south to Madison, Wis.

"Then I see a retreat to favorable harvest conditions," Finkle added, with the cold settling back in by September or October.

"It looks like it may be another long, cold winter," he said.

Finkle said dry weather coupled with an early freeze would have barge operators on the upper Mississippi "going hurry-scurry trying to get out by Thanksgiving."

WHISKEY PAINTERS

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio (AP) — Vodka landscapes, martini still lifes and gin portraits are among the artistic efforts of members of the Whiskey Painters of America.

The organization was started in the mid-50s by Joseph Ferriot, an Akron, Ohio designer and industrialist, to promote "the good fellowship among imbibing artists" and "the fine art of painting in miniature."

Now affiliated with the Akron Society of Artists here, the organization has an international membership of more than 100 and shows its members' paintings regularly.

Thoughtful Recollections In Barzini's 'O America'

O AMERICA: When You And I Were Young. By Luigi Barzini. Harper & Row. 329 Pages. $10.

In 1925, Luigi Barzini was 16. It was the year he, his mother, brothers and sister "crossed the ocean to join my father in New York."

In 1930, Barzini left the United States to return to his native Italy, where he was to have a fine career as writer, editor, publisher and politician. But for the purpose of this fine book all that was in the future. "O America" is a thoughtful, charming memoir of what used to be, the years Barzini spent in the United States.

As Barzini takes his long look back at the days of his youth, he notes, pointedly, that, "I think I was lucky to be exposed to American life when both the United States and I were young and full of stupendous illusions. We have both changed ... Americans as I knew them in the '20s had not yet been really tested by spiteful and sardonic history."

This then is the story of what it was like for a young Italian to live in the United States for a few brief years before it — and the world — were to be tested by history. Those years were, for the most part, good ones.

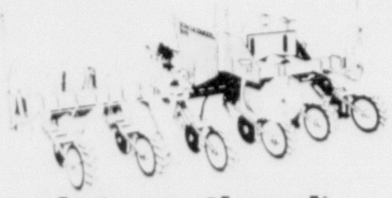
The flexibility of a tool bar . . . the simplicity of air



International 500 Cyclo Planter

Before you decide on a new planter, be sure you check out the convenience and reliability of the Cyclo 500. It combines the speed and simplicity of air-powered seed delivery with the advantages of tool bar 3-pt. hitch mounting. Ideal for fast transport, for holding narrow headlands, and for odd-shape fields. And it handles a variety of seeds, sized or unsized, through the same metering system.

- Sizes from 4 to 16 rows, including wide and narrow-row spacing.
- Quick-change seed drums can be switched in just minutes.
- Big 11-bu. centralized seed hoppers carry you a half day without refilling.
- Electronic monitors take the guesswork out of planting; attachments include chemical applicators, assist wheels, plus many others.

Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the heat wave gripping most of the nation, the corn crop generally is in good shape, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said Tuesday in a weekly weather-crops report that "timely rains provided needed moisture to many areas of the Corn Belt, parts of the South and along the Atlantic Coast" during the week of July 11-17.

"Unusually high temperatures blanketed much of the nation, but timely rains kept most of the corn in good condition," the report said. "Corn was in the midst of the highly important silking stage."

The crop was rated "poor to fair" in most of the South from Louisiana eastward. It was considered "good" in most other areas and was in "excellent" condition in some Corn Belt areas of the Midwest.

Meanwhile, by July 17 about 88 per cent of the U. S. winter wheat crop was harvested, outpacing last year's 86 per cent rate, the report said. Spring wheat harvesting ranged from 54 per cent completed in South Dakota to 5 per cent in Minnesota.

Soybeans were rated "fair to good" in the north-central states and most of the South, but only "poor to fair" in the southern Atlantic states, the report said.

In its initial estimate last week of the 1977 corn crop, the USDA said it could reach a record 6.33 billion bushels, eclipsing the record 1976 harvest of 6.2 billion bushels. A new estimate will be announced on Aug. 11 based on conditions the first of the month.

Meanwhile, another USDA report Tuesday showed that world grain production still is expected to be of near-record size in 1977-78.

On a global basis, the report estimated wheat and feed grain production at 1,097 million metric tons, compared with last season's record of 1,104.8 million tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Consumption of grain was put at 1,070.6 million tons in 1977-78, up from 1,049 million last year.

Looking to mid-1978, the report said that leftover grain reserves next July 1 might total 195.8 million tons, a record stockpile. This July 1 the world grain reserve was 169.4 million tons, and a year ago it was 113.6 million tons.

The world grain estimate, however, included USDA's July corn estimate of a record harvest this fall. Thus, any changes in that estimate in August or later will be reflected in future world grain figures.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's sheep and lamb flock continues to decline, along with wool production.

Agriculture Department officials said Tuesday the 1977 lamb crop is expected to total 8.5 million head, a 4 per cent drop from nearly 8.9 million in 1976. Wool production was estimated at 106.1 million pounds, also 4 per cent below last year.

The U.S. sheep industry has been declining for years. For example, the last time wool producation increased was in 1960 when it was 265.3 million pounds.

Officials say there are a number of reasons for the continuing decline, including intermittent demand for lamb and wool, problems withpredators and aa decision by some producers to switch to other enterprises.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland greeted more than 90 Future Farmers of America leaders Tuesday.

Bergland answered questions from the youths, who like most farmers were interested in government farm policies, legislation pending in Congress and the weather.

Bergland said, "We need to know what we're doing" before engaging in big federal efforts to modify weather patterns by cloud seeding and other techniques.

The FFA members, representing the leadership of the organization in each state, are here this week for their 1977 State Presidents Conference.

Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the heat wave gripping most of the nation, the corn crop generally is in good shape, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said Tuesday in a weekly weather-crops report that "timely rains provided needed moisture to many areas of the Corn Belt, parts of the South and along the Atlantic Coast" during the week of July 11-17.

"Unusually high temperatures blanketed much of the nation, but timely rains kept most of the corn in good condition," the report said. "Corn was in the midst of the highly important silking stage."

The crop was rated "poor to fair" in most of the South from Louisiana eastward. It was considered "good" in most other areas and was in "excellent" condition in some Corn Belt areas of the Midwest.

Meanwhile, by July 17 about 88 per cent of the U. S. winter wheat crop was harvested, outpacing last year's 86 per cent rate, the report said. Spring wheat harvesting ranged from 54 per cent completed in South Dakota to 5 per cent in Minnesota.

Soybeans were rated "fair to good" in the north-central states and most of the South, but only "poor to fair" in the southern Atlantic states, the report said.

In its initial estimate last week of the 1977 corn crop, the USDA said it could reach a record 6.33 billion bushels, eclipsing the record 1976 harvest of 6.2 billion bushels. A new estimate will be announced on Aug. 11 based on conditions the first of the month.

Meanwhile, another USDA report Tuesday showed that world grain production still is expected to be of near-record size in 1977-78.

On a global basis, the report estimated wheat and feed grain production at 1,097 million metric tons, compared with last season's record of 1,104.8 million tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Consumption of grain was put at 1,070.6 million tons in 1977-78, up from 1,049 million last year.

Looking to mid-1978, the report said that leftover grain reserves next July 1 might total 195.8 million tons, a record stockpile. This July 1 the world grain reserve was 169.4 million tons, and a year ago it was 113.6 million tons.

The world grain estimate, however, included USDA's July corn estimate of a record harvest this fall. Thus, any changes in that estimate in August or later will be reflected in future world grain figures.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's sheep and lamb flock continues to decline, along with wool production.

Agriculture Department officials said Tuesday the 1977 lamb crop is expected to total 8.5 million head, a 4 per cent drop from nearly 8.9 million in 1976. Wool production was estimated at 106.1 million pounds, also 4 per cent below last year.

The U.S. sheep industry has been declining for years. For example, the last time wool producation increased was in 1960 when it was 265.3 million pounds.

Officials say there are a number of reasons for the continuing decline, including intermittent demand for lamb and wool, problems withpredators and aa decision by some producers to switch to other enterprises.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland greeted more than 90 Future Farmers of America leaders Tuesday.

Bergland answered questions from the youths, who like most farmers were interested in government farm policies, legislation pending in Congress and the weather.

Bergland said, "We need to know what we're doing" before engaging in big federal efforts to modify weather patterns by cloud seeding and other techniques.

The FFA members, representing the leadership of the organization in each state, are here this week for their 1977 State Presidents Conference.

1977 crop acreage reports due

Area farmers are reminded that they need to report 1977 acreages of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, and barley to their county ASCS office by September 1.

The 1978 farm program legislation now under consideration in Congress provides that if a set-aside is necessary next year, the amount to be set aside may be based on a percentage of the acreage planted for harvest in 1977.

Fall seeded crop acreage must be reported prior to harvesting if possible. Farmers who have already begun or completed harvest should contact the ASCS office immediately. Crop acreages and the crop use must be reported on field-byfield basis.

Farmers who fail to report wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley acreage will be considered to have no planted acreage and may be ineligible to participate in 1978 program benefits, ASCS officials said.

Pork King contest set for Aug. 21

SEDALIA -- The Missouri Pork Cookout King contest will be held August 21, at the Show-Me Arena, Missouri State Fairgrounds, here.

Featuring cookout enthusiasts from across the state, this contest is a traditional part of the Missouri State Fair.

The winner of this year's contest will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National Contest and a cash award of $100.

If you are a male, over 14 years of age, enjoy conducting an outdoor barbecue, and like to compete, please contact: Missouri Pork Producers Association, 922 Fourth Street, Boonville, Missouri, 65233, or phone 816 882-5156 for more information.

Entries close August 10, 1977.

Henderson named medical director at convalescent center

BLOOMFIEDL -- Bloomfield Convalescent Center announced today that Tom W. Henderson, M.D., will be the Medical Director for the new skilled health care facility.

Henderson is a graduate of Harding College, in Searcy, Ark., and the School of Medicine, University of Tenn. at Memphis,. He did his internship in Baptist Memorial Hospital at Memphis. Since December, 1973, he has been a practicing physician with the Dexter Medical and Surgical Group on One Mile Road in Dexter.

1977 crop acreage reports due

Area farmers are reminded that they need to report 1977 acreages of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, and barley to their county ASCS office by September 1.

The 1978 farm program legislation now under consideration in Congress provides that if a set-aside is necessary next year, the amount to be set aside may be based on a percentage of the acreage planted for harvest in 1977.

Fall seeded crop acreage must be reported prior to harvesting if possible. Farmers who have already begun or completed harvest should contact the ASCS office immediately. Crop acreages and the crop use must be reported on field-byfield basis.

Farmers who fail to report wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley acreage will be considered to have no planted acreage and may be ineligible to participate in 1978 program benefits, ASCS officials said.

EQUAL RIGHTS IN UNIFORM

Is the all-volunteer army a flop? Do we need to go back to a military draft? The answer to both question is "no." If you accept the word of former Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld, who now serves as president of a drug company in Skokie, Ill., insists that the volunteer army has been a "complete success" since the draft ended in December of 1972. In fact, both the Army and Marine Corps have had recruiting problems. And the situation is likely to get even tighter in future years because of the decreasing number of young men.

Whatever its defects, though, the volunteer army is much fairer than the draft-by-lottery system and much less expensive than universal military training would be.

The recruiting problem -- the problem that worries so many Petagon old-timers -- could be at least partially solved by taking more women into the armed forces.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has been pushing the Army, for example, to stop accepting so many high school dropouts and recruit more high-quality women instead. One study recommends recruiting as many as 100,000 women into the Army by 1982. Yet the Army's own plans call for fewer than 60,000 by then.

It seems to us that all services could recruit more women without damaging the nation's ability to defend itself in any way. With the exception of hand-to-hand combat, women can perform most jobs in a modern army as well as men.

Rumsfeld is right when he says the volunteer army can succeed. The prospects would be brighter, however, if we were recruiting the best talent available regardless of sex.

And so, even while we are caught in conflict in one part of the world, we labor to build the structure of agreement which can bring peace to the rest of the world. We have signed a treaty ending nuclear tests in the atmosphere. We have cut back our production of atomic fuel and weapons. We have established a hot line between Washington and Moscow. We are meeting with the Soviets to pool our knowledge about making fresh water from the oceans. These agreements, by themselves, have not ended tensions: they have not ended the risks of war. But because of them we have moved closer to peace.

Common Sense On Common Situs
Louisville Courier-Journal

The House of Representatives showed an uncommon degree of common sense and independence Wednesday when it rejected a bill that would have permitted a single striking union to shut down an entire construction site. The defeat of the so-called "common-situs picketing" bill was especially surprising because it had the support both of organized labor and the Democratic leadership and had passed both houses of Congress last session.

President Carter wisely staved out of the fight. He had promised, during the campaign, to sign such a bill if it reached his desk(President Ford vetoed last year's bill), but he did nothing to support it in the House. Had he done so, he would have run into stiff resistance from fellow Democrats from the South, most of whom joined the almost unanimous Repulbican opposition.

He also would have been bucking over-whelming public opposition, as evidenced in a nationwide opinion poll sponsored by the National Right to Work Committee, a leading group in the fight against the bill. That poll, conducted by the respected Roper Organization, showed 77 per cent of those surveyed believed a construction union "should only be allowed to picket the work of the contractor with whom it has a dispute and not the whole building site."

Even among union members surveyed, the results were two-to-one against allowing a single union to shut down an entire construction project, thus throwing all other contractors and their employes out of work.

The public's position makes such basic good sense it's a wonder the common-site picketing bill ever had serious support, much less passing Congress last session. Commonsite picketing is simply a form of secondary boycott, a practice that is almost universally recognized as unfair and that would have remained illegal in all non-construction industries even if the common-site bill had become law.

What's more, common-site picketing would have given construction unions greatly increased leverage despite the fact that these unions already have tremendous and sometimes destructive power. Surely it is no coincidence that the hefty wage increases won by construction unions in recent years have been accompanied by soaring building costs, a severe slump in construction business and, ironically, very high unemployment among construction workers.

So the defeat of the common-site picketing bill probably will prove helpful to the very workers that the bill was supposed to benefit. Certainly it is a victory for fairness and for millions of American consumers who directly or indirectly pay the cost of rapid inflation in the construction industry.

THIS WAS NEEDED

It isn't needed often, but during the last month or six weeks, another road clearing attachment could have been used to good advantage in Monroe County, on state and county roads and on streets in its towns.

It is a snow blower such as those used farther north. It blows the snow into roadside fields, over the tops of the fences.

Time after time this winter, road and street crews were frustrated because the snow would drift and block roads about as fast as it was moved out. It also got so deep that there was nowhere to push it. The blower would have solved these problems.

It would have an added advantage -- put the snow on farmers fields, where it would melt and provide more of that moisture we so sorely need, instead of melting and running off in roadside ditches.

Waterloo Welcome

Sedalia's industrial community received a major addition with the announcement that Waterloo Industries of Waterloo, Iowa, will build a plant here.

Within six months of its opening next March, the plant will employ around 400 people, according to Waterloo executives. The work force may eventually reach as high as 800, it was stated, which would make Waterloo the city's largest industrial employer.

From information provided at ap a press conference, Waterloo appears to be an impressive company. As the main supplier of tool containers for Sears-Roebuck as well as various other companies, it has a ready market for its products.

Waterloo President Wallace Sulentic said the company's business increased a shopping 40 per cent last year, hence the search for additional manufacturing facilities.

Judging from comments by company officials, Sedalia evidently is putting its best foot forward in the quest for new industries. Waterloo's board chairman said the community's "people and its spirit" were prime factors in the decision to locate here.

Sedalia's latest industrial acquisition reaffirms the importance of having a fully staffed department of economic development. Director Jim Hamm has been aggressively seeking new industry in the relatively brief time he has been on the job, and he deserved the "well-dones" tossed his way.

Things are beginning to click in Sedalia. After the city's unfortunate experience in the late recession, with its accompanying high unemployment that is good news indeed.

A young man persuaded his wife, a non-golfer, to try her hand in a hole-in-one tournament which was open to novices and experts alike. By arrangement, they met at their club late in the afternoon and proceeded to the practice tee for her to get the feel of swinging a golf club before the competition began.

From the bag she pulled out a wood club.

"No, not that one," he said tenderly. "To start out, you want to hit with an iron."

"I'm using a wood," she answered determinedly, gripping the handle. "I've been ironing all day."

School Problem May Come To Longer Term

Over the nation the problem of financing our schools is critical.

Part of the mounting expense of schools is the constantly added requirements and innovations forced on local schools by state and federal departments of education. Some of these are no doubt worthy, some possibly worthless and may do more harm than good.

But there are a few educators and legislators who are saying that part of the money problem could be solved by operating our schools for eleven or eleven and a half months each year.

School terms are now nine months. For three months, billions, possibly trillions of dollars worth of buildings and equipment stand idle.

Few if any businesses could operate successfully on that sort of a schedule.

These innovative thinkers may be right. We don't know.

Labor's Marching Orders:
Special memo discloses AFGE soon will begin unionizing all U.S. fighting forces

WASHINGTON -- Insiders have little doubt that the campaign to unionize the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will be launched this fall -- perhaps this summer -- regardless of what legal roadblocks are thrown up or what oratory and laws develop in the Congress.

The little-known, but tough, militant and youthfully-led AFL-CIO American Federation of Government Employes (AFGE) officially believes he signing up of America's volunteer "citizen soldier" is "inevitable." Actually, the AFGE's Navy, Army and Air Force base organizers are on what can be described as camouflaged maneuvers.

They have been since March 7. On that date the AFGE's National Executive Council Military Committee issued "Memorandum: 14-Military."

This is the report which told the AFGE chiefs that unionization of the armed forces is "inevitable." Since then, beginning May 1, AFGE locals have been balloting their members for a yes or no word on putting a trade union label on the nation's fighting forces. Deadline for returning ballots is Aug. 1. And by "no later than Oct. 1" there will be an official announcement -- and if the yes vote is as heavy as is expected by those who have been quietly surveying the national union's membership, the organizers immediately will hit virtually all land, sea and air bases.

This "Memorandum: 14-Military" indicates that the union's chief problem is the public's shop "steward in the foxhole" concept. So the AFGE's Military Committee declares that it is "imperative" to emphasize that "in time of war or congressionally declared National Defense emergency, the union's recognition would be suspended."

But that's exactly like some new big league diamond groun rules which would cover action only at first base. What reaction would unioin officials and their military rank and filers have if they were rushed to keep the peace during some night of looting, such as New York's blacked out Christmas in July?

And under some circumstances, the President of the U.S. has 60 days to take direct armed action abroad. There might not be any congressionally labelled national emergency for many critical days. Who would decide whether or not it was peacetime and whether or not the union should still be recognized? What of a decision to send an airborne division from Fort Brragg, N.C. (where there is union activity even now), into gut-ripped Lebanon? Or into the Middle East? Or whether another S.S. Mayaguez should be rescued by the Marines?

There aren't answers from the relatively new AFGE president, 42-year-old Kenneth Blaylock. Neither he nor his colleague asked for time to testify at the Senate Armed Services Committee hearings on S274 and S997. The first act would prevent signing up uniformed fighting personnel. The second would make it illegal for any fighting man or woman to continue to hold membership in a union. Not only did an AFGE spokesman say they had no comment, but implied they actually were disinterested. This, though the proposed anit-military union laws carry criminal penalties for defiance.

Both the Pentagon's high command opposition and the union leaders, though bitterly disagreeing on unionizatin, do agree that a million members of the military forces could be signed up in five years.

Then what? The union goes into court to fight such laws if passed? Will union officials be arrested for unleashing their organizers into Department of Defense global bases?

Specifically what does the union really want? First, according to S"Memorandum: 14-Military," is actual shop steward representation. This would include bargaining with base commanders, at the beginning, and then with the Pentagon itself if necessary over "housing, leave, foreign service, education and training ... travel allowances, commissary and PX privileges, recreational facilities, parking, day care, dress and hair codes, political rights and their exercise ... health and dental care, efficiency ratings, promotions, EEO matters (women's rights), safety and reprimands or discipline under Article 15 VCMJ."

This is the first time the union ahs spelled out its specifics. Note that foreign service, EEO (Equal Employment Opportunity), efficiency ratings and promotions are included. Yet those should be command decisions. The union's demands put the military on a civilian basis. Blaylock and his colleagues appear to overlook one detail -- this is the army, not an auto plant.

The special inside "Memorandum: 14-Military" also details the second of three areas of negotiation -- legal representation to be supplied by the union "primarily in connection with administrative (discharge) boards and uniform code of military justice proceedings."

And the union is also pledging "legislative and policy representation." That is, bargaining with the Congress on pay, retirement and benefits. This would take the union over the head of the Pentagon's high command. That's a tank crusher offensive.

But it's all there in "Memorandum: 14-Military." As I interpret it, the union, with 270,000 members, many of them already working in the Pentagon, will recanother million duespayers, regardless of what ty Congress does. It's all there in the Blaylock papers. Further, with such a membership the AFGE would become one of the most powerful organizations in America.

Art Buchwald

THE HUMAN ENGINEER

(Art Buchwald has taken off a few weeks to study the effects of solar energy on bikini bathing suits. He left behind some of his classic columns which the Supreme Court has just ruled can now be released to the American people.)

WASHINGTON -- There is a new science in this country which is called human engineering. The object of human engineering, as I understand it, is to fit human beings into inhuman conditions.

I made this discovery while riding on an airplane from New York to Washington the other day. Seated next to me was a man who was taking a very careful measurement of the space between us and then writing it in a notebook.

I asked him what he was doing, and he said he was a human engineer, and it was his job to see how many more people he could squeeze on an airplane without doing permanent bodily harm to the passengers.

"We used to have five seats across," he said proudly, "but we've managed to put another seat in each row, and as you can see we can now get six people across."

"How on earth did you do it?" I asked him.

"We cut the center aisle in half. The passengers have to walk sideways, but just think of what the extra seats mean to the company's payload.

"Which, of course, is all that you're worried about?"

"You can bet your sweet whistle on that," he said. "I'm very concerned, though, that there still seems to be room between your knees and the seat in front of you."

"Only about two inches," I said.

"Well, if you take two inches away her and two inches away there, you can put another row of seats on the plane."

"Then my knees should be flush against the seat ahead?"

"Naturally, my dear boy. You can't expect leg room on such a short hop. One more thing, I was wondering how you feel about a reclining seat as opposed to a stationary one."

"I prefer a reclining seat. It gives me a chance to rest a little."

He started writing in his book: "Customer too tempted by reclining chair, so I strongly recommend stationary kind, which will allow us two more rows in back."

He looked at me. "You came on board with a package. What did you do with it?"

"I put it under my seat."

He wrote again, "Customer can still get package under seat, which means we're wasting valuable space that could better be used for air freight."

"You people really think of everything," I said.

"We try to," he replied, "but it's a tough struggle. There are a lot of people in the aviation business who are behind the times, and we have to show them that their best interests lie not with the passengers but with the stockholders. I'm having a devil of a time trying to get the company to remove the armrests."

"You want to do away with the armrests?"

"Of course. If we did away with the armrests, everyone would be forced to sit closer together, and we could get eight people in a row."

"Say, have you ever thought of putting people in the baggage rack?" I asked him.

He studied it for a few moments. "It could be done, if we could fit them in horizontally." He made another note: "Check about stuffing people into overhead baggage rack."

"You've covered all the bases," I said in admiration.

"Not quite," he said, staring at the washroom.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Real Problems Take Back Seat to Baseball

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- A new president may be shaking up Washington; oil prices may be causing economic havoc; peace may be hanging in the balance in the Middle East. But many Americans are more exercised over a small lump of stitched rawhide called a baseball.

A fierce controversy has been raging on the nation's sport pages over the construction of the baseball. According to one theory, the baseball has been altered in some insidious manner to make it an easier target for the bat wielders. This could be giving an advantage to the likes of Rod Carew over such pitching aces as Dětroit's Mark Fidrych, also known as "The Bird."

The debate has boiled over on to the editorial pages of the Washington Post, which suggested that the explanation for the thundering bats was less important than the excitement they brought to the national game.

We don't know whether there has been any tampering with the baseball's inner core of cork. But we had already sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to seek the human story behind the baseball.

This all-American symbol is constructed not in the USA but in Haiti, where the climate is balmy and the labor is cheap. The major sports corporations have closed down most of their factories in the United States and reopened new factories in Haiti. The biggest names in U.S. sporting equipment have now set up shop in Haiti's capital city of Port-Au-Prince.

Bernton visited the Rawlings baseball factory in order to see what it was like on the inside. The factory, located off the main avenue leading to the wealthy suburb of Petitionville, sits like a fortress behind concrete walls and barbed wire. Visitors must pass the careful scrutiny of an attendant at the front gate.

Within the building, dozens of women in pleasant pink uniforms are engaged in the tedious task of tightly stitching the baseball skins around the cores. By American standards, they are working under sweatshop conditions. But by Haitian standards, they are paid well.

The $1.60-a-day labor costs, however, are a mere fraction of what the sports corporations would have to pay in the United States. But the factory workers are fortunate compared to the drought-plagued peasants.

This is a grim comment on the state of the Haitian economy and the welfare of the populace. Yet it is precisely these conditions that have created the boom in baseballs in Haiti.

Last year, Rawlings produced about 360,000 professional baseballs in its Haitian plant. Thousands more balls of lower quality were turned out for minor and little leagues.

The Rawlings headquarters in St. Louis is reluctant to let visitors inside the plant and has ordered the staff not to give out any production statistics. A company spokesman explained that Rawlings had perfected a secret technique for producing baseballs and maintained tight security to prevent this process from being copied.

Korean Incident: The downing of an American heliocopter over North Korea had the boys in the backrooms chewing their nails for awhile. The problem is that Kim Il Sung, the absolute ruler of 15 million North Koreans, is volatile and unpredictable.

The Washington strategists couldn't be sure what he might do next. He is itching, they knew, to extend his iron rule to cover all of Korea. And he is a vain, difficult man, whom his Soviet and Chinese allies can't control.

Kim is a Moscow-trained former guerrilla fighter, who battled the Japanese during their occupation of the Korean peninsula. He is politically shrewd but not overly intelligent. He is a suspicious man who trusts no one outside his intimate circle.

Thus nepotism is rampant in Pyongyang. No member of his family is without some important government position. Even now, he is grooming a son, Kim Chong Il, as his successor.

The heroes of Communism -- V.I. Lenin, Mao Tse-tung, Fidel Castro -- all take a back seat to Kim in North Korea. He is worshipped as a reservoir of wisdom and font of knowledge. Almost all public references to him include the words, "respected and beloved." Amused foreign diplomats have come to refer to him irreverently as "Old R and B." Large statues of Kim, some gold-plated, dot the North Korean landscape.

This adulation, in Kim's view, is his just due. He considers himself a Communist pioneer on a par with Mao and Lenin. This rankles other Communist leaders, who view Kim as a heretic and a nuisance, according to diplomatic dispatches.

Computer Headaches: The federal government is caught in the grip of the Computer Age. Each year, the government spends an astonishing $10 billion for computers. Yet congressional watchdogs complained that the government's computer system is "chaotic."

There is an "enormous waste," they say, "of resources, unplanned procurements, duplication of effort and widespread privacy invasions."

These are the confidential conclusions of Reps. John Moss, D.-Calif., and Charles Rose, D.-N.C., who have been keeping a watch on the growing computer takeover of government functions.

In blunt terms, the congressmen claim that the federal computers have violated citizens' privacy and wasted the taxpayers' money. At one point, the bureaucracy schemed "to link up all the federal government's computers." This would have created a national data bank, which could have extinquished individual privacy. It also, incidentally, violated congressional restrictions.

EQUAL RIGHTS IN UNIFORM

Is the all-volunteer army a flop? Do we need to go back to a military draft? The answer to both question is "no." If you accept the word of former Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld, who now serves as president of a drug company in Skokie, Ill., insists that the volunteer army has been a "complete success" since the draft ended in December of 1972. In fact, both the Army and Marine Corps have had recruiting problems. And the situation is likely to get even tighter in future years because of the decreasing number of young men.

Whatever its defects, though, the volunteer army is much fairer than the draft-by-lottery system and much less expensive than universal military training would be.

The recruiting problem -- the problem that worries so many Petagon old-timers -- could be at least partially solved by taking more women into the armed forces.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has been pushing the Army, for example, to stop accepting so many high school dropouts and recruit more high-quality women instead. One study recommends recruiting as many as 100,000 women into the Army by 1982. Yet the Army's own plans call for fewer than 60,000 by then.

It seems to us that all services could recruit more women without damaging the nation's ability to defend itself in any way. With the exception of hand-to-hand combat, women can perform most jobs in a modern army as well as men.

Rumsfeld is right when he says the volunteer army can succeed. The prospects would be brighter, however, if we were recruiting the best talent available regardless of sex.

And so, even while we are caught in conflict in one part of the world, we labor to build the structure of agreement which can bring peace to the rest of the world. We have signed a treaty ending nuclear tests in the atmosphere. We have cut back our production of atomic fuel and weapons. We have established a hot line between Washington and Moscow. We are meeting with the Soviets to pool our knowledge about making fresh water from the oceans. These agreements, by themselves, have not ended tensions: they have not ended the risks of war. But because of them we have moved closer to peace.

Common Sense On Common Situs
Louisville Courier-Journal

The House of Representatives showed an uncommon degree of common sense and independence Wednesday when it rejected a bill that would have permitted a single striking union to shut down an entire construction site. The defeat of the so-called "common-situs picketing" bill was especially surprising because it had the support both of organized labor and the Democratic leadership and had passed both houses of Congress last session.

President Carter wisely staved out of the fight. He had promised, during the campaign, to sign such a bill if it reached his desk(President Ford vetoed last year's bill), but he did nothing to support it in the House. Had he done so, he would have run into stiff resistance from fellow Democrats from the South, most of whom joined the almost unanimous Repulbican opposition.

He also would have been bucking over-whelming public opposition, as evidenced in a nationwide opinion poll sponsored by the National Right to Work Committee, a leading group in the fight against the bill. That poll, conducted by the respected Roper Organization, showed 77 per cent of those surveyed believed a construction union "should only be allowed to picket the work of the contractor with whom it has a dispute and not the whole building site."

Even among union members surveyed, the results were two-to-one against allowing a single union to shut down an entire construction project, thus throwing all other contractors and their employes out of work.

The public's position makes such basic good sense it's a wonder the common-site picketing bill ever had serious support, much less passing Congress last session. Commonsite picketing is simply a form of secondary boycott, a practice that is almost universally recognized as unfair and that would have remained illegal in all non-construction industries even if the common-site bill had become law.

What's more, common-site picketing would have given construction unions greatly increased leverage despite the fact that these unions already have tremendous and sometimes destructive power. Surely it is no coincidence that the hefty wage increases won by construction unions in recent years have been accompanied by soaring building costs, a severe slump in construction business and, ironically, very high unemployment among construction workers.

So the defeat of the common-site picketing bill probably will prove helpful to the very workers that the bill was supposed to benefit. Certainly it is a victory for fairness and for millions of American consumers who directly or indirectly pay the cost of rapid inflation in the construction industry.

THIS WAS NEEDED

It isn't needed often, but during the last month or six weeks, another road clearing attachment could have been used to good advantage in Monroe County, on state and county roads and on streets in its towns.

It is a snow blower such as those used farther north. It blows the snow into roadside fields, over the tops of the fences.

Time after time this winter, road and street crews were frustrated because the snow would drift and block roads about as fast as it was moved out. It also got so deep that there was nowhere to push it. The blower would have solved these problems.

It would have an added advantage -- put the snow on farmers fields, where it would melt and provide more of that moisture we so sorely need, instead of melting and running off in roadside ditches.

Waterloo Welcome

Sedalia's industrial community received a major addition with the announcement that Waterloo Industries of Waterloo, Iowa, will build a plant here.

Within six months of its opening next March, the plant will employ around 400 people, according to Waterloo executives. The work force may eventually reach as high as 800, it was stated, which would make Waterloo the city's largest industrial employer.

From information provided at ap a press conference, Waterloo appears to be an impressive company. As the main supplier of tool containers for Sears-Roebuck as well as various other companies, it has a ready market for its products.

Waterloo President Wallace Sulentic said the company's business increased a shopping 40 per cent last year, hence the search for additional manufacturing facilities.

Judging from comments by company officials, Sedalia evidently is putting its best foot forward in the quest for new industries. Waterloo's board chairman said the community's "people and its spirit" were prime factors in the decision to locate here.

Sedalia's latest industrial acquisition reaffirms the importance of having a fully staffed department of economic development. Director Jim Hamm has been aggressively seeking new industry in the relatively brief time he has been on the job, and he deserved the "well-dones" tossed his way.

Things are beginning to click in Sedalia. After the city's unfortunate experience in the late recession, with its accompanying high unemployment that is good news indeed.

From the bag she pulled out a wood club.

"No, not that one," he said tenderly. "To start out, you want to hit with an iron."

"I'm using a wood," she answered determinedly, gripping the handle. "I've been ironing all day."

School Problem May Come To Longer Term

Over the nation the problem of financing our schools is critical.

Part of the mounting expense of schools is the constantly added requirements and innovations forced on local schools by state and federal departments of education. Some of these are no doubt worthy, some possibly worthless and may do more harm than good.

But there are a few educators and legislators who are saying that part of the money problem could be solved by operating our schools for eleven or eleven and a half months each year.

School terms are now nine months. For three months, billions, possibly trillions of dollars worth of buildings and equipment stand idle.

Few if any businesses could operate successfully on that sort of a schedule.

These innovative thinkers may be right. We don't know.

Labor's Marching Orders:
Special memo discloses AFGE soon will begin unionizing all U.S. fighting forces

WASHINGTON -- Insiders have little doubt that the campaign to unionize the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will be launched this fall -- perhaps this summer -- regardless of what legal roadblocks are thrown up or what oratory and laws develop in the Congress.

The little-known, but tough, militant and youthfully-led AFL-CIO American Federation of Government Employes (AFGE) officially believes he signing up of America's volunteer "citizen soldier" is "inevitable." Actually, the AFGE's Navy, Army and Air Force base organizers are on what can be described as camouflaged maneuvers.

They have been since March 7. On that date the AFGE's National Executive Council Military Committee issued "Memorandum: 14-Military."

This is the report which told the AFGE chiefs that unionization of the armed forces is "inevitable." Since then, beginning May 1, AFGE locals have been balloting their members for a yes or no word on putting a trade union label on the nation's fighting forces. Deadline for returning ballots is Aug. 1. And by "no later than Oct. 1" there will be an official announcement -- and if the yes vote is as heavy as is expected by those who have been quietly surveying the national union's membership, the organizers immediately will hit virtually all land, sea and air bases.

This "Memorandum: 14-Military" indicates that the union's chief problem is the public's shop "steward in the foxhole" concept. So the AFGE's Military Committee declares that it is "imperative" to emphasize that "in time of war or congressionally declared National Defense emergency, the union's recognition would be suspended."

But that's exactly like some new big league diamond groun rules which would cover action only at first base. What reaction would unioin officials and their military rank and filers have if they were rushed to keep the peace during some night of looting, such as New York's blacked out Christmas in July?

And under some circumstances, the President of the U.S. has 60 days to take direct armed action abroad. There might not be any congressionally labelled national emergency for many critical days. Who would decide whether or not it was peacetime and whether or not the union should still be recognized? What of a decision to send an airborne division from Fort Brragg, N.C. (where there is union activity even now), into gut-ripped Lebanon? Or into the Middle East? Or whether another S.S. Mayaguez should be rescued by the Marines?

There aren't answers from the relatively new AFGE president, 42-year-old Kenneth Blaylock. Neither he nor his colleague asked for time to testify at the Senate Armed Services Committee hearings on S274 and S997. The first act would prevent signing up uniformed fighting personnel. The second would make it illegal for any fighting man or woman to continue to hold membership in a union. Not only did an AFGE spokesman say they had no comment, but implied they actually were disinterested. This, though the proposed anit-military union laws carry criminal penalties for defiance.

Both the Pentagon's high command opposition and the union leaders, though bitterly disagreeing on unionizatin, do agree that a million members of the military forces could be signed up in five years.

Then what? The union goes into court to fight such laws if passed? Will union officials be arrested for unleashing their organizers into Department of Defense global bases?

Specifically what does the union really want? First, according to S"Memorandum: 14-Military," is actual shop steward representation. This would include bargaining with base commanders, at the beginning, and then with the Pentagon itself if necessary over "housing, leave, foreign service, education and training ... travel allowances, commissary and PX privileges, recreational facilities, parking, day care, dress and hair codes, political rights and their exercise ... health and dental care, efficiency ratings, promotions, EEO matters (women's rights), safety and reprimands or discipline under Article 15 VCMJ."

This is the first time the union ahs spelled out its specifics. Note that foreign service, EEO (Equal Employment Opportunity), efficiency ratings and promotions are included. Yet those should be command decisions. The union's demands put the military on a civilian basis. Blaylock and his colleagues appear to overlook one detail -- this is the army, not an auto plant.

The special inside "Memorandum: 14-Military" also details the second of three areas of negotiation -- legal representation to be supplied by the union "primarily in connection with administrative (discharge) boards and uniform code of military justice proceedings."

And the union is also pledging "legislative and policy representation." That is, bargaining with the Congress on pay, retirement and benefits. This would take the union over the head of the Pentagon's high command. That's a tank crusher offensive.

But it's all there in "Memorandum: 14-Military." As I interpret it, the union, with 270,000 members, many of them already working in the Pentagon, will recanother million duespayers, regardless of what ty Congress does. It's all there in the Blaylock papers. Further, with such a membership the AFGE would become one of the most powerful organizations in America.

THE HUMAN ENGINEER

(Art Buchwald has taken off a few weeks to study the effects of solar energy on bikini bathing suits. He left behind some of his classic columns which the Supreme Court has just ruled can now be released to the American people.)

WASHINGTON -- There is a new science in this country which is called human engineering. The object of human engineering, as I understand it, is to fit human beings into inhuman conditions.

I made this discovery while riding on an airplane from New York to Washington the other day. Seated next to me was a man who was taking a very careful measurement of the space between us and then writing it in a notebook.

I asked him what he was doing, and he said he was a human engineer, and it was his job to see how many more people he could squeeze on an airplane without doing permanent bodily harm to the passengers.

"We used to have five seats across," he said proudly, "but we've managed to put another seat in each row, and as you can see we can now get six people across."

"How on earth did you do it?" I asked him.

"We cut the center aisle in half. The passengers have to walk sideways, but just think of what the extra seats mean to the company's payload.

"Which, of course, is all that you're worried about?"

"You can bet your sweet whistle on that," he said. "I'm very concerned, though, that there still seems to be room between your knees and the seat in front of you."

"Only about two inches," I said.

"Well, if you take two inches away her and two inches away there, you can put another row of seats on the plane."

"Then my knees should be flush against the seat ahead?"

"Naturally, my dear boy. You can't expect leg room on such a short hop. One more thing, I was wondering how you feel about a reclining seat as opposed to a stationary one."

"I prefer a reclining seat. It gives me a chance to rest a little."

He started writing in his book: "Customer too tempted by reclining chair, so I strongly recommend stationary kind, which will allow us two more rows in back."

He looked at me. "You came on board with a package. What did you do with it?"

"I put it under my seat."

He wrote again, "Customer can still get package under seat, which means we're wasting valuable space that could better be used for air freight."

"You people really think of everything," I said.

"We try to," he replied, "but it's a tough struggle. There are a lot of people in the aviation business who are behind the times, and we have to show them that their best interests lie not with the passengers but with the stockholders. I'm having a devil of a time trying to get the company to remove the armrests."

"You want to do away with the armrests?"

"Of course. If we did away with the armrests, everyone would be forced to sit closer together, and we could get eight people in a row."

"Say, have you ever thought of putting people in the baggage rack?" I asked him.

He studied it for a few moments. "It could be done, if we could fit them in horizontally." He made another note: "Check about stuffing people into overhead baggage rack."

"You've covered all the bases," I said in admiration.

"Not quite," he said, staring at the washroom.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Real Problems Take Back Seat to Baseball

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- A new president may be shaking up Washington; oil prices may be causing economic havoc; peace may be hanging in the balance in the Middle East. But many Americans are more exercised over a small lump of stitched rawhide called a baseball.

A fierce controversy has been raging on the nation's sport pages over the construction of the baseball. According to one theory, the baseball has been altered in some insidious manner to make it an easier target for the bat wielders. This could be giving an advantage to the likes of Rod Carew over such pitching aces as Dětroit's Mark Fidrych, also known as "The Bird."

The debate has boiled over on to the editorial pages of the Washington Post, which suggested that the explanation for the thundering bats was less important than the excitement they brought to the national game.

We don't know whether there has been any tampering with the baseball's inner core of cork. But we had already sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to seek the human story behind the baseball.

This all-American symbol is constructed not in the USA but in Haiti, where the climate is balmy and the labor is cheap. The major sports corporations have closed down most of their factories in the United States and reopened new factories in Haiti. The biggest names in U.S. sporting equipment have now set up shop in Haiti's capital city of Port-Au-Prince.

Bernton visited the Rawlings baseball factory in order to see what it was like on the inside. The factory, located off the main avenue leading to the wealthy suburb of Petitionville, sits like a fortress behind concrete walls and barbed wire. Visitors must pass the careful scrutiny of an attendant at the front gate.

Within the building, dozens of women in pleasant pink uniforms are engaged in the tedious task of tightly stitching the baseball skins around the cores. By American standards, they are working under sweatshop conditions. But by Haitian standards, they are paid well.

The $1.60-a-day labor costs, however, are a mere fraction of what the sports corporations would have to pay in the United States. But the factory workers are fortunate compared to the drought-plagued peasants.

This is a grim comment on the state of the Haitian economy and the welfare of the populace. Yet it is precisely these conditions that have created the boom in baseballs in Haiti.

Cattle producers reject national research plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle producers have voted down a proposed nationwide plan to pay for a $40-million beef research and promotion program, the Agriculture Department said today.

Preliminary returns show that 56.5 per cent of 231,046 cattle producers who voted in the referendum approved of the plan. But a two-thirds majority was necessary to put the program in effect.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said in a statement that, "The producers have spoken."

The vote was 130,464 in favor and 100,582 against, according to the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service which conducted the referendum held July 5-15.

Officials said that 72 per cent of 322,175 beef producers who registered to vote actually cast ballots. An estimated 1.8 million were said to have been eligible to participate.

If it had been approved, the plan called for an assessment on producers equal to three-tenths of one per cent of the value of all cattle sold during the first three years of the program.

Wray Finney, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, which had strongly endorsed the beef plan, expressed "extreme disappointment" that producers failed to vote the required two-thirds approval.

"While the plan did not receive the required two-thirds favorable vote, it is significant that a majority of those voting did recognize the need for more adequate funding of research and information programs," Finney said in a statement.

The association leader said that he hoped that "producers who oppose the plan because of alleged government involvement will now support existing producer organizations and programs to help the beef industry."

Officials estimated that if it had been approved the plan would have raised $30 million to $40 million a year. The checkoff would have been mandatory but a cattle producer could have requested a refund if he chose not to contribute.

The plan called for the money to be administered by a 68-member Beef Board which would have carried out research and promotion projects aimed at increasing beef consumption.

According to the preliminary returns, the plan failed to get the required two-thirds approval in some of the largest cattle states. For example, Iowa voters approved the plan by 41.2 per cent; Kansas 60.3 per cent; Missouri 61.8; Nebraska 63.7; North Dakota 42.8; South Dakota 34.5; Tennessee 18.8; and Texas 61.6.

Oaklahoma voters, however, approved the beef checkoff plan by 74.2 per cent.

The votes by state, included:

Alabama 877 yes and 473 no; Alaska 4 and none; Arizona 518 and 65; Arkansas 1,729 and 444; California 2,964 and 405; Colorado 3,408 and 1,100; Connecticut 57 and 23; Delaware 19 and 14; Florida 1,168 and 644; Georgia 2,911 and 667; Hawaii 30 and 7; Idaho 2,555 and 828; Illinois 3,308 and 2,150; Indiana 2,502 and 1,516; Iowa 6,427 and 9,170; Kansas 11,224 and 7,384; Kentucky 2,371 and 2,753.

Monsanto earns $1.1 billion in second quarter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monsanto Co. has reported consolidated net sales for the second quarter of 1977 of $1.122 billion, an increase of 5.5 per cent over sales of $1.063 in the same period last year.

Net income for the second quarter of 1977 was $81.5 million, down 17 per cent from the $98.4 million reported for the second quarter last year.

Primary earnings per common share for the April-June period were $2.21, as compared to $2.69 for the second quarter of 1976. Fully diluted earnings per common share were $2.18 and $2.62 for the respective quarters.

Sales for the first six months of 1977 were $2.428 billion compared with $2.237 billion for the first half of 1976. Net income was $229.4 million for the first half of 1977, compared with $255.3 million for the first six months of 1976.

Primary earnings per common share for the first half of 1977 were $6.22 compared with $7.09 in 1976. Fully diluted earnings per common share were $6.13 and $6.81 for the respective periods.

A traveler arriving from Mexico did not have a cold when he came to the border, but he had a terrible headache when Customs officers at Brownsville, Texas, discovered 225 bottles of cough medicine hidden in the rear quarter panels of the man's vehicle. The man was arrested and his car and the cough medicine were seized.

The strange rewards of vigilance can often be seen in the files of the U.S. Customs Service. These include:

Customs officers in Loss Angeles, California, seized 60,000 gas masks and 60,000 pairs of gas mask filters which had already been packed and made ready for shipment to Panama. The masks have a value of $2.1 million.

Cattle producers reject national research plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle producers have voted down a proposed nationwide plan to pay for a $40-million beef research and promotion program, the Agriculture Department said today.

Preliminary returns show that 56.5 per cent of 231,046 cattle producers who voted in the referendum approved of the plan. But a two-thirds majority was necessary to put the program in effect.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said in a statement that, "The producers have spoken."

The vote was 130,464 in favor and 100,582 against, according to the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service which conducted the referendum held July 5-15.

Officials said that 72 per cent of 322,175 beef producers who registered to vote actually cast ballots. An estimated 1.8 million were said to have been eligible to participate.

If it had been approved, the plan called for an assessment on producers equal to three-tenths of one per cent of the value of all cattle sold during the first three years of the program.

Wray Finney, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, which had strongly endorsed the beef plan, expressed "extreme disappointment" that producers failed to vote the required two-thirds approval.

"While the plan did not receive the required two-thirds favorable vote, it is significant that a majority of those voting did recognize the need for more adequate funding of research and information programs," Finney said in a statement.

The association leader said that he hoped that "producers who oppose the plan because of alleged government involvement will now support existing producer organizations and programs to help the beef industry."

Officials estimated that if it had been approved the plan would have raised $30 million to $40 million a year. The checkoff would have been mandatory but a cattle producer could have requested a refund if he chose not to contribute.

The plan called for the money to be administered by a 68-member Beef Board which would have carried out research and promotion projects aimed at increasing beef consumption.

According to the preliminary returns, the plan failed to get the required two-thirds approval in some of the largest cattle states. For example, Iowa voters approved the plan by 41.2 per cent; Kansas 60.3 per cent; Missouri 61.8; Nebraska 63.7; North Dakota 42.8; South Dakota 34.5; Tennessee 18.8; and Texas 61.6.

Oaklahoma voters, however, approved the beef checkoff plan by 74.2 per cent.

The votes by state, included:

Alabama 877 yes and 473 no; Alaska 4 and none; Arizona 518 and 65; Arkansas 1,729 and 444; California 2,964 and 405; Colorado 3,408 and 1,100; Connecticut 57 and 23; Delaware 19 and 14; Florida 1,168 and 644; Georgia 2,911 and 667; Hawaii 30 and 7; Idaho 2,555 and 828; Illinois 3,308 and 2,150; Indiana 2,502 and 1,516; Iowa 6,427 and 9,170; Kansas 11,224 and 7,384; Kentucky 2,371 and 2,753.

Louisiana 2,179 and 303; Maine 50 and 58; Maryland 513 and 96; Massachusetts 63 and 43; Michigan 959 and 767; Minnesota 2,001 and 3,805; Mississippi 3,144 and 581; Missouri 5,308 and 3,283; Montana 6,405 and 1,499; Nebraska 9,918 and 5,648; Nevada 444 and 93; New Hampshire 29 and 18; New Jersey 42 and 37; New Mexico 1,057 and 721; New York 1,134 and 1,857; North Carolina 1,660 and 277; North Dakota 3,565 and 4,766.

Ohio 2,481 and 2,294; Oklahoma 7,433 and 2,447; Oregon 1,915 and 414; Pennsylvania 2,060 and 3,025; Rhode Island 6 and 1; South Carolina 684 and 250; South Dakota 4,430 and 8,406; Tennessee 2,633 and 11,344; Texas 19,305 and 12,045; Utah 790 and 102; Vermont 94 and 115; Virginia 2,640 and 2,545; Washington 1,392 and 331; West Virginia 1,029 and 557; Wisconsin 1,508 and 4,737; and Wyoming 1,881 and 474.

A traveler arriving from Mexico did not have a cold when he came to the border, but he had a terrible headache when Customs officers at Brownsville, Texas, discovered 225 bottles of cough medicine hidden in the rear quarter panels of the man's vehicle. The man was arrested and his car and the cough medicine were seized.

Monsanto earns $1.1 billion in second quarter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monsanto Co. has reported consolidated net sales for the second quarter of 1977 of $1.122 billion, an increase of 5.5 per cent over sales of $1.063 in the same period last year.

Net income for the second quarter of 1977 was $81.5 million, down 17 per cent from the $98.4 million reported for the second quarter last year.

Primary earnings per common share for the April-June period were $2.21, as compared to $2.69 for the second quarter of 1976. Fully diluted earnings per common share were $2.18 and $2.62 for the respective quarters.

Sales for the first six months of 1977 were $2.428 billion compared with $2.237 billion for the first half of 1976. Net income was $229.4 million for the first half of 1977, compared with $255.3 million for the first six months of 1976.

Primary earnings per common share for the first half of 1977 were $6.22 compared with $7.09 in 1976. Fully diluted earnings per common share were $6.13 and $6.81 for the respective periods.

The strange rewards of vigilance can often be seen in the files of the U.S. Customs Service. These include:

Customs officers in Loss Angeles, California, seized 60,000 gas masks and 60,000 pairs of gas mask filters which had already been packed and made ready for shipment to Panama. The masks have a value of $2.1 million.

Cuban born Sikestonian opposes open trade with Castro regime

Feature By

Jill Corti

Jose Rodriguez, general manager of Ramada Inn, is concerned over the talks in Washington regarding the re-establishment and opening of trade with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Born and raised in Havanna, Cuba, Rodriguez was sent to the United States in December of 1961, by his father, a Cuban businessman, prior to the revolution. This task was done with the help of the LaSalle Brothers, a Catholic Group.

"For what Castro did to the United States by sending troops to Africa, infiltrating terrorists in the western hemisphere, why does he want our friendship? Why do the people here want it? What is to be gained by opening the door of betrayal once more?," Rodriguez said, He emphasized that the door closed in 1959 should remain shut.

Rodriguez refers to Castro as a revolutionary by nature, one who fights for enjoyment. He describes Cuba as a prosperous country that works mainly in tobacco, sugar and tourism.

Rodriguez added that the people of Cuba are very industrious and at one time Cubans owned and operated at least 60 per cent of Miami, Fla., business.

His mother still lives in Cuba and Rodriguez would naturally love to see her when and if the doors open. However, he says, because of "what the United States has given me as a future, I have learned to live with the fact that I may not see my Mother again."

He writes and sometimes phones his mother, but must be careful what he says to keep her out of trouble.

"That's another reason why I love America, the Freedom of Speech".

His mother is happy and naturally proud of her son's accomplishments, but has to go along with what she must in Cuba to remain alive, according to Rodriguez.

Both Rodriguez and his mother believe that if he had remained in Cuba he would have probably been dead by now, because, he says, he would never have stood for what took place there.

Rodriguez sees the door opening to Cuba as "unavoidable the way Sen. George McGovern seems to be pushing it" and he wants to know why. He realizes he may not be able to see McGovern's point, but as far as he sees, the United States has already learned to live without Cuba's sugar and tobacco. Why does the United States need Cuba?

Rodriguez can't understand why the young people in the United States say there are no opportunities. To explain this he used himself as an example. When he arrived in the United States he had no money, didn't know anyone or could hardly speak the language. He finished high school and learned the language the hard way by hearing phrases, repeating them and reading the dictionary. "The dictionary became my Bible." He still has a problem with spelling.

His first job was as a busboy at Miami Beach Fontain Bleu.

He has held positions as a dishwasher, waiter, cook, captain and bartender. With each job, he would gain more self-confidence and would apply for more advanced positions knowing inside that he would do the job easily and with pride. Of course, he added he got held back a few times, but never let that discourage him.

Rodriguez's main goal is to become a vice president or president of a motel corporation. When asked if he would consider going into business for himself, he replied that he had been approached about going into business for himself before and "I'm more satisfied doing a good job for someone else."

He has traveled up the east coast and has worked in the Ramada Inn of Columbia before coming to Sikeston. Rodriguez serves as a trouble shooter for those inns that are loosing money and not making a profit. He finds these jobs most rewarding and challenging.

To Rodriguez, life is a game of survival.

weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Michael Campbell

PARMA -- Cathy Lyn Stahl of Catron and Ira Michael Campbell of Parma were married recently in the First Baptist Church of Parma with the Rev. Ricky Dunn of Lilbourn officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Stahl of Catron. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Campbell of Parma.

The bride chose a gown of white silk organza with embroidered Venice lace medallions overlaying the front bodice with lace trim creating a sheer yoke and forming the high neckline. An organza circular rufflem topped and edged with la lace, trimmed the long fitted sleeves and a deeper circular flounce with matching trim, bordered the hemlines of the A-line silhouette skirt and attached chapel train.

Matching lace bordered the elbow-length veil, with blusher veil attached, all held secure with a profile headpiece of lace flowers.

Janie Robinson served as the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Stahl. sister of the bride and Lisa Campbell, sister of the groom.

The best man was S Landal Carter of Parma. The groosmen Jon Stahl, brother of the bride and John Campbell brother of the groom also served as ushers.

Tracy Lovelace served as flowergirl and Billy Medlin served as ringbearer.

A reception for the couple and their guests was held following the ceremony at the Parma Community Building.

The bride is a 1977 gradutate of Parma High School and is presently employed at the Bank of Sikeston.

The groom is a 1975 graduate of Parma High School and is employed at Noranda.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are making their home in Sikeston.

Olympic Flame

The modern version of the Olympic flame was adopted in 1936 and symbolizes the continuity between the ancient and modern Games. The torch used to kindle the flame is first lit by the sun's rays at Olympia, Greece, and then carried to the site of the Games by relays of runners. Ships and planes are used when necessary.

Ask the Pastor

Does excessive Bible study tend toward insanity

By REV. E. PEMBLETON

Dear Pastor Pembleton: Is it true that excessive Bible Study tends toward insanity? - P.R.

Dear P. P.R.: In the first place, the problem of insanity would be small indeed if Bible study were its only cause, for few people really study their Bibles. Surely anyone whose emotional make-up can survive the movies and novels of today, has nothing to fear from Bible study. It is true that many cases of insanity have an apparent basis in religious problems.

However, it is not the study of the Bible but the misunderstanding of its teachings, or failure to accept them, that results in mental conflict. The study of the Bible and the acceptance of the Saviour it portrays is one of the most effective prescriptions for mental health.

Read Psalm 19:7 and Proverbs 16:3. The intellectual awakening of Europe and Africa was due directly to the influence of the Bible.

Dear Pastor Pembleton: My husband believes in the old-fashioned method of whipping a child. I lean more to the modern psychological approach. What do you teach? – Susie.

Dear Susie: I accept the counsel of Holy Scripture. Proverbs 23:13, 14. Nothing can take the place of the occasional temperate administration of the chastening rod. Counsel is good but it often needs the emphasis of physical pressure, strategically applied.

Dear Pastor Pembleton: Why do the Jews have such a hard time? – Timothy.

Dear Timothy: The Jews are not alone in this. However, there is a particular reason why the Jewish people have suffered so long and so tragically. When they cried, "His blood be on us, and on our children," it was the cry of defiance against God and His great provision of salvation. Because of their rejection of the Messiah, all the tragic sorrows enumerated by Moses in Deuteronomy 28 have been reaped by this unfortunate people.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbert are making their home at 830 Matthews.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Davis

The Murray Lane Baptist Church was the setting for the afternoon wedding of Marsha R. Adams and James A. Davis. The Rev. Dr. Wade Paris presided over the candlelight, double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Adams and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L.Davis all of Sikeston.

The bride chose a traditional wedding gown of de-lustered satin with the princess silhoutte featuring the victorian neckline and long fitted sleeves. The skirt swept to a chapel train. Motifs of matching venise lace highlighted the skirt, sleeves, neckline and bodice of the chapel train.

A cascade of sweetheart rosebuds with daisies accented with baby's breath, greenery, lace and ribbons was carried by the bride.

Debbie Elliott of Sikeston served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Davis, sister of the groom and Janie McCord and Rachelle Rowe all of Sikeston.

Ricki Lambert of Sikeston served as the groom's best man. Groomsmen were Tony Smith and Jim Brown of Sikeston and Frank Conci of Golconda, Ill.

Carrie Freeman daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Freeman of Sikeston was flower girl. Ringbearer was the grooms brother Tim Davis of Sikeston.

Candlelighters were Becky Alexander and Janie Felker of Sikeston.

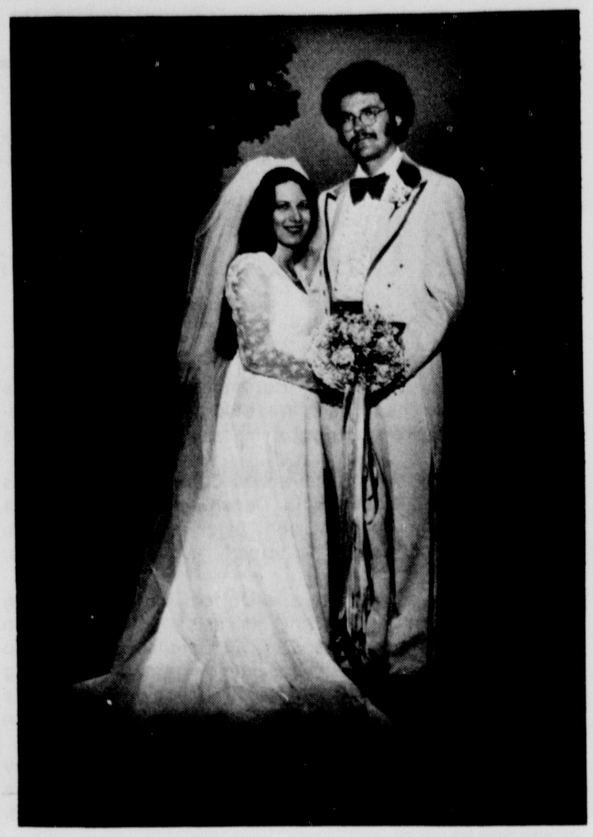
Guests were seated by Brian Crites, Robert Bratcher, Andy Agnew, and Darrell Murphy all of Sikeston.

A reception for the couple and their guests followed in the church fellowship hall.

The bride will be a senior at Sikeston High School and is employed at T.G. & Y of Sikeston.

The groom is a 1976 graduate of Sikeston High School and is employed by Davis Marble Co. of Sikeston.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are making their home in Sikeston.



Mr. and Mrs. Randol Allen Couch

The Murray Lane Baptist Church of Sikeston was the setting for the June 25 wedding of Rebecca Lynn Perrin and Randol Allen Couch. Dr. Wade Paris, pastor of the church, performed the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Perrin of Sikeston, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Couch, also of Sikeston.

The bride chose a gown of white polyester crepe, featuring a scoop neckline and long fitted lace sleeves. An empire bodice, overlayed with lace, topped a flared skirt with hemline extending into a chapel length train. Her tiered veil of illusion with attached blusher, was secured with a small juliet cap covered with lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of peach, blue, and green elegance carnations, white sweetheart roses, and baby's breath with peach, blue, and green streamers. She wore a single strand of pearls and an opal and emerald ring, gifts from the groom.

Mrs. Melody Luscombe of Piedmont, Mo. served as matron of honor. Miss Marsha Entrekin of Biloxi, Miss. was maid of honor, and Miss Joyce Couch of Sikeston, sister of the groom was junior bridesmaid.

Chaylon Couch of Sikeston served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Carroll Couch of Sikeston, brother of the groom, and Rick Hartzell of Esther.

Kara Boyer served as flower girl, and Tim Davis was ring bearer.

Candlelighters were Hubert Lee Allred and Keith Kyle, both of Sikeston.

Guests were seated by ushers Danny Summers and Danny Powers, both of Sikeston.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. James Bracy of Kennett, Mo., Mrs. Mittie Lemmons of St. Louis, Mo., Rev. and Mrs. Charles Porter of St. Petersburg, Fla., Mrs. Lelia Blankenship and Mrs. Lucille Blankenship of Pocahontas, Ark., Miss Marsha Entrekin and Mr. Bob Entrekin of Biloxi, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Luscombe of Piedmont, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cunningham of Fenton, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crader of Peoria, Ill, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Biggs, Brad, and Mike of Mexico, Mo., Mrs. Margaret Thomas of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mrs. Linda Howard and Mrs. Effie Thurmond of East Prairie, Mo.

A reception for the couple and their guests was held in the church fellowship hall immediately after the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Sikeston High School and received her degree in music education from Southeast Mo. State University in Cape Girardeau. She is employed at Keith Collins Piano Co. The groom is a graduate of Sikeston High School and attended the University of Mo. at Columbia. He is employed at Keith Collins Piano Co. as an instrument repair technician.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch live in Sikeston.

Ask the Pastor

Does excessive Bible study tend toward insanity

By REV. E. PEMBLETON

Dear Pastor Pembleton: Is it true that excessive Bible Study tends toward insanity? - P.R.

Dear P. P.R.: In the first place, the problem of insanity would be small indeed if Bible study were its only cause, for few people really study their Bibles. Surely anyone whose emotional make-up can survive the movies and novels of today, has nothing to fear from Bible study. It is true that many cases of insanity have an apparent basis in religious problems.

However, it is not the study of the Bible but the misunderstanding of its teachings, or failure to accept them, that results in mental conflict. The study of the Bible and the acceptance of the Saviour it portrays is one of the most effective prescriptions for mental health.

Read Psalm 19:7 and Proverbs 16:3. The intellectual awakening of Europe and Africa was due directly to the influence of the Bible.

Dear Pastor Pembleton: My husband believes in the old-fashioned method of whipping a child. I lean more to the modern psychological approach. What do you teach? – Susie.

Dear Susie: I accept the counsel of Holy Scripture. Proverbs 23:13, 14. Nothing can take the place of the occasional temperate administration of the chastening rod. Counsel is good but it often needs the emphasis of physical pressure, strategically applied.

Dear Pastor Pembleton: Why do the Jews have such a hard time? – Timothy.

Dear Timothy: The Jews are not alone in this. However, there is a particular reason why the Jewish people have suffered so long and so tragically. When they cried, "His blood be on us, and on our children," it was the cry of defiance against God and His great provision of salvation. Because of their rejection of the Messiah, all the tragic sorrows enumerated by Moses in Deuteronomy 28 have been reaped by this unfortunate people.

New class added to country-wine experts

By ERMA BOMBECK

A new class has been added to this country, right up there with the polo players, yacht owners, spa seekers, jet setters, and women who can wear a Diane Von Furstenberg wrap-around without a pin in the cleavage.

They are called wine experts, and they intimidate everyone.

Ever since my husband read a book on wines, he has treated me like Eliza Doolittle with her hand caught in the gravy.

"I wish you wouldn't order wine at dinner anymore," he said irritably, "until you have some command of the vocabulary."

"I don't know what you are talking about," I said. "What's vocabulary got to do with drinking wine?"

"Everything," he said. "You do not sit there with the whole table awaiting your assessment of the wine, belt it down in one gulp, pound the table and say, 'Wow! This'll put hair on your chest.' "

"What would you have said?'

"I would have said it was robust . . . very complex . . . but never pretentious."

"Same thing."

"It is not the same thing," he said evenly. "Frankly, I think you could take a lesson from Ethel and Eric Birdbeak. Did you see the way Eric took the wine glass the other night, held it precisely 11½ inches from his nose, swirled the glass ever so gently, sniffed its aroma for exactly three seconds, then touched his tongue to it and said, 'It has a heavy body, good nose, and a lingering aftertaste.' "

"Are you sure he was talking about the wine? He just described Ethel."

"Then when Ethel lifted her glass, she closed her eyes and, like a prayer coming from her lips, she chanted, 'It's an aromatic bouquet, so young, and quite fruity.' "

"And she just described Eric!"

"All I am saying is," he said, "If you don't understand the terminology, then don't order the wine. I suspect good wines are wasted on you anyway."

He shouldn't have challenged me like that. At dinner last night, I served the wine from a basket and was very proper in pouring half a finger into his wine glass for his discriminating taste.

I waited. He touched his tongue to it, then proclaimed to the guests, "I find this reminiscent of old Spanish ambience . . . it's so titillating to the senses. What clarity and aroma! What is it?" he asked.

It was Kool Aid . . . 1977.

Chicken Rolls Salted Almonds
Fortune Cookies Tea

CHICKEN ROLLS

A scant half-pound skinless and boneless chicken breast (2 halves)
1½ tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon salad oil
8 drained canned water chestnuts, finely chopped
½ cup each finely chopped celery, scallion and mushrooms
Sauce Mixture, see below
Large outer leaves from iceberg lettuce

Dice the chicken into ½-inch pieces; mix with the soy sauce and let stand about 15 minutes. In a 10-inch skillet in the hot oil stir-fry the chicken fast until cooked through — a few minutes. Add the water chestnuts, celery, scallion, mushrooms and Sauce Mixture; stir-fry fast until excess liquid is reduced. Chill. Makes 1½ to 2 cups. Eaters spoon portions of the chicken mixture into the lettuce leaves and roll up.

Sauce Mixture: Stir together ¼ teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, ½ teaspoon chicken bouillon granules, ¾ teaspoon cornstarch and 1 teaspoon chili powder; stir in ¼ cup hot water, keeping smooth, and ¾ teaspoon minced ginger root plus a tiny clove of garlic (minced).

Food for 30 families

Spending more on food than you can ? Tired of the same old meals? Now there's a free menu guide available to help you prepare thrifty, nutritious meals for your family.

A revised pamphlet from the U.S Department of Agriculture (USDA) written expecially for families on very limited budgets, tells how much food you need to buy to feed a family of four, and gives you shopping tips, suggested menus, and recipes for a month. Food For Thrifty Families can be ordered free, by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Department 663E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Using last winter's prices, the cost of foods required to feed a couple with 2 preschool children would be about $32 a week, if the low-cost meal plan is followed. If the children are elementary school age, the cost would be about $39. A family of eight, with three elementary school children, two teenage boys and a teenage girl, would require about $70.00 a week, under the low-cost food plan. These estimates assume that families buy all their food and prepare it at home.

Some of the recipes recommended in the booklet include: baked picnic pork shoulder, chili with beans and macaroni, and fried chicken.

Food For Thrifty Families is one of more than 200 federal publications of consumer interest listed in the free Consumer Information Catalog published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration. For your free copy of the Catalog, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Canals

One of the busiest canals in Europe is the Gota, crossing Sweden for 115 miles and linking the Baltic Sea south of Stockholm with the Danish Straits between the Baltic and North seas. Other major European canals are the Kiel, 61 miles, and the Elbe, 41 miles, both in Germany; the Amsterdam, 16 miles, in the Netherlands, and the Manchester Ship Canal, 35.5 miles, in England.

Spending more on food than you can ? Tired of the same old meals? Now there's a free menu guide available to help you prepare thrifty, nutritious meals for your family.

A revised pamphlet from the U.S Department of Agriculture (USDA) written expecially for families on very limited budgets, tells how much food you need to buy to feed a family of four, and gives you shopping tips, suggested menus, and recipes for a month. Food For Thrifty Families can be ordered free, by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Department 663E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Using last winter's prices, the cost of foods required to feed a couple with 2 preschool children would be about $32 a week, if the low-cost meal plan is followed. If the children are elementary school age, the cost would be about $39. A family of eight, with three elementary school children, two teenage boys and a teenage girl, would require about $70.00 a week, under the low-cost food plan. These estimates assume that families buy all their food and prepare it at home.

Some of the recipes recommended in the booklet include: baked picnic pork shoulder, chili with beans and macaroni, and fried chicken.

Food For Thrifty Families is one of more than 200 federal publications of consumer interest listed in the free Consumer Information Catalog published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration. For your free copy of the Catalog, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Canals

One of the busiest canals in Europe is the Gota, crossing Sweden for 115 miles and linking the Baltic Sea south of Stockholm with the Danish Straits between the Baltic and North seas. Other major European canals are the Kiel, 61 miles, and the Elbe, 41 miles, both in Germany; the Amsterdam, 16 miles, in the Netherlands, and the Manchester Ship Canal, 35.5 miles, in England.

Teen-age girls spent near $2 billion during 1976 Christmas season

NEW YORK, -- Teen-age girls in America spent a record-breaking $1.9 billion on gifts during the 1976 Christmas season, an increase of 49.3 per cent over 1975, according to a Seventeen Magazine survey. This included over $1 billion spent on gifts for family members, $482 million on gifts for friends and $380 million on gifts for themselves using cash received at Christmas.

The survey also found that there was a large increase in the number of teen girls who purchased gifts. In 1975, forinstance, only 76 per cent of the girls surveyed bought Christmas presents for their mothers; in 1976 the percentage jumped to 96.9 per cent. This increase in generosity is partially attributed to the the fact that 1976 was generally a better economic year than 1975.

The value of gifts given by teen girls to females (including mothers, sisters and girl friends) increased almost 39 per cent over 1975 to $609,205,000. They spent over $365 million on their mothers, with sweaters, perfume, silver-china-glassware, blouses and small electric appliances being most popular.

About one third of the teen girls spent nearly $80 million on gifts for older sisters, with sweaters, jewelry, perfume, blouses and records given most. Slightly more girls purchased $73.5 million in presents for their younger sisters, mostly toys-games, jewelry, records and stuffed animals. Finally, almost nine out of ten teen girls gave their girl friends presents valued at $180 million, with jewelry, perfume and records leading the list of gifts given to them.

Last Christmas, teen girls increased their spending on males (including fathers, brothers and boy friends) by 54.6 per cent over 1975 to $789,688,000. Nine out of ten bought presents for their fathers, spending over $306 million, with shirts, men's cologne, socks and sweaters being the most popular gifts for dads. Nearly 60 per cent of the teen-age girls spent almost as much (302 million) on presents for their boy friends, buring mostly sweaters, men's cologne and shirts.

Approximately two-fifths of the girls surveyed gave gifts to brothers, including nearly $98 million worth of shirts, records, sweaters and men's cologne for older brothers, and $83.7 million in toys and games, shirts, records and sporting equipment for younger brothers.

Instructors receive top honors

Southeast Missouri Artex instructors Kathryn Johnson and Jean McMillen took top honors in the painted fashion shows at the Artex National Convention held recently in Kansas City. Instructors from 12 states attended the convention. Mrs. Johnson of Portageville took first place in the sportswear division for the mountain lion painted on the cape styled jacket. The "Happiness is Being a Grandmother" jacket took first place in the daytime division and also "Best of Show" ribbon awarded to the fashion receiving the most votes in the entire show. The suit jacket was designed and painted by Mrs. Jean McMillen of Sikeston Route 3 and modeled by her mother Wynnette Davis of Sikeston. (Daily Standard photo)

Milk market statistics are released by USDA

A new annual compilation of "Federal Milk Order Market Statistics" has been issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

This 128-page tabular bulletin brings together data from monthly reports published during 1976 on quantities of milk priced under the orders. It summarizes prices and uses made of milk, including sales of various fluid milk products. It also insludes information on the number of handlers, marketing area population, and gross values of milk.

H.L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), said federal milk marketing orders regulate prices to farmers for more than 65 per cent of the milk sold to plants and dealers in the United States, The orders help maintain orderly marketing conditions, reasonable prices to farmers, and a steady supply of milk for consumers, Forest said.

Single copies of "Federal Milk Order Market Statistics -- Annual Summary for 1976," Statistical Bulletin No. 575, may be obtained by postcard request from the Office of Communication, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Please include your zipcode.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — Now that many will be taking small children on vacation trips I would like to pass on some of the things that have helped us and our three small ones. In a tote bag I always carry a hand can opener and plastic spoons. knives, etc., and one of those inexpensive coil devices for heating soup, coffee or whatever. We soon learned that the cost of eating three meals a day in restaurants was prohibitive so picnics and snacks in the room can save our budget.

I also pack crayons, pencils, tablets, small sock puppets. etc., in a bag so the children have something to do when they are not watching TV in the motel. I take along a small box of detergent and wash out many small things at night and they are dry in the morning and not so much soiled clothing accumulates. I also carry safety pins and have learned that hand towels can be pinned on to make excellent bibs. — MARILYN.

DEAR POLLY — It is always difficult to mend gloves. especially the ones for the right hand, so I put an old fashioned round wood clothespin in the finger to be mended and it is a big help. — MRS. R.D.

Dear Ann Landers

The skinnies versus the office fatties

Dear Ann Landers: Am I too late to say a word in behalf of the skinny ones versus the fatties? I hope not.

The "Skinnies" in our office put out twice as much work as the obese babes. They are also much better natured than the constant "noshers" who waddle down the aisles.

I'm a "Skinny" and my pantsuits look great even without a jacket -- which most women wear to cover bulging hips and big behinds.

Doctors keep telling people to lose weight. I think you could have been a little kinder to us, Miss Landers. How about an apology? -- Efficient

Dear E: Sorry, my four top secretaries are all fighting the battle of the bulge and they are the most efficient women I have seen in ANY office. This is not a plug for obesity because these energetic females are not fat, but they can certainly outwork any "Skinny" in the U.S.A.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think I'm crazy but I want to help my son who is in the seventh grade. His teacher is well known for her bizarre assignments but this one trakes the rag off the bush.

John is practically going blind trying to find the words "unsubstantiated" and "exhaustive" in two separate sentences in the same newspaper. We have searched for almost a week (his 13-year-old sister is also looking) but apparently no one uses these words but his English teacher.

My husband suggested that you might come to the rescue. Will you please use these two words in your column? -- Cockeyed In Columbus

Dear C.I.C.: In the year following an election you shouldn't have much trouble finding the word "unsubstantiated." But I'm happy to save your son the exhaustive search. Have a good day.

Dear Ann Landers: After dining with a woman friend (in a fine restaurant) I applied lipstick. She informed me that it was in poor taste to put on lipstick at the table.

Will you kindly settle it. Yes or no? -- Willing To Learn

Dear W.T.L.: It is perfectly all right to apply lipstick at the dining table. In fact, it makes sense if the ladies' room is a distance away -- often upstairs or downstairs.

Combing the hair, putting on eye shadow or curling lashes WOULD be in poor taste, but a little nose-powdering and dabbing on of lipstick is OK.

Dear Ann: I read with interest the letters from teachers who complained about the kids acting like animals. May I present the other side?

Maintaining discipline is a difficult problem when a teacher is faced with 20 to 30 bored students. Most students are tired of games, tired of movies, tired of milk breaks and tired of listening to a tape recorder instead of a human voice. They are also tired of field trtips and tired of teachers who have no imagination and don't really like kids. If the teachers would do what they are paid to do, discipline would be no problem.

Concerning respect: How can students respect a teacher who goes around bad-mouthing them? People usually get what they give. It's about time the students were shown a little respect. -- On Their Side

Dear On: Thank you for another point of view. Your letter is not without merit.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Jerry Lewis open home campaign kicked off

Notre Dame football coach Dan Devine, a national vice president of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), and Tommie, Indiana Poster Child, help launch "Jerry Lewis Open Home" campaign sponsored by Electronic Realty Associates, Inc. (ERA), a national home marketing service. ERA's 2,200 offices are participating in various fund raising efforts as the newest corporate sponsor of MDA, donating money for every family who tours the designated homes. Money raised through this and other ERA programs will be used to conduct research into the cause and treatment of the muscle-wasting disease which afflicts thousands of children. ERA offers three exclusive consumer aids -- the Home Buyers Protection Plan and Home Sellers Protection, as well as photo-by-wire listings which enable prospective buyers to see six photos at a time of houses in the distant cities in which they are moving, without leaving an ERA Realtor's office. ERA is headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas.

NEW YORK (AP) — Environmentalists are facing stiff resistance in their bid to get state legislators to enact laws that would impose 3 to 5-cent deposits on all beer and soft drink bottles and cans.

A survey shows that of the 40 states with such bills in the legislative hopper, 24 have already rejected the legislation as both inflationary and a potential cause of unemployment. Only three states — Oregon, Vermont and South Dakota — have enacted such laws.

Proponents of the forced deposit bills claim that roadways throughout the nation would be cleaner and that valuable resources could be saved under a returnable bottle system.

House painting tips save time and money

PITTSBURGH -- "Look before you paint" is a byword that can save you time and money when painting your home exterior, advised a paint industry expert.

"Failure to look for trouble spots and correct them is a leading cause of painting failures by do-it-yourselfers," said William S. Rosenthal, technical marketing manger for PPG Industries' Coatings & Resins Division, maker of Pittsburgh Paints.

Other common painting miscues, according to Rosenthal, include lack of careful surface preparation, improper selection of paints and tools and painting under the wrong conditions.

The PPG authority cautioned homeowners to look first for areas where exterior paint is peeling or cracking. He urged correction of structural faults and moisture sources that cause these conditions.

"Common moisture sources include leaks in the roof, gutters and caulked area around the house trim as well as unventilated inside areas such as wet basements, bathrooms and laundry rooms," Rosenthal said.

Before painting, the home handyman also should remove all dirt and dust -- especially under the eaves and overhangs -- and clean off peeling and chalky paint and roughen hard glossy areas by sanding.

"Paint should be selected carefully," Rosenthal stressed. "Rather than looking for bargains, homeowners should choose a reliable, proven quality house paint."

According to the PPG expert, flat house paints are not recommended in high soiling areas such as where dirt splashes onto wood siding. He suggested using a glossy house paint instead.

High humidity can reduce the life of house paints, Rosenthal noted. "At PPG we urge homeowners in humid areas -- and especially in Southern states -- to purchase a mildew-resistant paint."

He added "Everyone who buys house paint should read the label carefully and follow instructions, including applying a primer if recommended."

Proper tools also are important. Sharp scrapers, sandpaper and good quality, clean brushes and rollers are essential for a proper paint job.

Best results also come from painting under the proper conditions. As an example, latex paints should not be used late in the day when condensation forms or when a rainstorm threatens, since the paint may not dry properly. Such paints also should not be applied when air, surface or paint temperatures are below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rosenthal reminded consumers not to paint if an extreme temperature drop in a few hours is expected.

He also cautioned: "Never paint in direct sunlight. Always follow the sun around the house."

Open mind

IS it ever too late to help?

Dear Open Mind:

Five or six years ago my friend had a nervous breakdown and was at Barnes Hospital. She came home and did well for several months. Her mother was constantly telling her that her husband had put her in the hospital to get rid of her. Her father constantly harassed her husband while she was under treatment.

For years now she has been talking nonsense, can't even take a telephone message. Her house is a pig sty, and she is dirty. She drives long distances without any reason.

Is it too late to get something done? How can I, an outsider, get help for her? Her husband knows she needs it but says he doesn't have the nerve to fight with her parents again.

BUTTINSKY

Listening helps

Dear Buttinsky:

It is never too late to do something. Can you give expression to your friendship in some active way? For instance, can you offer to help her clean her house for a few hours a week? Can you manage to accompany her on some of her long drives? If and when she talks to you, can you listen? That means lending a sympathetic ear without criticizing, without giving advice and suggestions (she's already had tons of all that). Then ask her if she would go back to the hospital where she has been before, or if she would see a psychologist or psychiatrist, or go to a mental health center. Offer to go with her.

Of course, you will make yourself quite unpopular with her parents, but her husband may quietly welcome your efforts.

Finally, if all this fails to bring results, go to the nearest mental health center or public health agency and talk the problem over with them. Your friend may be grateful that someone cared enough to take some action.

Dear Buttinsky:

Your friend desperately needs psychiatric care. Forget her parents. As an adult she can seek psychiatric treatment on her own. Surely if she were physically ill she would not first seek parental approval!

As her friend, encourage her to either return to the psychiatrist she had some years ago or request care from another. (Both private and clinic mental health care is available statewide). If she cannot do this, encourage her husband to take her for care as soon as possible. They are adults and must act on their own.

Unfortunately, many people suffer needlessly from mental illness. Often the attitudes of friends and family preclude early treatment. Your friend can be helped; however the longer she delays, the more prolonged her treatment and rehabilitation.

Jerry Lewis open home campaign kicked off

Notre Dame football coach Dan Devine, a national vice president of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), and Tommie, Indiana Poster Child, help launch "Jerry Lewis Open Home" campaign sponsored by Electronic Realty Associates, Inc. (ERA), a national home marketing service. ERA's 2,200 offices are participating in various fund raising efforts as the newest corporate sponsor of MDA, donating money for every family who tours the designated homes. Money raised through this and other ERA programs will be used to conduct research into the cause and treatment of the muscle-wasting disease which afflicts thousands of children. ERA offers three exclusive consumer aids -- the Home Buyers Protection Plan and Home Sellers Protection, as well as photo-by-wire listings which enable prospective buyers to see six photos at a time of houses in the distant cities in which they are moving, without leaving an ERA Realtor's office. ERA is headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas.

House painting tips save time and money

PITTSBURGH -- "Look before you paint" is a byword that can save you time and money when painting your home exterior, advised a paint industry expert.

"Failure to look for trouble spots and correct them is a leading cause of painting failures by do-it-yourselfers," said William S. Rosenthal, technical marketing manger for PPG Industries' Coatings & Resins Division, maker of Pittsburgh Paints.

Other common painting miscues, according to Rosenthal, include lack of careful surface preparation, improper selection of paints and tools and painting under the wrong conditions.

The PPG authority cautioned homeowners to look first for areas where exterior paint is peeling or cracking. He urged correction of structural faults and moisture sources that cause these conditions.

"Common moisture sources include leaks in the roof, gutters and caulked area around the house trim as well as unventilated inside areas such as wet basements, bathrooms and laundry rooms," Rosenthal said.

Before painting, the home handyman also should remove all dirt and dust -- especially under the eaves and overhangs -- and clean off peeling and chalky paint and roughen hard glossy areas by sanding.

"Paint should be selected carefully," Rosenthal stressed. "Rather than looking for bargains, homeowners should choose a reliable, proven quality house paint."

According to the PPG expert, flat house paints are not recommended in high soiling areas such as where dirt splashes onto wood siding. He suggested using a glossy house paint instead.

High humidity can reduce the life of house paints, Rosenthal noted. "At PPG we urge homeowners in humid areas -- and especially in Southern states -- to purchase a mildew-resistant paint."

He added "Everyone who buys house paint should read the label carefully and follow instructions, including applying a primer if recommended."

Proper tools also are important. Sharp scrapers, sandpaper and good quality, clean brushes and rollers are essential for a proper paint job.

Best results also come from painting under the proper conditions. As an example, latex paints should not be used late in the day when condensation forms or when a rainstorm threatens, since the paint may not dry properly. Such paints also should not be applied when air, surface or paint temperatures are below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rosenthal reminded consumers not to paint if an extreme temperature drop in a few hours is expected.

He also cautioned: "Never paint in direct sunlight. Always follow the sun around the house."

NEW YORK (AP) — Environmentalists are facing stiff resistance in their bid to get state legislators to enact laws that would impose 3 to 5-cent deposits on all beer and soft drink bottles and cans.

A survey shows that of the 40 states with such bills in the legislative hopper, 24 have already rejected the legislation as both inflationary and a potential cause of unemployment. Only three states — Oregon, Vermont and South Dakota — have enacted such laws.

Proponents of the forced deposit bills claim that roadways throughout the nation would be cleaner and that valuable resources could be saved under a returnable bottle system.

81-year-old has won over 1,000 prizes

Queen of contests tells her secret

By Kay Brookshire

CINCINNATI — (NEA) — Compulsive coupon clippers and contest-enterers should heed the advice of a woman who's made an art of winning contests.

Be persistent and depend more on pluckiness than luck, advises the contesting pro. She says almost anyone willing to work seriously at contesting can develop winning techniques.

Eighty-one-year-old Mary Garner, a Cincinnati native who now lives in Florida, has won more than 1,000 contest prizes in the past 20 years.

She's won 13 color television sets, more than $5,000 in cash, a $2,500 boat, toasters, wall-to-wall carpeting, roller skates, world-wide vacation trips, rent for a year, 66 cans of dog food, and more.

She gives away most of her winnings to her two sons, their children or her friends.

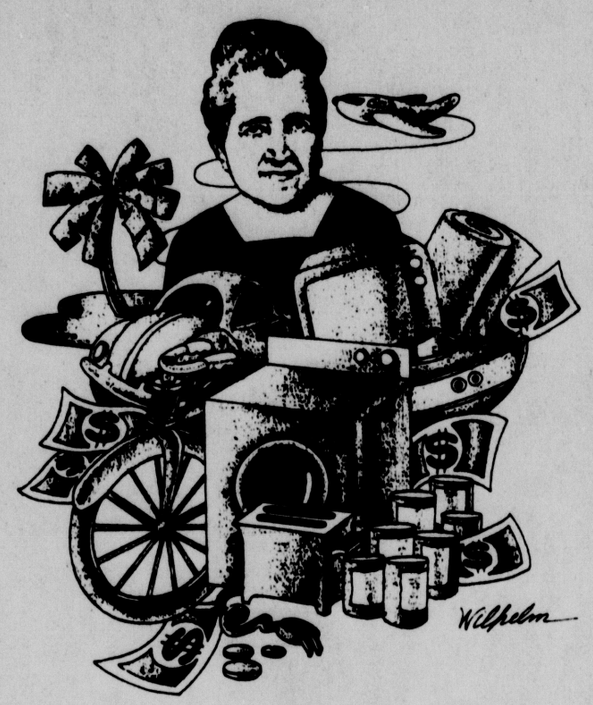
"I won a trip to Paris, France, which I gave to my son and his wife," she said. "They hadn't been married long. That was from Virginia Slims," said Mrs. Garner, who has entered as many as 500 contests a year.

"I won a trip to Jamaica in a sweepstakes, and I won a trip not long ago to Disney World. I won one to Hawaii once and carpeting for my son's home in Pittsburgh.

"I've won many television sets, washers and dryers, electric stoves and bicycles. You name it and I've won it — everything but a house," she said.

Mrs. Garner started entering contests years ago as a hobby and now it's almost a full-time occupation for the Glendale-born widow.

She publishes a monthly contest bulletin sent to more than 1,000 readers. She travels around the country to contesting conventions and club meetings.



The National Contesters Association are a group of people whose hobby is winning contest money and prizes. They work hard at it by learning angles which most casual entrants don't know. They meet to exchange ideas, experiences and information on the contest circuit.

The contests Mrs. Garner enjoys most are those requiring creativity — writing a slogan, jingle or essay, usually about a home or consumer product or creating a recipe.

She looks disdainfully, however, at sweepstakes, even though she has entered many of them and won some. The difference between a contest and sweepstakes is that a contest involves skill; sweepstakes winners are randomly selected.

"In the good old days, you used to be able to fill in a word, create a slogan or write something. It was more fun to win something that you felt you had actually earned," she said.

"But when you enter a sweepstakes, you take your name and throw it in a box," she lamented, leaving most of your fate to luck.

With years of successful contesting experience behind her, Mrs. Garner said her secret to success is a mixture of common sense, knowledge of the English language and mastery of some basic skills about contesting.

"The secret is writing what the contest sponsors want to hear," said Mrs. Garner. "Use plain, everyday English . . . tell them something to make them happy. If I can't say something nice about them, I won't write it," she said. She made a soap company happy enough to give her $100 for a jingle that said: "I'm glad I use Dial — For it's my contention — There's truth in the adage — 'An ounce of prevention. . .'"

If it's a skill contest requiring writing, said Mrs. Garner, "I am going to buy it (the product) and use it so I can find out something about it," she said. She does not buy products involved in sweepstakes contests.

Mrs. Garner said recipe contests are "the big thing right now." She admits she doesn't enjoy cooking and "makes up" recipes. She once won $50 from Ladies Home Journal in a recipe contest.

Mrs. Garner has kept at her contesting hobby for many years because she said it keeps her mind alert and it has "paid off."

Right now, she has "sworn off" entering sweepstakes. How long will that last?

"Probably another week or two," she admitted. Such "swearings off" usually don't last long, she said.

"You don't win for a month; then you swear off, like an alcoholic. Then you get a prize," she said, "and you're right at it again!"

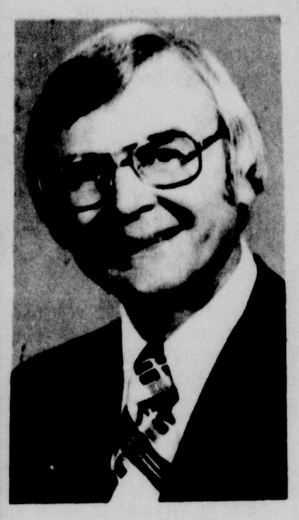
Homosexuality



By The REV. DR. ARTHUR C. FULBRIGHT

Homosexual activity is a rebellion against God (Romans 1:26-32). There is no evidence whatever of any genetic or hormonal causes for homosexuality. Homosexuality is a "socially learned process" that can develop in a boy when the mother is frustrated and allies with the son against the father, the mother wanted a daughter or the boy is rejected by girls in his peer group.

Homosexuals are no more neurotic or psychotic than heterosexuals and homosexuality is not a mental illness. The only real distinction between homosexuals and heterosexuals is a non-voluntary sexual orientation resulting from a complex set of learning factors. The vast majority of males fall somewhere on a graded scale between homosexual and heterosexual and are therefore ambisexual in varying degrees of intensity.

Therefore, homosexual feelings cannot be condemned though homosexual activity should be. It is possible, however difficult, to change one's predominant sexual response pattern.

Our society is going through a period of profound cultural unrest and open moral degeneration. The propaganda for a homosexual life style is part of this moral unrest.

The universal Christian Church must renew its dedication to uphold God's high standards of purity, to feel compassion for men and women trapped by their own sins, and to go out into our society with a message of hope and salvation in Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour. Like Jesus did - we should go where sinners are and there bring God's judgment and healing grace. Homosexuals are not freaks or strange creatures in a world of straights (heterosexuals). They are human beings, made in God's image, people to whom God's message comes in exactly the same way it comes to all of us.

Homosexuals must not be left with a stern word of condemnation from a distant and repulsed body of people called the Church; instead they must be faced with a Church, with Christians, with a God who reaches out to bless even through condemnation.

What's the law?

The case of the empty restaurant

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

The menu at Luigi's elegant restaurant included everything but customers. The restaurant was located in a shopping center, and Luigi's fellow tenants attracted patrons as if they were giving away merchandise instead of just selling it. The result, insisted Luigi, was that there was hardly enough space available in the shopping center' parking lot for any of his potential customers.

With an eerie atmosphere prevailing over his empty restaurant, Luigi took his landlord to court, where he demanded that his landlord be ordered to provide him with his fair share o the available parking space.

"Since there are 10 stores in the shopping center," he told the judge, "I'm entitled to 10 of the parking spots as a matter of simple arithmetic and plain justice."

"It's also plain loco," responded the landlord. "What Luigi wants is that I should become a parking lot attendant and divert traffic. But I'm not a traffic cop -- I'm a landlord. And I'm not going to get involved in that great American pastime of fighting for parking spots."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require that Luigi's reluctant landlord provide the eerie restaurant with reserved parking spaces?

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that the usual business understanding with regard to parking in shopping centers, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, is that every tenant is equally entitled to the use of all parking spaces int he shopping center parking lot.

What's the law?

The case of the empty restaurant

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

The menu at Luigi's elegant restaurant included everything but customers. The restaurant was located in a shopping center, and Luigi's fellow tenants attracted patrons as if they were giving away merchandise instead of just selling it. The result, insisted Luigi, was that there was hardly enough space available in the shopping center' parking lot for any of his potential customers.

With an eerie atmosphere prevailing over his empty restaurant, Luigi took his landlord to court, where he demanded that his landlord be ordered to provide him with his fair share o the available parking space.

"Since there are 10 stores in the shopping center," he told the judge, "I'm entitled to 10 of the parking spots as a matter of simple arithmetic and plain justice."

"It's also plain loco," responded the landlord. "What Luigi wants is that I should become a parking lot attendant and divert traffic. But I'm not a traffic cop -- I'm a landlord. And I'm not going to get involved in that great American pastime of fighting for parking spots."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require that Luigi's reluctant landlord provide the eerie restaurant with reserved parking spaces?

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that the usual business understanding with regard to parking in shopping centers, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, is that every tenant is equally entitled to the use of all parking spaces int he shopping center parking lot.

Mel Couldn't Talk Plain, So He Sang

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures

Mel Tillis is debating about whether to read a book which claims to explain how to cure stuttering.

Mel Tillis is a country singer. He is also a stutterer who appears, of all unlikely places, on TV talk shows. "As a matter of fact, about 70 per cent of my audience is a TV audience," Tillis says. "I haven't had the monster records a lot of others have."

It turns out later in the conversation, though, that Tillis was being too modest. He says, "In the last eight or nine years every record I've had has been a top 10 record in the country field." "Good Woman Blues," his next to latest single release, was No. 1 on the country chart of best sellers. And his current single, "Heart Healer," was No. 2 and climbing on March 12. His MCA album, "Heart Healer," was No. 26 and climbing. Of course, country records don't usually sell as lavishly as pop records.

The first time Tillis was on a national talk show was about eight years ago. He says "It was the Mike Douglas Show. Jimmie Dean was cohost. He got me to do the show. It was a strange experience since I'm not a very good talker.

"I was very, very apprehensive. And I was so excited I bought me a brand new guitar. I took it with me and when I got up for rehearsal I opened the guitar case and it didn't have any strings on it. Jimmie Dean laughed and laughed about that.

"They got quite a bit of mail asking about the boy who stuttered. They asked me to come back and I've been on the show about 15 times. Talk show people don't know much about stuttering and they think maybe I can fill them in on it."

Tillis has stuttered since he had malaria when he was 3. He says stuttering and stammering usually begin when the person is very young and just learning to talk.

Asked about the effect of stuttering on his life, Tillis says, "I was sort of withdrawn. I wouldn't be outspoken." He adds:

"Since things have happened the way they have, on the talk shows, it has helped me to enjoy life a whole lot more and it also gives hope for other people who stutter.

"The more I'm on stage and the more money I make and the less dependent on others I become, the less I stutter." Tillis doesn't know whether he wants to be entirely free of his stutter. "There was an article in a newspaper about the person who'd written a book about a cure for stuttering. Someone mailed me the article and I told my secretary to order the book. It's in my briefcase. I've picked it up and I've looked at it. I've debated about reading it or not."

MEL TILLIS

When Tillis sings, he doesn't stutter. He aspired to a singing career, he says, "Because I couldn't hold a job if it had any talking in it." One early job was as a train fireman. "One of the duties is to call out the signals that are up ahead of you — the lights. You check the engineer to make sure he's awake. You say 'red' and if he's alert he'll answer 'red.'

"The signals were four or five miles behind in those days before I could get the word 'red' out, so I lost that job."

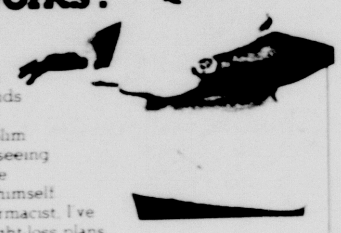
Pharmacist has "tried them all..." ...discovers weight control program that really works!



Pharmacist Dan Smith of Burger's Drug Store in St. Charles, Illinois is a NaturSlim "believer" after losing 18 pounds in just two weeks. After hearing so much about the NaturSlim program from customers and seeing the excellent results they were having, Dan decided to try it himself.

"In my many years as a pharmacist, I've seen and tried numerous weight loss plans, but none have worked as well for me as NaturSlim. And NaturSlim is very nutritional too!"

After three months, Dan has not regained any of the lost pounds either, as so often happens when "rebounding" from starvation diet plans. He maintains his weight by taking NaturSlim once daily . . . and eating normally otherwise.

Dan says, "It was surprisingly easy, too! I didn't have to attend any weight ins, starve myself or do any special exercises."

With the NaturSlim program, there are no shots, drugs or long lists of forbidden foods. In fact, you are encouraged to eat a normal, well balanced dinner every day.

The next time you are in the St. Charles area, stop by Burger's Drugs and see Dan yourself. He'll tell you personally what he thinks about NaturSlim!

Mel Couldn't Talk Plain, So He Sang

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures

Mel Tillis is debating about whether to read a book which claims to explain how to cure stuttering.

Mel Tillis is a country singer. He is also a stutterer who appears, of all unlikely places, on TV talk shows. "As a matter of fact, about 70 per cent of my audience is a TV audience," Tillis says. "I haven't had the monster records a lot of others have."

It turns out later in the conversation, though, that Tillis was being too modest. He says, "In the last eight or nine years every record I've had has been a top 10 record in the country field." "Good Woman Blues," his next to latest single release, was No. 1 on the country chart of best sellers. And his current single, "Heart Healer," was No. 2 and climbing on March 12. His MCA album, "Heart Healer," was No. 26 and climbing. Of course, country records don't usually sell as lavishly as pop records.

The first time Tillis was on a national talk show was about eight years ago. He says "It was the Mike Douglas Show. Jimmie Dean was cohost. He got me to do the show. It was a strange experience since I'm not a very good talker.

"I was very, very apprehensive. And I was so excited I bought me a brand new guitar. I took it with me and when I got up for rehearsal I opened the guitar case and it didn't have any strings on it. Jimmie Dean laughed and laughed about that.

"They got quite a bit of mail asking about the boy who stuttered. They asked me to come back and I've been on the show about 15 times. Talk show people don't know much about stuttering and they think maybe I can fill them in on it."

Tillis has stuttered since he had malaria when he was 3. He says stuttering and stammering usually begin when the person is very young and just learning to talk.

Asked about the effect of stuttering on his life, Tillis says, "I was sort of withdrawn. I wouldn't be outspoken." He adds:

"Since things have happened the way they have, on the talk shows, it has helped me to enjoy life a whole lot more and it also gives hope for other people who stutter.

"The more I'm on stage and the more money I make and the less dependent on others I become, the less I stutter." Tillis doesn't know whether he wants to be entirely free of his stutter. "There was an article in a newspaper about the person who'd written a book about a cure for stuttering. Someone mailed me the article and I told my secretary to order the book. It's in my briefcase. I've picked it up and I've looked at it. I've debated about reading it or not."

Motor fuel use remains record high

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri motorists continue to consume a record amount of fuel this year, using more than 255.1 million gallons in June, according to figures released today by the state Revenue Department.

It was the third straight month that fuel consumption hit record levels. The June usage was more than nine million gallons above the previous record for that month set last year.

Total usage for the first half of the year was nearly 1.4 billion gallons, more than three per cent higher than in the first half of 1976.

Fuel tax revenues were up more than $650,000 for the month compared to a year ago with total receipts for the first six months of the year at more than $98 million, about $3 million ahead of 1976.

Four State capitals are named after Presidents of the U.S. They are: Jackson, Miss.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Lincoln, Nebr.; and Madison, Wisconsin.

Tim Ward

Tim Ward gets college scholarship

Timothy R. Ward has been awarded an academic college scholarship from the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri-Columbia.

He is the son of Mr. & Mrs. John E. Ward of Route Four Sikeston. He will attend the fall semester and plans to major in agri-business and computer programming.

Ward was a member of the 1977 graduating class of Sikeston High School. While attending high school he participated in basketball and track.

To be eligible for the scholarship, Ward had to rank in the upper one-third of his class.

Armed forces

Alan W. Childers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska – Sgt. Alan W. Childers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Childers of Sikeston, Mo., has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal. A citation accompanying the award said Sgt. Childers "distinguished himself by meritorious service as a law enforcement specialist while assigned to the 21st Security Police Squadron at Elmendorf Air Force Base in Alaska."

Childers and his wife, Terri, live in Anchorage.

Starlings, sparrows and Japanese beetles are among the major agricultural pests in the United States which have come from foreign lands. However, the North American muskrat overran Europe and the European rabbit nearly ruined Australia, reports National Geographic.

Prince Valiant

by HAL FOSTER

Our Story: CONFIDENT THAT ALETA WILL SEND THE SHIP HE REQUESTED, VAL AGAIN TRAVELS THE ROCKY ROAD FROM JERUSALEM TO JAFFA.

BUT AT THE SHIPPING OFFICE AT JAFFA, HE FINDS A NOTE FROM ALETA SAYING THERE IS SOME TROUBLE AT THE BEIRUT AGENCY THAT SHE MUST ATTEND TO IMMEDIATELY.

THERE, SHE HEARS TIDINGS OF REAL TROUBLE. KHAZAN II, WARLORD OF THE PERSIANS, IS HUNGRY FOR POWER AND IS MARCHING HIS ARMY TOWARD THE LEVANT.

QUEEN ALETA ENLISTS A SMALL ARMY OF WARRIORS FOR PROTECTION ON THE JOURNEY TO THE COAST.

BETWEEN THE TIGRIS AND EUPHRATES RIVERS, KHAZAN CAMPS AND SENDS OUT HIS SCOUTS. ALL WESTERN ASIA TREMBLES, FOR THEY KNOW NOT WHICH WAY HE WILL TURN. TOWARD EGYPT AND ALEXANDRIA, OR NORTH TOWARD CONSTANTINOPLE?

EACH MORNING HE REVIEWS THE NEW RECRUITS THAT ARE COMING IN. TO PAY THEM, HE MUST CONQUER SOME RICH WALLED CITY, ELSE THEY TURN AGAINST HIM.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc., 1977. World rights reserved.

WAIT A MINUTE! HOW CAN I BE THINKING WHAT I'M THINKING ?

IT'S STRICTLY KIDS' STUFF TO SQUIRT SOMEBODY WITH A HOSE

WHAT KIND OF A NEIGHBOR WOULD DO A THING LIKE THAT?

I'M ASHAMED OF MYSELF FOR EVEN THINKING OF IT

NO, SIR··· I'M NOT GONNA SQUIRT HIM WITH THIS HOSE

WELL, I'M GLAD I REACHED A MATURE, RESPONSIBLE DECISION

OH, WHAT THE HECK!

PONYTAIL ◦◦ BY LEE HOLLEY

DEAR HELOISE:

Let me share with you the word about my tree. About 10 years ago I was going to have a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be. I found, in a variety store, a lovely piece of white driftwood about 30 inches in height.

The contractor on a building job nearby was kind enough to give me some concrete mix, into which I set my tree, propping it very carefully so it would be straight when the concrete set. That tree can never fall over or pull out — it is set forever!

On it, I hung such needed items (especially needed by a brand-new housekeeper) as colorful plastic measuring cups, measuring spoons, a really good paring knife, a knee-action peeler, a melon-baller, an egg beater, pink, blue and yellow sponges (tied tightly in the middle to make butterflies), all tied on with pink baby ribbon, each one on a separate branch.

Then I taped a small cluster of artificial flowers on each branch tip, with a tiny umbrella right at the tip-top of the tree (since it was a "shower").

The tree was set in the middle of my buffet and when the packages were opened my present was a note telling the bride that the contents of the tree were hers to take with her. I even let her keep the tree intact (at her request) until after the wedding, as she wanted it to be displayed with her gifts. It really was a big hit!

I have used this same tree in the same way for other kitchen showers and for several stork showers. Same umbrella, same tiny flowers, but with such gifts as bootees, socks, safety pins, a rattle, soft washcloths — almost anything light enough in weight to hang on a little tree.

Oh yes, I even hung a packet of thank-you notes.

Always my tree was a big hit — and it still can be used again and again.

and hang on the wall with nails.

I have two hanging in my son's room. One is divided in two sections for his books, and one divided in four sections for his little cars.

It is hung within his reach so he can get what he wants and put it back when finished.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's one I haven't seen in your column but has saved me leaving church in the midst of the service.

If all of a sudden I wonder if I have cut off all the burners on my range, I check my purse because I have started putting a note in my pocketbook "you did cut off the burners on the range."

TARDY GIFTS

DEAR HELOISE:

There are times you will order a gift from a mail-order house and find out that the gift is going to arrive late.

Instead of spoiling the surprise and giving the reason for the delay, just cut out the picture from the catalog and wrap it as a present.

Put the picture in any size box — make it fun and it will be a surprise, and you won't be empty handed at gift giving time.

HELEN'S BACK SAVER

DEAR HELOISE:

To clean embossed floor tile, just use the carpet brushes on the electric scrubber.

I use my regular cleaner and the tile looks like new when rewaxed. I don't have to use too much elbow grease either.

I had back surgery so had to come up with some way of cleaning since I have a 4-year-old to help me bring in sand and grit...

JUST FOR TOTS

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have an old snack tray holder, one with the handle the same width as the legs, take the trays off and you have a really nice place to hang all your young children's clothes.

They can reach the hangers too.

Mrs. Sue Shadwick

PICTURE THIS!

DEAR HELOISE:

I've a suggestion for you. Cut out the pretty little illustrated drawings from a magazine or newspaper and get some cardboard or anything else that would make a nice frame.

Now glue the drawing, with its nice saying, on your frame and hang them up.

They make lovely inexpensive pictures.

CLIP THE MITTENS

DEAR HELOISE:

A little hint I find useful. I wear rubber gloves when washing dishes, but where to hang them to dry?

For this solution I glued two pinch-type clothespins on the inside of a cabinet door. Fold back the tops of the gloves and pin on the door until the gloves are needed again.

This works well in the garage for garden gloves too.

FOR THE BIRDS

DEAR HELOISE:

When trussing any fowl, I use safety pins instead of skewers or sewing with string.

I use different sizes of pins for different sizes of birds. Simple, and the pins are easy to wash.

Helen

LET US TRY IT!

DEAR HELOISE:

When using half or a portion of your lettuce or any leafy greens, wrap it first in paper toweling. This absorbs the moisture and keeps your lettuce from turning brown on the edges, which causes waste.

Then place the lettuce in a plastic bag in the refrigerator.

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Tree is missing. 2. Mirror is missing. 3. Moon is moved. 4. Bottle is missing. 5. Window is different. 6. Baby's arm is moved.

BULLETIN BOARD

●GREAT DAY! Today was the tomorrow of yesterday, right? So today is the yesterday of tomorrow, no? You decide, if you can.

●A dollar bill's frame has a perimeter of 20". If the frame's length is 1" more than twice its width, what are its dimensions?

Three by seven inches.

●Super Snooper! Decode the following mixture of figures and letters: 50-I-5-E AN-500 50-ET 50-I-5-E. What is the message?

Live and let live (subbing Roman numerals for numbers).

●Tongue Teasers! Repeat as fast as you can, several times: Big blue beautiful bubbles. Crisp-fried catfish. "Me a mama! Mamma mia!"

A CONUNDRUM in the literal sense is a riddle based on the similarity or dissimilarity of two things. See if you can discover the answer to this conundrum poem published in the '20s:

The hoisting rope

It dropped its rider, Jock McCrae,
Six fathoms down the well.
But when they'd set his broken toe
And dislocated
Why did he say his fall had been, "A
